Aloha Board Members,

I support the BWS preferred action to remove the Haiku Stairs. The alternatives proposed are not viable and the situation with illegal hikers will continue without the stairs removal. Social media and the overwhelming desire of thrill seekers or bucket list individuals to hike the stairs regardless of any organization's good intentions to manage the site responsibly will fail. Even in this time of social distancing because of the COVID-19 situation, groups of people still go up the stairs despite HPD's presence and their efforts to stop them. Just this morning two groups, one with 5 people and another with 3 (that I saw), came out of the culvert having hiked the stairs. This will not change with another organization managing the stairs and will only get worse once we are past the current COVID-19 restrictions. Rules, fines, and other admonitions do not work with the hikers that are intent on going up the stairs now and managed access is not a going to either. Visitors from out of state and local residents that want to go up on a particular day will not abide by a system that limits their ability to go up when it fits their timetable.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide input and urge you to remove the stairs as soon as possible.

Mahalo,
Gary Karr

I am opposed to the BWS keeping the stairs under their jurisdiction. I don't see how the City can afford to take it on, but I certainly do not think the BWS has the money or the manpower to maintain the stairs. This was their "excuse" for closing the Nuuanu reservoir to fishing (which was enjoyed more by local families) years ago and I am sure the legal costs for hikers injured during their forays has not diminished since then...at the continuing cost to the public.

Representing all the Spaniards who have been fortunate enough to enjoy the experience of climbing the haiku stairs and the other people who ask me every day in my work or in Spanish travel agencies about going to Hawaii with the interest and the only purpose of living that experience, I would like for a moment that you stop to think about the negative impact regarding the decrease in tourism that the elimination of stairs could have since it is a tourist attraction to live that experience and the vast majority of tourists they would choose and make the decision to enjoy their holidays in other countries. I fully understand and put myself in the situation of all those neighbors who live in the immediate vicinity of the start of the stairs and I also understand the cost of maintaining a guard and even the displacement of police if required, but I also understand and know that There are other alternatives which benefit both parties and for which an agreement could be reached.

My proposal is the following:

Opening hours: 07:00

Closing hours 17:00

With this schedule they would not disturb the tourists nor would they make noise during hours of rest.

Capacity limited to 4 people for every half hour, that is, 8 people an hour and a total of 80 people a day.

All this by registering on the website and limited to the first 80 people who register on the day.

Registration price: $ 50 / person, this price is symbolic, I am sure that there would be tourists and hikers who would be willing to pay 100, 200 and even $ 300 to live this experience.

If we make calculations with $ 50 / person a month we would be talking about $ 120,000 / month, a year $ 1440000 and that counting that they would only pay $ 50, with this collection you could perfectly pay a guard for the access control of the registered people and it would also give for the salary of a security for the neighborhood after hours that it was open so it would guarantee and control that nobody bothers at other hours and there is more tranquility on the part of the neighbors, you could even put another person working as maintenance cleaning of the neighborhood since the collection of money from all tourists is very high.

I hope your understanding and value our proposal.

Many thanks. A greeting.

Date: Sunday, April 26, 2020 11:21:49 PM

The Haiku Stairs were never intended for the kind of usage they have seen, in part because of social media. Built without the right site infrastructure (parking, restrooms, etc.) that a park needs, they have become a major hassle to the homeowners in this area.

The cost of refurbishing them will be enormous, at a time when the state cannot afford another boondoggle.

The cost of insurance against lawsuits will be prohibitive. And lawsuits are likely to proliferate, as social media postings will continue to tout its worthiness as another must-visit.

The likelihood of enforcement of those who violate the rules for access is just about nil. The state has never been good at enforcement; why should/would this be different?

Access to this attractive nuisance is likely to be advocated for by groups. But those groups won't be paying the bills! Hawaii's taxpayers don't need another attractive nuisance to spend tax dollars on, especially as we as a state face major budgetary shortfalls with HART, underfunded pension funds, unemployment benefits, and more.

Take them down! and soon!

I am strongly opposed to removing the Haiku Stairs. They are a beautiful asset to the state of Hawaii. A transfer of ownership of the relevant properties to another entity that would carefully and responsibly manage the access, should be easily done, and would make everyone happy. The Friends of Haiku Stairs, and others in these comments, have proposed several excellent and perfectly feasible scenarios to preserve and maintain the Stairs for everyone to enjoy. These scenarios have been on the table for years; I don't know why one of them has not already been accomplished years ago. It would be incredibly wasteful and irresponsible to just destroy for no good reason the outstanding Stairs, put in place at great cost. It is terrifically frustrating to contemplate that people are even thinking of doing so. Please keep the Stairs and open it up to the public!

The Haiku stairs are a piece of Hawaiian history. It would be a great tragedy to see the iconic trail known and loved by so many torn apart. Please let the stairs be so my baby daughter's generation and many generations to come can someday love and appreciate this treasure as we have.

To whom it may concern,

my name is Christin Jahn, I'm from Germany and I've been wanting to visit Hawaii for a few years now. For me a visit would include going to the haiku stairway. I've seen so many beautiful photos and videos of it and I would love to experice it on my own, just like so many other people want to do that. I get that the stairway it kind of dangerous but so many people would be disappointed if the stairs get removed, so I am totally against the removal!

I was lucky enough to do this hike decades ago and it was a wonderful way to experience the beauty and frailty of Oahu's ecosystem.

Safer and less (environmentally) impactful than helicopter tours. Healthy outdoor activity for visitors and residents alike.

It should include accommodations for parking, donations, and maybe volunteer sign-in. Residential neighbors need to be considered so the experience lacks conflict.

A very good use of tax dollars that will benefit everyone if done properly.

Date: Sunday, April 26, 2020 6:33:09 PM

Hi there, I learned recently this is where to send feedback on my thoughts about the Haiku stairs. Please find attached and read my letter from 2017. I feel just as strongly now as I did then.

If the stairs are destroyed, it will mean taking something amazing from us - taking some of the best views from the community and the world.

If you ask yourselves why people continue to risk arrest, injury, and even death to catch glimpses from these stairs, the answer is clear: they have some of the best views on all of Oahu, Hawaii, the US, and perhaps even the world.

I understand the complexity of trying to get these stairs to an entity who can manage them and give them the attention they deserve. But, please, do not let red tape and organizational charter take precedence over natural beauty and the interest of the islands.

The Haiku stairs could and should be a "must do" on Oahu, one that rightfully focuses on the natural beauty instead of fancy hotels and boutique shopping. Please let this piece of our legacy continue.

Hi there -

I'm sure I'm but one of the many many comments I'm sure you'll receive on this issue, and I'm not usually much of an activist, but I really wanted to be sure to try and have my voice heard on this particular issue.

This looks to be one of the prettiest hikes in all of Hawaii, and you know that's saying something. I can't say for sure because unlike so many people, I decided to respect the law and not attempt the climb in the hopes it would one day reopen. But though I am sure the countless pictures and stories online don't do it justice, even those are breathtaking. This has been at the top of my list even when I first dreamed of travelling to Hawaii, and it would mean the world to me to be able to do it one day.

You can tell how amazing this treasure is by just how many people are willing to brave fines to try and experience it. Almost everyone I know who lives on the island has either attempted to climb it or has several friends who have.

Another reason to preserve what we have is that projects of the scale of constructing the steps are extremely hard. They came about under the military, who had high budgets, extensive land rights, and little need for approvals. Now that they're here, we have the results of a momentous endeavor. But can you imagine trying to secure the land rights, money, environmental and cultural approvals, etc. to do anything like this today?

If you tear them down, once they're gone, there is no going back. The amount of effort, money, and oversight it would take to ever reconstruct these or do any sort of similar-scale project is likely beyond any hope of becoming reality. You'll be removing them from us forever.

There's sort of a poetic element to its history, too. How often does military infrastructure yield such a stunning natural experience?

Please don't destroy such a landmark. Whether it stays under your management, a private company, or another governmental organization, please do what it takes to do the right thing and retain public access to this beautiful, wonderful experience.

I for one would gladly pay an admission fee, as would my family. Even if it were $15, $20, even more, I know we would. That's $100+ a year just from us, and I'm sure the visitors each year would number in the thousands. Let's say you got even 1% of the 5 million visitors to Oahu each year. That's 50,000 people. Set the fee at $15, and that's $750,000 earned in a single year...which should cover maintenance, staffing, and upkeep of the stairs. (Honestly, that is a VERY conservative estimate, too, considering the Polynesian cultural center draws nearly a million visitors a year, and even Matsumoto's over 300,000) Someone should be able to make that break even, or more likely, very profitable.

Put another way, $750k is almost as much as it cost to refurbish them in 2003-2005, earned every single year. It's clearly better than the $170k liability BWS has now. If you made it profitable, you could even consider putting the money back into the system and reducing water costs for all of us. It would be great to use your assets as a way to bring costs down for consumers and businesses, even though running the stairs is not your core business.

I do not know why city council did not approve the transfer to DPR in 2005. Without knowing that information, it would be difficult to say what the best solution is, but reopening the stairs via DPR seems from the outside like the ideal outcome. Reopening the stairs via a private entity or another community organization would also be a happy outcome.

Whatever works, my biggest goal is that they be preserved. That seems like the result that is in the best interest of everyone, and makes use of a wonderful experience instead of destroying it.

One example of a different but related situation I remember from my time in San Francisco was Camp Mather, which used to be owned by San Francisco's water department and used for workers. When it was no longer necessary, rather than divesting itself of this valuable asset, they turned it into an asset for the community via their own DPR. I'm not sure if that's useful in your case, but it certainly made me proud of my community at the time.

One only needs to Google image search "Haiku stairs" to realize how much of a mistake removing this landmark would be.

You have an opportunity to reopen one of the landmarks of the island and make a prime experience for both locals and visitors. It demonstrates the natural beauty of our island in a phenomenal way. Please, do whatever it takes to keep this around.

-Chris

Date: Sunday, April 26, 2020 10:47:54 AM

My name is Paul Epstein and I STRONGLY SUPPORT a decision to remove the Haiku Stairs. I worked in the BWS security office for approximately two years.

Reasons for removal;

- Stairs are presently under the jurisdiction of the BWS.
- Clearly should not be a BWS responsibility.
- In 2003, the stairs were repaired costing the city $875,000.
- To repair the stairs in 2003 the city had a plan.
- The plan was never carried out.
- The plan was unrealistic.
- The plan identified various sites for managed access.
- None of the sites identified by the city plan wanted to be the entry/exit managed access points.
- As of today's date, 4-26-20, seventeen (17) since the repairs, nothing has been resolved.
- As of today's date land usage rights issues have not been resolved.
- Stairs have deteriorated since repairs due to landslides.
- BWS spends approximately $160,000 a year to pay for security guards in an effort to deter hikers.
- HPD cites trespassers.
- Prosecutors office charges trespassers.
- Court convicts trespassers.
- Residents living near stairs victims of trespassing by illegal hikers.

In conclusion, no plan has been enacted regarding access to the stairs because no managed entry plan is workable. There are no entities that will be responsible to become an access point.

Therefore the plan should be to remove the stairs.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on this final environmental impact statement.

Hello, my name is Cory Heide from Canada! The stairway to heaven or haiku stairs is something I think Hawaii and there citizens should be very proud of! It was a hike for the ages. Me and my wife had the opportunity to climb them a year ago. It took a lot of convincing to get me on them. Mainly as I hate heights. But what I climb. To not only see the island from that high up. But to know the history of them and why they were built really put life in perspective. During the war having to climb them. It was very interesting. I hope you understand how special they are. It's a bucket list adventure, it's off the beaten path. We visited a lot of the other tourist sites. They were over crowded and to busy to really enjoy what Hawaii had to offer. Then we found out about these stairs. And I'm so glad we did, we got to see and feel what makes Hawaii so special. The beautiful land scape, the people everything about it is something I'll never forgot. It would be awesome to be able to do it again. I understand that the stairs are not cheap to maintain. If I had to, I'd pay to climb them. Having a lottery system where only a certain amount could climb a day, would help the popularity of the stairs not die and would be easier to maintain. I believe they have less impact on the environment over the legal back way. As there is less erosion do to people walking on the stairs and not the ground. And wrecking the bush and forestry as they can't do to the metal railing. In the end I want to thank you Hawaii and it's Citizens for an experience I'll never forgot and hope to experience again. I hope you guys find it in your hearts to keep the stairs. To allow people the experience I got, to become one with Hawaii.

I don't think the hard work of building this landmark should ever be undone. It seems counterproductive to take a simple solution as removing the stairs. Perhaps reserving a time, signing a waiver, and a donation should be required before entering. I know the local residents are not happy, but perhaps a solution could be found that works for everyone. This is a legendary place to see and I think it should be treasured!

The stairs are a great asset to Hawaii and they are world renowned. Removing them will negatively effect Hawaii in a big way and also endanger the lives of many who will still attempt to climb the mountain the 'legal' way. Please keep the stairs and use them as a tourist attraction where they become well maintained and safe again! Regards, Adam.

The stairs are an engineering marvel that is a historical property that shows some of the most beautiful aspects of Oahu's land. Things that are as so amazing and breathtaking as the stairs should be preserved for generations to come. Tearing down the stairs would be the most ignorant and ungrateful solution to something that is one of the most amazing wonders in the world. Don't reck such a iconic and amazing landmark it is part of this island and should remain!!!

This is a place and a monument that is treasured by so many. It is a place where people feel connected to Nature and the wonders of the earth. In a time like this where people aren't able to leave their homes and experience the world as usual, the idea of tearing down this magical place is devastating. People from Hawaii and around the world travel to this destination for its beauty and it's wonder. To take away that magic would be a tragedy.

As a hiker I supported the C&C expenditure to rebuild the stairs under Mayor Harris. It was u set Mayor Hannemann's tenure that he flat out shut them down due to access. Mainly because one of his staff lived by the trail head. Well welcome to real life on Oahu. ALL trails start in s neighborhood. Use the money allocated to tearing them down to find an alternate access route. Thank you.

The Haiku Stairs are a unique entity in all the world. Their care and maintenance would be graciously provided by numerous individuals and hiking groups on Oahu, if only it was allowed. It would be shortsighted and an absolute shame to see them removed simply because BoWS couldn't figure out the liability issue. There are many ways they could be monetized and self-sustaining, if only someone with the foresight to do so was willing to put in the effort. Auwe, Board of Water Supply for even thinking of removing something so rare and precious. The stairs should be preserved for future generations.

The stairs are known worldwide and bring so much tourism to Hawaii. The steel stairs protect the mountain from the footsteps of hikers so the integrity of the mountain does not erode. Many people unfortunately get injured or have lost their lives hiking the "legal" foottrail of the mountain. Making the stairs legal will keep hikers safe, AND will help with keeping the surrounding communities private. If there is a designated start point to the hike, local residents will not have to worry about intruders going through their property to access it. A lot of money can be saved by making the stairs legal because security will not have to be hired to watch over the base of the mountain. There are NUMEROUS ways to work together to address the concerns of the communities, save money, AND keep the stairs!! Please consider these other options. Aloha.

Ha'ikū Stairs is one of the safest ridge trail hikes in Hawai'i. If we manage access and make it safer to hike, it will create an unparalleled recreational experience to be enjoyed by both locals and tourists. Ha'ikū Stairs is an important historic site and must be preserved. Ha'ikū Stairs is a unique, world-class attraction. It would be a tragedy to remove it.

The stairs great and they are a part of the wonderful image and tourism of Hawaii as a whole, and the island of Oahu individually. You even see them when driving on H3, which is great! I believe it is important that they are kept up and NOT torn down. Maybe even one day, if enough money from the budget can be allocated, they can be updated.

The staircase is historic and a national treasure and it is a spiritual treasure beyond words. I hiked these stairs back in 2017 for my 30th birthday. This was the most incredible, transformative and life changing experience for me!!! But most importantly I felt safe climbing them! Removing or relocating the stairs will not stop people from climbing and instead people will climb to Pu'ukeahiakahoe via a hazardous route (Moanalua Valley Trail). I strongly believe that the Haiku Stairs should be restored oppose to removed. The Haiku Stairs aka Stairway to Heaven needs to be saved and not destroyed! Please SAVE THE STAIRS AND REPAIR THEM! DO NOT REMOVE!

Im french so my testimony wont be super long. To me, the stairs represent hawaii. Taking them off would significate that hawaii dont respect the past of the island and also that they dont understand millions of hikers who would pay to hike this and feel the hapiness of the moutain. Please dont do this. Theres way to make everyone happy and remove the stairs is not the one.

There is so much history here. Why wouldn't the state want to renovate the stairs & make a healthy profit from tourism. Hiking in nature is a beautiful thing. I think these officials who want to take this down should hike it first and see what a sunrise or sunset actually feels like. The beauty of it is breathtaking. Do not tear down something amazing. Make it at your own risk to hike. Thank you. Please don't tear it down. Let us live and hike.

My grandfather was in the army and was stationed at Schofield prior to and during World War II. Those stairs are an important part of history and should not be removed. If they are removed people will never get the opportunity to walk in the steps of the people who fought to protect us and be remembered. It erases a part of history that needs to be remembered. The removal of history is tragic, and unfortunately happens all too often.

To the Board, As a Canadian traveller, visiting Oahu was top on the list not only for the beautiful landscapes, lush foliage, (Aloha spirit!), and beautiful beaches, but the rich history your island has to offer. One of our favourite parts of our trip was hiking to all of the abandoned bunkers, Pearl Harbour, and Kailua Ranch, and most especially, the Haiku Stairs. Every time we drove by them on both of our visits, my jaw dropped in awe at the very sight, and thinking about all of the navy men who would access the radio tower at the top on a daily basis would leave much the imagination about what life was like in 1942. When I heard the stairs were in jeopardy of being torn down, my heart broke. It would be such a tragedy to see such an incredible piece of history destroyed. The stairs have such an incredible mystique and appeal to so many. I understand there are concerns with residents over access, as well as liabilities due to the structure in itself, but feel strongly that a investment of managed access would draw so much to the Hawaiian economy and fill so many hearts of willful hikers that want to catch one of the best views this planet has to offer. #SaveTheStairs !! Thank you for your time, Allie Sigmundson.

When I think of Hawai'i and all of the beautiful hikes that we are lucky to have on this island, Ha'ikū Stairs always comes to mind. I have not been able to do this hike yet because it has been illegal, however, it has been on my bucket list and one that I hope to be able to complete, safely and under legal guidelines in the future. I hope that the trail will be able to have managed access so we can provide this amazing and healthy recreational and education activity for current and future generations in Hawai'i. Compared to a lot of the other ridge trails on Oahu, I believe Haiku stairs can be one of the safer trails given the stairs and there is nothing like it anywhere in the world. Please do not remove the Haiku Stairs and instead, allow the hiking community of the island to establish a way to maintain the trail and manage access so this unbelievable historic site can be preserved and enjoyed by all.

The haiku stairs are a part of our history. Not only does the top offer a truly unique view of our beautiful home (one I have never seen), but the stairs also offer a peak into the past and the innovation that makes Hawaii special. The fact that we were able to build such a strong radar using our natural landscape is rare, and brilliant. The stairs are not only a part of hawaii's history, they are a part of mine. My grandfather is the engineer who designed the stairs as we know them now. He grew up in Kailua, was a teenager working as a civilian on that fateful day at Pearl Harbor, and immediately joined the Navy, where he was trained as an engineer. I can't tell you how proud I am to know that the stairs are part of our family legacy. No matter how we as Hawaiians feel about the military presence on our islands, I consider the stairs to be a gift that the Navy, and my Papa, left for us so we can constantly be reminded about how small we are when we stand on the Ko'olau and see the vast beauty of the place we are lucky to call home. Please do not remove the stairs. Thank you for taking my testimony

I am a native Hawaiian, born and raised on Oahu. I believe our lands are meant to be cherished and admired. Hawai'i is unlike anywhere in the world. As a child I remember driving with my parents down the highway, and after coming out of the tunnel always immediately looking up for the Haiku stairs! I always admired how amazing these stairs were, winding and crawling up the side of this majestic mountain, and I couldn't wait until I was old enough to climb them myself and witness the breathtaking view upon reaching the top. It is unlike any other experience to stand on top of a mountain like this one, and take in the natural beauty of this land. Now that I am an adult, I dream of one day being able to take my own keiki up the Haiku Stairs so that they too may be able to witness the beauty of Hawai'i. Please, do not remove the stairs. Do not remove this unique ability to witness and appreciate our aina. I believe the beauty of this land was meant to be cherished and shared.

I traveled to Oahu in 2018 specifically to hike the stairs. It was, and probably always will be, the best experience of my life. The removal of these stairs would be a travesty. If the stairs are removed, hikers will be left with an incredibly treacherous route to the top. Likely, the result will be a dramatic increase in calls to emergency services/search and rescue, and loss of life. The Haiku stairs will always hold a special place in my heart. I beg of you, please don't remove the stairs.

I don't believe that the haiku stairs should be torn down. Many people state that it is dangerous, yet there are people who live here who hike the stairs daily. The end of the Wiliwilinui Trail is as dangerous as stairway to heaven, yet it isn't in consideration that it should be closed. Many hikes in the Ko'olau mountains are even more dangerous than the stairs. The stairs aren't even dangerous; the deaths are so few compared to how many people have hiked it. People died hiking half dome yet they haven't shut it down! I can name countless trails that people have died on that are still open. The Haiku stairs is something that nowhere else in the world has. Why would we tear down a historic place like that? It would be better for a private company to take ownership of the stairs, and have guides bring people up there with the proper gear. Also, many people try to hike it "legally" by going the back way, but the back way is actually more dangerous. If you were hiking, would you rather be on stairs that are secure to the mountain or would you rather be sliding around in mud on the edge of a cliff? Please don't tear down the stairs because they bring joy to so many people. The state of Hawaii or a business could take ownership would result in making money and helping the economy here. Please take into consideration the amount of people who oppose the tear down of the stairs, and please listen to what they have to say :)

Removal of Ha'ikū Stairs WILL impact the availability of recreation opportunities on windward O'ahu and lots of people will miss the Stairs. Reopening the Stairs under managed access would provide unique, internationally recognised, educational, cultural, and recreational opportunities and save one of the world's top 10 best hikes on the National Geographic Endangered Trails list.

Please keep these stairs up - this place has saved so many lives and can save so many more. You take this journey and you forget all your inhibitions. You shed fears, you gain perspective, and you get your blood pumping and your heart rate up. This place encourages exercise and good health. It isn't just a landmark. It's a journey, a destination, and an accomplishment - it would be a shame to strip the world of this experience when so many more have yet to experience it and experience it again. Please don't remove the haiku stairs. Please. Thank you for reading my testimonial. I speak for many Canadians in Ontario. We love Hawaii. We love the Haiku Stairs. Thank you. Mahalo

The stairs are the safer way to hike a ridge that deserves to be appreciated, respected and observed by generations to come. Experiencing that connection with the island and nature is the only way we as humans can learn to fully connect and appreciate our planet. The current legal route exposes tourists and locals alike to a far more dangerous experience if the stairs are removed it would increase the number of rescues required.

I strongly oppose the removal of Haiku Stairs. Managed access can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. Ha'ikū Stairs is an important historic site and must be preserved. Ha'ikū Stairs is a unique, world-class attraction, with photos already posted on many social media platforms. It would be a tragedy to remove it and would disregard the hard work and dedication required for its installation. As a long-time Hawaii resident, I have always wanted to hike the Haiku Stairs but have respected the law against it. I've been waiting years for this issue to be resolved and it now looks like a win-win situation exists that should be implemented. Please do not remove the Haiku Stairs.

I am writing today to please ask that these stairs either remain as is or be renovated. I have been dreaming for years to visit this beautiful island and want some badly to see the stairs as a place where everyone could comment and enjoy the hike and the amazing views. I feel that if admission was charged for people to climb the stairs it would certainly pay for the renovations. It would be a great attraction that would draw people from all of the world to see. Please consider and thank you.

I want to just say I've only been to Hawaii once and I wanted so badly to climb the stairs, I didn't because I know it's illegal and I know people who live at the base dislike people doing that. It is my hope that one day I will be able to hike the stairs and hopefully we can fix them up so people can still experience the hike.

On behalf of myself and all of the other people who have not yet had the opportunity to experience the Haiku Stairs, please do not tear them down. After seeing my friends post their pictures of the stairs this summer, me and my family decided to plan a trip. Being able to walk these stairs is one of the items on my life long bucket list and I'm sure I'm speaking for many others when I say tearing these steps out would crush my dream. If the issue at hand is safety, then by all means please make improvements to the stairs, but please do not get rid of them completely. I have heard that these stairs are something incredible to experience and as someone who has been to 25+ countries and been traveling since she was 2 months old, this stairway has been at the top of my bucket list for as long as I can remember. I really appreciate your consideration to keep the stairs.
Sincerely, Annika

To whom it may concern, Haiku Stairs bring hope to people. I have been planning for two years to come back to Hawaii to do them. They let you be at peace with yourself and the world you look out at. I am sure there are other steps you can put in place to increase safety before completely removing them. They increase your tourism and I am on the first flight over there to do them once you welcome visitors again. Thank-you, Ashley words can not explain the internal transformation that occurred after hiking these stairs. Memories, friendships and connections were made that built my human spirit. Living in Colorado, I understand the importance of access to open space, mitigation of risks associated with complex outdoor terrains, and how access can make neighboring home owners upset. However, all things can be worked through. Funding can be appropriated to prioritize safety on the stairs and routes that lessen affect of noise and movement around the neighborhood. Hawaii, much like CO has a high percentage of tourism dollars. You are sitting on a Gold mine, people seek and know of these stairs. Use that. Humans seek challenge, adventure, fulfillment, nature and all things wild. Trails such as sacred falls had to be prohibited. These stairs do not.

The haiku stairs are an important historical sight in Hawaii. They should not be removed. There should be a commitment to maintaining and improving the integrity of the stairs and promoting it as a tourist activity within Hawaii. They have always been on my list of things to do in life and should be preserved for future generations to come to enjoy and understand their historical significance.

My mother grew up on Oahu and I have been fortunate enough to spend many summers hiking all over the island with my family. The Haiku Stairs have always been a dream to hike and I hope I can explore this incredibly place with my parents soon. This hike is not only unique to Hawaii but certainly the world and reducing access would be a huge disservice the the beauty of the island. A beauty that must be preserved and celebrated. Please let us continue to explore the beautiful islands in a unqie, controlled, and safe way for generations to come

After reading several previous testimonies and other readings regarding this subject matter, I stand with those supporting the removal of the Haiku Stairs. Oahu is a beautiful island filled with many scenic views, hikes, and other natural beauty. Although people have the right to appreciate Oahu's natural beauty, it shouldn't be done at the cost of themselves and others. The following reasons, are specifically why I am for the removal of the stairs: 1) Trespassing on Private Property – Because the entrance to the hike is guarded, hikers have resorted to trespassing through the homes of residents who live around the entrance. By doing so, these homeowner's privacy and safety have been violated by hikers. Even with signs and other deterrents, some hikers still trespass on these resident's property, making some residents resort to drastic measures. No one wants to hear the sound of footsteps in their yard at the crack of dawn nor hear suspicious noise around their houses. These residents are entitled to and should be able to enjoy their property without others trespassing through their yards. Therefore, by removing the stairs, the incentive and temptation to trespass are removed. 2) Risk of Injury to Hikers – Those who venture on this hike are bound for 2,800 feet in elevation, 3,922 steps, four to seven hours of hiking, and broken handrails. This is a taxing hike on questionable installation that was installed more than 50 years ago. The risk of injury is great, and even greater for inexperience and ill prepared hikers. So, to ensure the health and safety of future hikers, the State should remove the Haiku Stairs. 3) Risk of Injury to Rescuers – As better stated in previous testimony, when those individuals who choose to ignore the blazon dangers and risk and no trespassing signs still persist to hike the stairs, sometimes first responders are called because these people found themselves in danger. These first responders then have to risk their safety and wellbeing for people who consciously disregarded the law and who thought about themselves over others. By removing the stairs, these hikers would no longer have a hike to hike, and first responders will no longer have to risk their safety and wellbeing. All in all, there are many ways to enjoy Oahu’s natural beauty, but the Haiku Stairs shouldn’t be one of them. Therefore, for the betterment of the community, people, and first responders, the State should remove the Haiku Stairs.

I live on Pookela Street where the managed access entrance is recommended. As it is now there are many hikers illegally trespassing through private property to get to the stairs, for free. Once a fee is charged do you think illegal hikers will pay the fee?!? Of course not! Hikers will continue to find ways to the stairs by trespassing. Remove the stairs. Stop the nuisance illegal cause. Stop the waste of tax payer monies used to rescue hurt/injured hikers. (We often see the emergency personnel at Kaneohe district park!) Protect our watershed by not allowing people into the area.

I think it is a truly beautiful landmark that brings in a certain type of tourist that benefits Hawaii. Adventure travel. Its on the world's radar for landmarks like this one, I think that is an important thing to keep. If you close this down (while it is being monitored safely) others on the island will most likely find something else that could be more dangerous in the long run.

I have lived in Kailua for 26 of the last 34 years. I strongly support the Board of Water Supply transferring the Haiku Stairs to the City & County's Department of Parks and Recreation for the eventual preservation and operation of the stairs. The rationale for the C&C of Honolulu spending about $1M for restoring those stairs nearly 20 years ago was sound. With solid steps and handrails they provide the safest access for many people to enjoy both the exercise and the spectacular views from the ridge. That rationale remains valid. The inability of various government agencies to work out a fair agreement for access to the stairs is a complete embarrassment and has subjected the surrounding neighborhood to abuse over the years. That is not the fault of the stairs. Furthermore, substantial progress has recently been made in resolving those problems. I commend the Board of Water Supply for initiating action that would lead to a final resolution of this long-standing problem. I believe you have spurred action in the right direction. Mayor Caldwell's testimony said the city's Request for Information for Managing and operating the Haiku Stairs yielded 14 submittals and that the city is now ready to issue a Request for Bids to restore, operate, and maintain the stairs. The Environmental Impact Statement commissioned by the Board of Water Supply compared the available alternatives on 8 stated objectives (pages 6-67 to 6-70): (1)

Insert Written Testimony

Eliminate Board of Water Supply Liability Risk, (2) Supports Board of Water Supply Core Mission, (3) Improve Public Safety, (4) Reduce Neighborhood Disturbance, (5) Protect Natural Resources, (6) Promote Public Recreation, (7) Provide Long-Term Economic Benefit, and (8) Provide Cultural and/or Environmental Education. Your proposed action to dismantle the steps scored “Good” on 4 objectives, “Fair” on 2 objectives, and “Poor” on 2 objectives. The alternative to convey the stairs to the Department of Parks and Recreation for managed access via Po’okela Street scored “Good” on 7 objectives, “Fair” on 1 objective, and “Poor” on 0 objectives. You paid for this study. The most responsible action for the Board of Water Supply would be to pursue the highest scoring action. The Kaneohe Neighborhood Board unanimously took a position SUPPORTING REOPENING THE HAIKU STAIRS TO THE GENERAL PUBLIC UNDER A CONTROLLED AND MANAGED ACCESS PLAN. The Friends of Haiku Stairs has developed a Concept Plan for Managed Use of Haiku Stairs that comprehensively addresses all of the concerns that have been raised. The key Board of Water Supply objectives of (1) Eliminate Board of Water Supply Liability Risk and (2) Support Board of Water Supply Core Mission are fully satisfied by the alternative option to convey the stairs to the Department of Parks and Recreation for managed access. Furthermore, these key Board of Water Supply objectives would be achieved for less monetary cost to the BWS than the alternative option to dismantle the stairs. The alternative option to convey the stairs to the Department of Parks and Recreation for managed access also preserves the city’s ability to safely and responsibly bring the recreational potential of the stairs to fruition as well as respecting the historical aspects of the stairs. In summary, I believe the logic is overwhelmingly in support of the Board of Water Supply transferring the Haiku Stairs to the City & County’s Department of Parks and Recreation.

My Hawaiian name is Poni; however, I am a Haole. I have been coming to the Hawaiian Islands since 1997. My Godson lives on the 'big Island'. I used to work for Russell Watanabe in Waimea when I visited. Over the years, I have seen and have heard of the islands losing their heritage, their language, their monuments, sacred places and private lands that I was privileged to be able to see and enjoy. Times there have certainly changed but not for the good. Commercial industry has taken over for the money. The stairs have been there forever and now the stairs may just be removed. I do want to see them removed. They are part of the history of the islands.

The haiku stairs is the safest way for hikers to reach to peak of the mountain while at the same tim preserving all of the nature around them. If torn out you will see a spike in erosion on the other routes to the peak and not only that but many people will get hurt or die as the monalua route is dangerous.

hello my name is Brady Thomas. I have lived on Oahu for just over a year now. Not a super long time but in that year i have completed 63 hikes around this island. Focusing on the difficult and daring hikes as that is the type of hiker i am. The Haiku Stairs has with out a doubt topped as the most amazing and unforgettable experience. The Haiku stairs is also in my opinion a easy/ safer hike then most of the hikes on this island. having solid hand railings the whole way. Plus having studded steps the whole way makes this hike safer than many. i think it would be a mistake to remove these historic steps. It just needs some monitoring and a small budget and it will be a place to see Hawaii forever.

Decommissioning the stairs on this hike will not only put our state's employees at risk, but will also cost the state a great deal of money to accomplish. As someone who has seen my tax dollars wasted on other endeavors that have provided no benefit to our local communities, I highly oppose these efforts. Additionally, demolishing these stairs will only crowd other, similarly dangerous hikes.

The stairs have become an iconic symbol of Oahu. They hold meaning for every avid outdoorsman, not just in Hawaii, but to the world. They have inspired countless people to overcome fears and feel alive. We have to be careful as a society to stop catering to the vocal minority. I'm assuming the majority of complaints about the stairs are generated by neighborhood residents. The residents aren't concerned about the stairs themselves, but the noise created by hikers attempting to find the stairs. The wish to remove the stairs by a neighborhood resident is similar to a Lanikai resident wishing to remove access to the Ocean. In addition, it's an awful waste of tax payers time and money to remove the stairs when more equitable resolutions are present. Please vote NO to removing the stairs.

I oppose the removal of Haiku stairs. I grew up in Kaneohe and was able to hike the stairs when it was controlled by the Coast Guard. This unique hike offers breathtaking views, a spectacular venue for outdoors recreation, and a potential to provide monies to the State/C&C. Analysis of the website's map shows potential access and staging points to the stairs that do not impede on residential areas. A private entity could manage the stairs with a requirement to install fall restraints to enhance safety. There could also be an informational staging area much like they have at Hanauma Bay that features the history, rules and regulations, knowledge of the plants and wildlife on the hike and instructional videos. I believe this unique gem offers locals and tourist an experience unlike that of anywhere in the world. It would be a shame to deprive this and future generations from this experience and the State/C&C from future tax revenue.

To Whom it May Concern: I am writing to express my unequivocal support for preserving, maintaining, and providing official legal access to the Haiku Stairs, and I ask for your support and leadership to help facilitate an arrangement that will accomplish these goals. I can see no legitimate reason why the state would not be able to protect and maintain the stairs using a managed access model similar to the one used to protect and maintain Hanauma Bay while facilitating controlled access for the general public. I first climbed the stairs in 1999 as an undergraduate student when they were easily accessible and the signage seemed less intentionally prohibitory and more a dissolution of liability on the part of the state. If I remember correctly, the no trespassing signs were accompanied by equally official signs suggesting that hikers should be courteous to other hikers, carry out their own trash, and use caution when hiking, etc. As a conscientious hiker, I hiked the stairs under the common assumption that it was perfectly acceptable as long as I recognized I was doing it at my own risk. I have paid entrance fees and explored the ruins of Angkor Wat in Cambodia and Machu Picchu in Peru, walked on the Great Wall of China, stood in the Roman Coliseum, backpacked the Grand Canyon from rim to rim, and climbed mountains in Grand Teton National Park. My experiences climbing Stairway to Heaven were equally amazing, breathtaking, and awe-inspiring and are among the most unique and fulfilling experiences of my life. I would certainly pay a fee (and sign a release of liability) to be able to climb the Haiku Stairs again. It deeply saddens me that something as significant, amazing, historical, and unique as the Haiku Stairs would even be considered for permanent closure or demolition. I am also saddened that the current hostile climate surrounding the stairs makes it impossible for me to currently enjoy this unique wonder of the world. When I moved back to Oahu in 2013 I wanted to climb the stairs. I heard there were security guards stationed at the entrance, but I had also heard that security guards often told people, "I can't let you climb, but maybe next time I'll see you on your way down." I decided it would be helpful to talk to a security guard on duty to gauge the feasibility of attempting another climb. When I spoke with the guard I was very upset by the scare tactics she used to try to dissuade me from my desires to climb the stairs. She incorrectly asserted that the stairs were completely unsafe. I climbed the stairs multiple times in 1999-2000 safely and without incident before the missing section was restored, and I am confident the renovations and repairs made the stairs safer. I also strongly believe the Haiku Stairs are much safer than some of the legal hikes on the island (some of which I have hiked) where multiple fatalities have occurred. I believe that those who oppose providing access to the stairs suggest that the stairs are unsafe to elicit emotional responses and support from people who have never climbed the stairs, and who will never have a desire to climb the stairs, but who genuinely want to protect "unsuspecting" hikers from tragedy. I think this argument sidesteps the real issue: land rights and trespassing on private property. I am seriously concerned by the lack of foresight (which I believe is directly responsible for the problems we are facing with regard to the stairs today) that occurred when the stairs were repaired at considerable expense to the state of Hawaii. I sincerely hope that current decision makers such as you can rectify these previous errors in judgment. I struggle to understand why the state would spend significant tax dollars to repair the stairs without also securing legal access to the stairs! I believe that many of the legitimate issues that homeowners, land owners, and hikers have with the current situation could have been completely avoided if someone had decided that fixing the stairs for public access also required providing legal ways to access the base of the stairs. Homeowners and surrounding property owners are understandably upset if hikers damage their property or wake them up in the middle of the night, but I also suggest that these nefarious activities are part of an extreme minority of hikers if they are perpetrated by hikers at all. Additionally, these problems would all but disappear with state managed/controlled legal access to the stairs. It was unfair of the state to repair the stairs without providing a legal way to access them, and it is unfair for landowners to continue to block the state from providing legal and safe access to the stairs now (especially since much of the land in question is currently owned by state-funded and state-run agencies). I firmly believe that a mutually beneficial agreement can be reached. If people are able to park vehicles closer to the stairs and hike during the day instead of at 2 or 3 AM (which has seemed to be the norm of those who have recently successfully climbed the stairs) many of the complaints that private landowners have about vandalism, noise, and trespassing would almost completely disappear. I also believe it has been shortsighted and completely inappropriate for many people to publicly characterize all people who hike the stairs as vandals and disturbers of the peace. This misguided mischaracterization of hikers in general is fueling some people's desires to remove the stairs altogether. I liken these mischaracterizations, however, to calling all Muslims terrorists, which is equally inappropriate. I believe that most people hike the stairs because it is a unique, amazing, and sometimes spiritual experience (not to destroy or vandalize property) and they would hike it in broad daylight (the way people used to hike the stairs) if given the opportunity. I strongly believe that many people (myself included) would pay for the privilege to experience Stairway to Heaven. Even though it is currently prohibited, it is still touted as one of the most unique "must see" attractions in the world. Instead of being the current headache for everyone involved, this hike could be the jewel of Oahu that anyone who has hiked it already knows it is. Managing the Haiku Stairs in a way similar to Hanauma Bay could potentially generate enough revenue for the attraction to more than pay for itself, while better ensuring the safety of hikers, and the wellbeing of the individuals, landowners, and stakeholders in the surrounding areas. We have an opportunity to make good public use of the significant public investment in the Haiku Stairs, all while solving a problem that has caused significant concern in our community. Please do all that you can and exert all of your influence to pursue a managed access program for the stairs so that future generations can enjoy and be inspired by this unique wonder of Oahu.

Hello, I am strongly opposed to the removal of the stairs. Here are some reasons why: Ha'ikū Stairs is one of the safest ridge trail hikes in Hawai'i. Managed Access can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. Ha'ikū Stairs is an important historic site and must be preserved. Ha'ikū Stairs is a unique, world-class attraction. It would be a tragedy to remove it. Brian

I strongly oppose the removal of the Haiku Stairs. Why spend up to a million dollars to remove these? With proper guidelines (such as under the proposal by "Friends of Ha'ikū Stairs"), they can be safely managed without any detriment to nearby neighborhoods. With a fee structure, they can also become a positive source of revenue. I have visited Hawaii over 30 times in my life on vacation, and I have always wanted to do this hike (much like I always do Diamond Head when I am in Honolulu). However, I have never been able to do the Haiku Stairs because I do not want to trespass and break any laws. I'm sure I speak for plenty others who would be elated to get their first chance to experience this treasure of a hike. And this would be another reason for myself and many others to visit and support local tourism, when someday the world returns back to normal after this current pandemic, and we can safely return to Hawaii again. Thank you.

As a resident of Puoni PI at the door of the stairs, either the write facilities and management providing safe and considerate access the stairs could be enjoyed by all including the residents nearby. It's a unique trail and should be kept open to be enjoyed. Having legal access and open timings will allow it to be safer as people don't have to go in the dark or trespass. Charging a fee could even be helpful for upkeep as well as to sign waivers.

Removal of the Haiku Stairs would be an irresponsible use of tax-payer dollars. I understand that the Board of Water Supply does not wish to manage the controlled access and maintenance of the staircase, but that does not mean removal is necessary. As echoed by Mayor Caldwell, the City or other non-profit organization could take over the stairs. Since the City spent nearly $1,000,000 updating the staircase it would be illogical and irresponsible to spend more money to remove them. The issue is not the staircase, it is managing access and safety. Since BWS and the City have mismanaged access since renovating, this has led to issues with nearby property owners and many citations. This is a failure of our local political leaders and a lack of logic on behalf of the Board of Water Supply. This is a historical and world-class feature which would be shameful to remove. There are ample opportunities to have this managed and operated in a controlled and safe method to allow residents and visitors alike to enjoy the historical and environmental aspects of this destination. I strongly oppose the removal of the Haiku Stairs.

Easily my favorite spot on the island. When you're up on top of the mountain the world seems to stop around you. It's quite and peaceful. The view from the top allows you to see across the entire island. From the boats at Pearl Harbor to the city of Kaneohe. The stairs are stable and are up kept by the hikers, and those who love them. The happiest memory I have is sitting at the top of the mountain watching the clouds roll over and split just as the sun was rising. The view is overwhelmingly beautiful in every direction. I can not describe how much I love these stairs and how truly devastated I would be if they were taken down. I also think the stairs are a part of history that we should not destroy. I know that people are careful on the stairs. I know there is a huge community of people all around the island, and the world, that are connected by their love for the stairs. Please. Do not take down these stairs. Allow those who respectfully love them to continue to enjoy their beauty.

Previous agreements made with the Kāneʻohe Neighborhood Board show that a mutually beneficial access plan can be arranged. The stairs represent a unique opportunity to showcase the island's stunning beauty, diverse flora, and unique history. The stairs are a valued historic property with an interesting history of naval use and construction. It would be cheaper to refurbish the stairs than to tear them down all the while adding one more beautifully unique recreation asset. By tearing it down, you would be rewarding those who seek to divide and inflame an unnecessary wedge issue. There are solutions. You represent the people. It is your duty to balance the interests of all involved.

The Haiku Stairs are one of the best representations of the beauty of the island and landscape. Maintaining these stairs supports the preservation of the island and encourages hikers to avoid further deterioration of the island. You can't prevent people from climbing and exploring, but you can take every effort to prevent further destruction of Hawaii's natural beauty and resources.

Removing a piece of history should always be looked down upon. I believe in managing in a similar way that Kauai managed the Kalalau trailhead limiting the amount of people to do it in a day and giving preference to locals will result in a better appreciation for the land. People will still climb the mountain removing the stairs just makes it more dangerous by increasing foot traffic to the moanalua valley trail. I can understand why people living in the area don't like all the tourists and stuff coming in to the area in a day but making a clear limit selling parking passes that are not in front of peoples houses makes more sense. The money can go in to the neighborhood. Please have safety as the number one priority think about your first responders who will be having to rescue more people from the moanalua valley!

The Haiku Stairs is an amazing man- made wonder. I have not been fortunate enough to climb the stairs, but would love to have the opportunity. From the pictures I've seen, it must be an incomparable experience that can not be replicated anywhere else on Earth. With proper management, and safe access, the Ha'ikū Stairs will be an amazing resource for both locals and tourists. There are few other safe places to hike a majestic ridge of the Ko'olau Range and we should all do everything in our power to preserve (and improve) the Haiku Stairs.

The Haiku stairs, or Stairway to Heaven, is synonymous to me with Hawaii. I have never been, and i have always wished to go. Please, we need nature to help us heal. Please don't take away this utterly breath-taking, surreal viewpoint aqay. We need beautiful, natural spaces like this now more than ever. Thank you.

Ha'ikū Stairs is one of the safest ridge trail hikes in Hawai'i. Managed Access can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. Ha'ikū Stairs is an important historic site and must be preserved. Ha'ikū Stairs is a unique, world-class attraction. It would be a tragedy to remove it.

To be able to hike these stairs is on my bucket list. My cousin posted beautiful pictures of his hike and immediately I wanted to be able to go there as well. If these stairs are torn down, this amazing experience is one that I will not be able to experience in my life nor will anyone else get to experience this beauty in Hawaii. That would be a shame.

I think the Haiku stairs should be saved and access legalized. This will minimize erosion of other trails and nature from people trying to access this area in other ways. I think parking should be made available and a fee can be charged. Or access can be granted to certain tours to take people there. This will minimize disturbance to the residents that live nearby. Money from access to the stairs could be used to preserve the area, assist local residents and other helpful ways. This is a historic area and to close it down for access would be so sad. Many people such as me who wish they could have gone but never did since it is not legal would never have a chance to see it. Please consider preserving it. Thank you.

I'm a woman in my sixties. While in my sixties I have hiked over to the top of the Haiku Stairs from Honolulu and then climbed down the Stairs. On one occasion I climbed down the Stairs in dark after watching the sunset from the top of the Stairs. The Stairs are very easy to traverse. Climbing the Stairs is much safer than hiking the trails that lead to the top. For the sake of safety let's open the Stairs to the public. Even if the Stairs were removed there would be plenty of hikers traversing that area. It will stay so much safer having the Stairs remain in place and well maintained. Keep the Stairs open so I (and so many thousands of others) can continue to enjoy them as I (we) get older.

With the proper maintenance of these stairs, they won't impact the wildlife and it will allow people to explore Hawaii's beautiful scenery. Without stairs, people would still hike the trails but then interrupt the natural paths created by animals, keep them safe and give humans a different trail.

The Haiku Stairs are one of Oahu's #1 tourist attractions. Removal of the stairs, would also be the removal of any future revenue that could be generated from such a landmark. Regardless of their legality at the moment, I believe the Haiku Stairs to be the sole reasoning for some individuals to even fly into the Hawaiian Islands in the first place. If you take the stairs away, you will also take away the dollars that any future visitors could pour into the local economy. If these stairs were to be removed and not implemented as an official trail, I believe video blogs, online forums, and tourism boards around the world will bow their head in shame and confusion to the governments decision. I believe the removal of such a notable landmark for the island could be the equivalent to Washington state removing the Seattle Space Needle, or South Dakota removing the carving on Mount Rushmore. I plead for the BWS to make the better decision, and not take the easy way out on this one by removal of the Haiku Stairs.

The island of Oahu is a beautiful island in which many hikes can be climbed to appreciate what the island has to offer. Removing the stairway to heaven is a direct threat against global appreciation of the Hawaiian islands, and if removed could result in 3rd party construction of alternative stairs, which are a part of history from the US Military when they placed them during world war 2, or alternative means to reach the top. I personally am not suggesting I will, or endorse anybody to do so, it is just something that could happen. There have been few deaths involved with the hike, more of which are caused by negligence of the board of water supply. Perhaps restore the stairs, or at least charge for entry. Do not remove this opportunity from the inhabitants of Hawaii.

A recent decline in the preservation of the history of our great nation has led me to write regarding the fate of the Haiku Stairs. As a veteran on the US Army and an avid ecoconservationist I cannot abide watching a historic artifact of both our country and our military be destroyed because it is inconvenient to a few people with more means than most. I see no reason to destroy a safe and functional path to one of the most beautiful vistas in the world when it could easily be managed by local government with support from the thousands of visitors it draws every year. I hope the board sees above discarding an irreplaceable piece of our history for the sake of a privileged few and votes to preserve this landmark for future generations.

Both of my teen/adult children have hiked up the back way (legally) in an effort to reach the stairs. The journey was one they will remember their whole life. All they wanted was a photo of the stairs. Why not keep the stairs and allow people to hike to them legally. If the top portion needs repaired, I am sure you will have volunteers ready to assist. This is an iconic hike and many travel to Hawaii just to do it. Removing the stairs is not necessary.

This is my 2nd testimony and the one that should count. Upon reflection after the 1st, the wording seemed tricky and I wasn't sure I chose the right one. I oppose removing the stairs. Hiking legally brings Hawaii tourism as the stairs are world famous. It has been the pinnacle of my kids life so far. If you have a safety or cost concern, find a way to make a plan and resolve it instead of removing the stairs.

I support the BOW's decision to remove the Haiku Stairs. As maintaining the stairs is not their mission. BOW's responsibility is to provide Oahu residents with a safe dependable and affordable water supply. The idea of some group managing the Stairs will never work for the people who live near the trail entrance. The reason is that the proposed entrance operating hours will not work for all hikers and these hikers are the ones that will continually cause problems for homeowners by trespassing through their properties to get up to the Stairs. As we residents know, many of the hikers want to be at the top of the Stairs to watch the sunrise which means they will start to hike by 4 am or earlier. We property owners should not have to continue to accept having hikers sneaking through our properties in the middle of the night just to get up to the Stairs. These Stairs were originally installed by the military and once their purpose was completed, the Stairs should have been removed and the mountain restored to its original condition. We don't often have the opportunity to restore our land back to how it was before, so we should support the BOW's decision to remove the Stairs.

I believe the stairs is shouldn't be torn down because It is a part of the history on Oahu. It's a historical landmark much like Dimond head or Pearl Harbor it's a rich part of history ... there are a lot of other land marks like it such as Pali pass which has great historical value ... if there was a fee to climb as well as perhaps guides and safety videos that could pay for the cost of repairs of the stairs and residents wouldn't be woken up by people sneaking in if there where set hours to the hike . It would be a shame to tear it down and Probably cost more Money then just maintaining it ... most likely people Would find a Way up Regardless . To have more structure and safety would be a better idea then Removal .

The Haiku stairs is a historic landmark. It should not be tore down, but its history cherished. The cost to destroy the stairs simply isn't worth it, when there is so much potential to create something positive out of it. The current state of prohibition is much more dangerous. I have personally climbed the stairs, and never felt I was in danger. Meanwhile, the "legal" way to access this overlook via Moanalua Ridge is extremely dangerous! People want to experience the view of looking out on the entire island from the Koolau's. Prohibition on the use of the stairs encourages hikers to take harder routes to get there, or climb other dangerous hikes in the area, and put themselves at much greater risk. Removal of the stairs would only make it worse. Second, a FHS managed access plan was proposed and is VERY doable. The local neighborhood has signed off on the plan. This would alleviate most gripes about hikers accessing the stairs early morning, provide dedicated parking, and limit the number of hikers at a given time. It will also cost less (some proposed plans could even generate income for the state!), and would be a much better use of tax payer dollars already stretched thin. Finally, this is an opportunity to take an illegal activity currently frequented by teenagers, young adults, and general thrill seekers who like to flaunt breaking rules, and turn it into something truly positive. Indeed a minority of people currently accessing the stairs don't care about the aina. They throw their trash everywhere and only care about getting Instagram likes. This can be transformed into an educational and spiritual experience. Allow law abiding citizens to access it too, to hold the kids accountable for their actions. Signs and tour guides can enforce the rules and provide a much more enriching experience for everyone. Repair, maintain, and control. Don't destroy a treasured monument.

The Haiku stairs are a landmark of Oahu. It gives a sense of accomplishment that Hawaii has undergone over its history and really brings a sense of awe and wonder. It's gorgeous, it's historic, it's unbelievable driving down the H3 wondering how people could create such a thing that long ago. To take it down would be a shame as well as bringing more destruction to that piece of ridgeline. I believe it brings a lot of tourism to Oahu as well, as it did with me 4 years ago. The Haiku stairs SHOULD NOT be removed. Please consider this request.

Aloha Kakou, My name is Christian Palmer and I was raised on the Windward Side of Oahu. I am now an environmental anthropologist and study ecotourism and public spaces. The removal of the Haiku Stairs is a tragedy. It is the equivalent of bulldozing punchbowl cemetery or dynamiting Hanauma bay. The stairs are an important historic site and potentially an important site for outdoor recreation. They could be an amazing ecotourist attraction that generates the right kind of environmentally responsible tourism development if they were managed correctly. I have hiked all over Europe, North America and South America and know that the Haiku Stairs are a world class attraction. They are also no more dangerous than other hikes in other places. Properly managed the stairs could be a safe and significant public space for residents and visitors to experience nature. These kinds of public space are hugely significant and important but require public planning and investment. The state of Hawaii is responsible to develop, maintain, and enhance these public spaces for the benefit of the people of Hawaii. Mahalo, Christian Haiku Stairs, also known as, Stairway to Heaven is a monumental piece of Oahu's history. It is a place of peace and discovery for many adventurous hearts, including mine. It is a place where wonderful and unforgettable memories were created with my brother, Christopherson Cortes. He passed away 3 and a half years ago at the age of 24 in a hit and run. The Haiku Stairs is where my family and I can keep his memory alive and imitate his adventurous spirit. Removing the stairs is a cause of unnecessary heartbreak for many. As a kama'aina, I do not support the removal of Oahu's legendary Haiku Stairs.

I am an Australian. I have never had the privilege of walking along the Haiku Stairs. It is definitely a bucket list experience, however, I personally am not one to break the law and hike on private property hence why I have never done it. I believe the time, effort and money spent to remove the stairs could be better spent updating them and making them safer and more accessible to everyone. Everyone who is voting to save them would no doubt rally together to raise extra funds to help with this. Why destroy an area's heritage when it can be promoted? If we continue to destroy these areas, all around the world, what will be left?

I was stationed on Hawaii with the Navy from 2010-2013. I had a chance to volunteer with the Friends of Haiku Stairs I'm cleaning up the trail and making note of damaged rails/stairs. It was quite an experience and I believe with proper management, it would be a wonderful way to generate income (ie sell passes, mainly to limit the number of people on the trail at one time, and have them sign waivers for health and safety reasons).

The Haiku stairs are a treasured landmark. Known literally around the world for their beauty. They are not used for what they were previously intended and used for anymore, but they are very valuable to hawaii in a different way. The pyramids of Egypt are not being torn down because they are crumbling and dangerous to climb on. They stay standing for appreciation of their beauty, majesty and history, as the stairs too should.

Urgent Supporter Update Aloha Ha'ikū Stairs Supporter, As an avid hiker I have always wanted to hike Haiku Stairs but never have as I am a law abiding citizen. It has never made sense that Bd of Water Supply be in charge of a hiking trail (there are trails all over this state that are in watershed areas). It does make sense that C&C HNL Parks and Rec assume responsibility. A lot of work has been done to create a plan to address the challenges of maintaining this scenic and historical trail. Perhaps a permitting procedure to do the hike could control the number of daily hikers. The Friends Concept Plan has lots of good suggestions.

I support the transfer of the Haiku Stairs management to be under the City & Country with restored access to hikers. This is a unique, one-of-a-kind opportunity. My older son has done this hike several times, going so early he could watch sunrise with his girlfriend (now wife). One of his friends proposed on the hike. It's a very special place and should remain accessible. Without a safe access point, I fear people would take to scaling the mountain peaks in unsafe ways. I also think we need to promote healthy exercise and activities. I feel that people who buy homes on the beach or with popular hikes in their backyard should understand there is going to be a public impact that they need to live with. This is not like there's a drug house next door, these are just hikers. Most are super respectful, carry out their trash and even pick up the trash of others. By making the hike illegal and under guard, only the very adventurous risk hiking there. This leaves out a lot of people who would also enjoy the hike. Perhaps make the hike similar to Hanauma Bay - free for those with a Hawaii ID or driver's license and $3 or so per person - to help with maintenance costs. And NO commercial tours groups allowed.

The Haiku stairs are more than just some old rickety stairs going up the side of a mountain. I'm sure others who have submitted a testimony are saying the same thing, but those stairs are where people find themselves. The legal, back way up to the top is more dangerous than the stairs and has more deaths than going up the stairs does. If you find a legal way to allow people to climb the stairs, it could add to Hawaii's economy. There are already thousands of tourists coming to O'ahu, so why not charge people to climb it and boost the economy. People will continue to find a way up, even if the stairs are taken down. The Haiku stairs offer one of the best views of the island. Why spend close to a million dollars taking down the first thousand feet of the stairs, when you can save money or increase income. There are plenty of ways to accommodate the residents' needs while still keeping the stairs in tact. I, along with thousands of others, cannot tell you the feeling of completing this trek. If you have done it before yourself, you will know what I mean. Please do not take down the stairs. Soon, there will be no legal hikes left on the island.

I am writing this testimony to oppose the tear down of the Haiku Stairs. I had the honor of hiking to these stairs about a year ago and it has been one of the most memorable and special experiences I've ever had. My wife and father-in-law got to share this experience and it was amazing. I also feel like the Haiku Stairs have created such a beautiful place for people to have that amazing Hawaiian experience on Oahu. The photos and videos that people receive from going on this hike are breath taking. People truly do come to Oahu, I believe, to just do this hike. If anything, instead of tearing down the stairs, maybe it's smarter to make them safer or require a guide to take people up. This hike is both challenging and fun. It get people to continue to enjoy the outdoors when on the island. Please do not tear the stairs down. They hold a special place in my heart and so many others.

I think the stairs should stay in place. The stairs hold a lot of history that people years to come will be able to appreciate. Another option could be making the hike legal and charging people a fee for entry which will help making the state some more money. The stairs are a beautiful site to see when driving by them.

This is the most scenic and beautiful hike on Oahu. I've seen the videos and I and many others would love to take this hike if it were made legally available. I believe that the stairs could be repaired and safely maintained through usage fees for the hike. I further believe that visitors would pay a premium price for this which would allow for limited numbers of users to help maintain the ecology of the area. Please do not remove the stairs, Oahu has become so overly urban that an extremely beautiful hike through nature is much needed on our island. Thank you!

The legal way to the top is too dangerous. If the staircase is destroyed more people will be in jeopardy of being hurt or killed in a fall. My one day climbing the stairs this past summer was one of the best experiences ever so far in my life of 50 years. Please spare the stairs.

Aloha, please DO NOT remove the Ha'ikū stairs. It is not only providing people with one of the most beautiful parts of our islands but if you've ever been up there it will take your breath away. My Grandfather Daniel C. Caires was actually the architect of the Ha'ikū stairs. It was always a sore spot with him over the years because he was very proud of it and always felt that the government absolutely failed him and the people of Hawai'i by letting it fall into such disrepair. Him being a stoic figure he never really let his emotions show, but when our Uncle Mike Caires found the blueprints in the archives, framed them and then presented them to him for one of his birthdays it was one of only a few times in our lives we saw him get a little misty. So, please restore the stairs, maintain the stairs. Charge the tourist and appreciate a great man, a great view, a famous landmark and honor a veteran that spent his entire career first serving his country and then serving his state. Mahalo, Daniel I. Caires

I strongly oppose the removal of the stairs. * The stairs are a community resource known worldwide and their removal cannot be replaced with other resources. * It is believed that removal of the stairs and thereby not providing managed access will stop hikers from frequenting the trail, but actually there would be no reduction in hiker access once the BWS removes the security detail. Instead hiker count will go higher, with hikers accessing the same trail but at higher risk - also causing higher risk to first responders. Removal of the stairs will not solve the illegal access problem; only managed access will. Without managed access, there will still be thousands of hikers willing to "try out" the "new trail", unsafe as it would be, even if they couldn't make it to the top - BUT THEY WILL STILL TRY. * We can support the local community's concerns about illegal hikers in their neighborhood by providing managed access and maintaining trail access via Po'okela Street. * All the lands between Po'okela Street and Kāne'ohe Forest Reserve and the Hai'ku Stairs base are owned by either City or State agencies. These agencies should be able to work together to grant legal access to this historic trail. There is no private land in between to be considered. Indeed, there are already trails in the area. The Haiku stairs are a treasure that should be preserved. They are an iconic piece of our American history and a treasured piece of Hawaii. There are much better options than tearing them down. They should be made a historic area or park. People would gladly pay admission if needed. Money that could be used for upkeep and maintenance. Make people resevere times for admission and sign a waiver if necessary. Removing them would destroy a piece of history. Thank you

Representing all the Spaniards who have been fortunate enough to enjoy the experience of climbing the haiku stairs and the other people who ask me every day in my work or in Spanish travel agencies about going to Hawaii with the interest and the only purpose of living that experience, I would like for a moment that you stop to think about the negative impact regarding the decrease in tourism that the elimination of stairs could have since it is a tourist attraction to live that experience and the vast majority of tourists they would choose and make the decision to enjoy their holidays in other countries. I fully understand and put myself in the situation of all those neighbors who live in the immediate vicinity of the start of the stairs and I also understand the cost of maintaining a guard and even the displacement of police if required, but I also understand and know that There are other alternatives which benefit both parties and for which an agreement could be reached. My proposal is the following: Opening hours: 07:00 Closing hours 17:00 With this schedule they would not disturb the tourists nor would they make noise during hours of rest. Capacity limited to 4 people for every half hour, that is, 8 people an hour and a total of 80 people a day. All this by registering on the website and limited to the first 80 people who register on the day. Registration price: $ 50 / person, this price is symbolic, I am sure that there would be tourists and hikers who would be willing to pay 100, 200 and even $ 300 to live this experience. If we make calculations with $ 50 / person a month we would be talking about $ 120,000 / month, a year $ 1440000 and that counting that they would only pay $ 50, with this collection you could perfectly pay a guard for the access control of the registered people and it would also give for the salary of a security for the neighborhood after hours that it was open so it would guarantee and control that nobody bothers at other hours and there is more tranquility on the part of the neighbors, you could even put another person working as maintenance cleaning of the neighborhood since the collection of money from all tourists is very high. I hope your understanding and value our proposal. Many thanks. A greeting.

It would be incredibly cruel and inhumane to destroy the Haiku Stairs. This is something that is literally on countless peoples bucket lists to do in their life. Just because it is dangerous does not mean it should be destroyed so that nobody can ever see those views and experience that thrill of reaching the top again. Climbing Everest is dangerous, climbing Half Dome and El Capitan is dangerous. Driving your car to go to work every day can be dangerous. Yet people still do those things every day. I get taking precautions is a good thing, but what about instead of tearing it down and just completely eliminating that experience for every person you try something else. You could start a GoFundMe or some other fundraiser to help fund repairing the stairs, or start charging people $5-10 or some amount to climb them and that can start funding repairs. There has to be some other action that can be taken rather than removing them forever. Heck, put in a safety cable system the whole way up as an extra railing that people can connect a strap to in case they slip or fall. yes, that will cost money but that is what the fundraiser or charging climbers would help with.

Hello, my name is Diana Duraku and I am currently residing in New York City. Hawaii has always been a dream for me to visit and I have done so in December 2018 for the Honolulu marathon. It was the best experience I have ever had in any location. I've read about the Haiku Stairs many years ago and have always dreamt about hiking the beautiful stairway to heaven. I still have not had the chance and I wish to hike them in my lifetime. Please do not take the stairs down. This will ruin all the history that the Haiku stairs has and what Honolulu has to offer. It would be wonderful to make the stairs legal to hike for tourists again. Please don't take them down! I am praying the voice of the people are heard. Thank you very much and best regards, Diana Duraku

Please do not remove the stairs! I've visited Hawaii twice for military training and found myself mystified by the stairs. I didn't hike them due to the legality but I would have paid upwards of $300 to hike them. I don't think removing the stairs is in the best interest of your state. The stairs are an incredibly unique asset that your state could greatly benefit from by renovating and allowing people to legally enjoy the breathtaking climb. Please do not remove the stairs!

The Haiku Stairs are a globally unique and irreplaceable resource. The cost, security, access, neighborhood disturbance, liability, safety, and educational opportunities have all been addressed in a detailed managed access proposal (FHS Concept Plan for Managed Use of Ha'ikū Stairs) prepared by Friends of Ha'ikū Stairs. There is enormous support to preserve Haiku Stairs and transfer it to the City and County of Honolulu so it can be reopened under managed access. Mahalo, Donald Piburn Kaaawa, Hawaii

Please vote to retain the stairs and transfer control and ownership to the C&C of Honolulu. The Stairs are a unique experience and of historic significance; removing them would be very costly and would deny current and future generations a challenging and rewarding experience that is not be easily forgotten. I understand that the BWS does not want the Stairs; having to administer them is a distraction from their mission of providing clean water to the C&C. If I were running the BWS, I'd take the same action. But, the leadership has the chance to preserve the Stairs and pass control to another entity willing to accept it. Please make that vote.

The Haiku Stairs have become a liability to the State of Hawaii, and have a tremendous negative impact to the local community. Too often the voice of the community gets lost in shrill demands of special interest groups who think they should be able to "take the stairs" on a hike. The Haiku area community has endured trespassers in their yards, abusive behavior by entitled hikers, increased traffic and already limited parking overburdened. This never-ending onslaught of visitors, following the siren of social media's call to a unique experience via trespassing illegally on private land must be stopped. Please abolish the stairs before our politicians let the allure of potential income into state coffers cloud their civic duty to protect neighborhoods from this kind of encroachment that ruins the quality of life for local citizens. Look at what was done to the Manoa Falls area! The option to have managed access near Anchor church has a certain appeal as it is no through residential areas. However, the truth of the matter is that the area has a world-wide draw and precedent for illegal trespassing. Just because you build a commercial venture along a preferred pathway, in no way guarantees that the throngs of adventure seeking hikers will adhere to that plan. Further, the din of omnipresent hikers on the ground is matched by an ever-increasing amount of tourist helicopters from morning to night. The stairs are nothing to be revered. Instead they are a scar that defaces some of the most beautiful terrain on the island. Please demolish the stairs.

Please keep the stairs open, I would love to pay to climb them instead of fear of being fined. The initial revenue can be used to fix and maintain, property values in that area will rise, and there is an available parking lot space at the bottom that would not impede on the neighborhood. It's a win-win. There are many locals and tourists that feel this way.

I oppose strongly to the Removal of the haiku stairs Because it is a piece of History that continues to give and serves a bigger purpose then just being a closed Trail. More should be Done to maintain and fix the stairs Like other popular hiking spots and trails making the safer for the Public and Residents near by. P

Dear people, I have never had the chance to visit the haiku stairs, and taking in all the beauty that you can see and feel up there. It's a place that can make you sad (for all the people who want it removed) and make you feel like you are in heaven. What I did learn from experiences in my life is that it's better to focus on the positive things in life and on everything good, of something and someone. I feel like, nowadays, everyone has to complain about something. And instead of changing something into something that both parties can be happy with, they remove that something from planet earth. So, more people are hurt and the negative attitude wins, instead of turning it into something positive. I am not sure why people want the Haiku Stairs removed. But I do know that its better to turn this situation into something positive for everyone, instead of a bad reminder (and no bucketlists dreams). Please make the right decision! Kind regards, Eline

I believe in standing up for environmental justice and with this removal in place, the natural environment of Hawaii would be destroyed. From the surface, people may think it's just the land that is being destroyed and Hawaii has tons of naturally area, but it is much more than that. This area, the Haiku Stairs, supports an ecosystem. With this removal, we would be forcing the species of this land to either perish or migrate to another area which could offset balances in other ecosystems. We need to keep in mind the viewpoint of Mother Earth. She would want her land to remain the same, to support nature and the ecosystem. Mother Earth has no voice, so it is us that must stand up for the rights of the land and the many animals that live among it. With the removal of the Haiku Stairs it would only support the needs of human beings, but the needs of the biodiversity of Hawaii are just as important.

To Whom It May Concern, I visited Hawaii for the first time this year hoping that someday I would be able to hike all the way up to stairs of heaven without any concerns for being illegal. I really hope that you guys keep it the way it is and implement new ways to get up there. Just for the sake of history, legends whatever it is do not remove Haiku Stairs. Stay Safe! Thank you.

People have been moved by those stairs for decades! Please keep them and make it open! People have traveled to this island to climb those stairs and some pay private "tour guides" why not have a fee for the stair access (people are paying 200-250$ a person) have them sign a waiver of liability like when bungee jumping and keep them open. Have a map of the broken areas, history of the stairs and charge people to access the grounds and then access the stairs. Tourism and hiking are major money makers here. Make a parking lot on the property, have guided tour times so you control how many people are going up the stairs and certain days single person hike days where you limit how many people go at a time. But please do not take these down.

It is so sad to think of the Haiku Stairs being removed. It is an important historical site here on Oahu and should be preserved. I also believe what would be best for the Stairs is to transfer them to the City and County of Honolulu and then reopen them under managed access. This would benefit all involved - there would be no more sneaking around and disturbing Windward neighborhoods, and the amazing views could still be enjoyed by locals and tourists. I believe many would pay to climb the Stairs "legally" - it would be a great source of revenue. We live in such a beautiful place, and these stairs are not only part of our history but also a unique place to hike.

I encourage the BWS to preserve or transfer ownership of the Haiku Stairs with the ultimate goal to safely open them up. I would be willing to make a donation to help assist in making this happen and overcome any logistic issues. And I know many others are willing as well. The stairs are a significant historical site and world-class attraction. I love that they are there. It would be a shame to remove them.

Haiku stairs is a physical representation of Oahu's history. It's attracts numbers of people to visit the unique beauty of the location. I believe removing such a piece of history would change the unreal experience of Oahu. It's like removing the Great Wall of China due to the lack of upkeep when in fact, this landmark is very possible to restore and maintain for newer generations to experience. Solely reading and looking at a photograph of a piece of history is one thing, but nothing's compares to actually seeing it in the now, and having a better, more profound view of that point in time. Imagine, the feeling of physically viewing a remarkably beautiful piece of the past. It is such an indescribable feeling to encounter. That's why I believe taking away the Haiku Stairs is unnecessary. Restoring and maintaining is very possible. I'm more than positive future visitors would agree with this view.

My true hope would be that instead of having the stairs torn down and the area closed completely and permanently, that either they are restored in such a way that people can visit them lawfully (I have never climbed the stairway to heaven as I know it's been off limits, but have always desperately wanted to), or that the stairs are removed and a hiking trail is put in its place, it at all possible. I've been to Hawaii 6x, and my mother grew up there, I would love to have the opportunity to see it from that view. Please consider, thank you!

The Ha'ikū Stairs it truly one of the most beautiful experiences on Oahu, and it would be a true waste to destroy the stairs that were rebuilt not that long ago. In addition, removing them erases the engineering marvel constructed by the island's WWII generation supporting island defense communications. If the stairs are managed properly, I know that the area residence and the public can coexist allowing visitors to safely witness the beauty of the ridge, get exposure to the Hawaiian magical history of the Ha'ikū Valley, and learn a unique WWII story. As with Diamond Head and Coco Head, there are obviously physical requirements necessary to directly participate, but other activities could be expanded to virtually share the wonder with all guest down below. By managing access, and charging a fee, the stairs will support itself and can continue its long record of safety. Mahalo

It would seem to be that the funds needed to to repair the very few steps and sections that are shoddy would pale in comparison to the cost of testing them down. Further, tearing down the stairs effectively permanently scars the landscape. A golf course or a town's main street, for that matter, are both seemingly significantly more dangerous than hiking the Stairs, even in their current state. Please think long and hard before proceeding with this action and tearing down this relic that should be preserved. It'd be a shame if they tore down the Great Wall of China because of a few unsafe spots. Thank you.

The Haiku stairs provide a hiking experience that is unparalleled to any other in the world. Hawai'i is an international destination for its incredible communities, passionate history, and breath-taking views; all of which are available in abundance on a journey on these stairs. The tourism and travel industry are essential to the O'ahu's economy and these stairs provide one of the most sought after, recognizable, and safe experiences that our island offers. The Haiku stairs are a unique and important monument to American engineering and to the grit, determination, and heroism of the men that built and climbed them in defense of their country. To destroy that monument over a petty property dispute is a travesty and a slap in the face to those who persevered in the face of unimaginable odds. But the Haiku Stairs are more than a monument to history. They are a vital cultural resource. They challenge our imagination, and compel us to believe that the impossible is possible. They are a reminder that we can achieve more than we think, and that perseverance and ingenuity can take you anywhere you want to go. They are a source of encouragement and inspiration to people all over the world, and they deserve to be preserved for future generations.

Managed Access can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. Haiku Stairs is an engineering marvel located in the State of Hawaii. It is a tribute to the knowledge, persistence and skill of the original builders, and as such is an important historic site whose removal would be a tragedy. It's nickname, "the Stairway to Heaven" epitomizes it's attraction to hikers of all varieties eager to experience the spectacular natural wonders of Hawaii. Appropriate managed access will offer a world class experience akin to the Great Wall of China or Angkor Watt in Cambodia, both of which I have had the good fortune to visit. Haiku Stairs is both unique and universal in its appeal, and will add an option not currently available legally to both residents and visitors. The venue itself has been extensively studied by experts and knowledgeable recommendations have been made regarding transfer of responsibility, appropriate upgrade and maintenance, and safety and security measures. Because of current conditions this site is a cost center, but with attention to the extensive and specific recommendations for transfer of ownership, management of the physical entity and security concerns, this could easily become a revenue center. Many photographs of the Stairs and views from the route exist. It would be a tragedy if we had to explain to our children, and theirs as well, why the respective Government Agencies involved could not see their way clear to preserve this unique part of Hawaii's past.

I oppose the removal of Haiku Stairs and support transferring responsibility to the C&C of Honolulu. My children have hike Ha'ikū Stairs in the past and I never worried about them while doing it, as it is one of the safest ridge trail hikes in Hawai'i. I understand the concerns of neighbors regarding access and their own privacy and security, but believe that with appropriate managed access (for example, have parking off site and smaller vans transport visitors to the starting point) neighborhood character could be maintained while allowing controlled access to a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience for current and future generations. Ha'ikū Stairs is has a unique history behind it, and a great story to be told to those who might hike it. We should do everything we can to preserve, protect this resource

I visited the Haiku Stairs when holidaying Hawaii from Australia for 3 weeks. During my time in Hawaii we did many activities, island hopping, shark diving, hikes, shopping, staying in resorts in Waikiki and on the North Shore, but nothing could even come close to the experience I had visiting this magnificent artefact. Learning about the history as well as exploring the valley made me feel so close to nature and truly immersed in Hawaii, it was the best experience of my life. The removal of these stairs would be a tragedy and a wasted opportunity for many others to have this incredible experience

I've been living 20 years on the Windward side. The stairs are both a historical place and an amazing hike that cannot be found anywhere else in the islands. They provide everybody in Hawaii an amazing experience. They should not be removed but on the contrary improved. The main improvement should be to provide a legal access with a limited parking, that will allow hikers to go to the stairs without disturbing the neighborhood. There are ways to do that. Another improvement would be to make the stairs safer, by repairing and enhancing them. Finally, in case of accidents, legal actions should not be allowed (access only by permit, with signed release form if possible?)

I'd like to say that I can understand why BWS would like to rid itself of the stairway, but that it would be a tragedy to remove them. I've been on them long ago and it is one of the safest ridge hikes on the island. Where else do you have a railing on both sides?! Impossible to get lost on too. It's a historic site as well and should be protected as such. There are better options that would relieve you of responsibility, such as handing them over to the city and county, which Mayor Caldwell says he's agreeable to. The Friends of Haiku stairs is willing to handle the management and there may be others as well. Please don't take a drastic irreversible measure and dismantle one of the greatest hikes on earth.

During the years 1965, 1966 and 1967 I had the unbelievable opportunity and pleasure of being one of a number of US Navy technicians stationed at Lualualei, Oahu, HI responsible for maintaining and repairing the receiving/transmitting microwave equipment at the top of the 'Staircase to Heaven'. In those days we were transported in a cable car from the base to what is now called 'Pad 2'....from the our maintenance and testing equipment was put on a 'second' cable car which transported it up to the 'equipment/microwave dish' building at the top where we performed our services. We oftentimes were looking 'down' on the clouds as we performed our work. The service required that we 'walk up' the stairs from Pad 2 to the top and subsequently 'waled down' to Pad 2 upon completing our task. From that point we took a return cable car trip down across the Valley to the bottom. Over the subsequent years my wife and I have travelled to Oahu from the Mainland probably 15 times and on EVERY trip we rode over to "Kaneohe Side" where I would park, look up at the equipment building and staircase and fall in love with the wonderment of what I experienced all over again..... That experience truly is a 'once in a lifetime' opportunity (although I had at least 80-100 of such opportunities of that time period). I TRULY SUPPORT any effort (especially one that appears to be privately funded/supported) that will extend such an opportunity/thrill to others on into the future. IF IT IS AT ALL FEASIBLE, REPAIR, MAINTAIN, AND OPERATE THE VENUE FOR OTHERS TO ENJOY AND BE AMAZED BY THE BEAUTY....

Thank you for the opportunity to submit testimony supporting the retention of Haiku Stairs. Although I have never hiked there myself, I have met countless locals and visitors whose dream it is to hike up the stairs. We should not destroy a popular, safe, and spectacular hiking destination. The Friends of Haiku Stairs has developed a sensible management plan that will allow hiking to take place without damage, rescues, trespassing, or other negatives. Please allow Haiku Stairs to once again be a world-class attraction for both locals and visitors.

Twenty one years ago, my family and I moved into the Hokulele neighborhood not realizing we were moving into a living hell! I live near the BWS access road and have been enduring constant, blatant, and egregious trespassing on a daily basis. To say that my neighbors and I have endured unimaginable abuse and selfishness on the part of hikers, would be an understatement. I have personally been sworn at, mooned, threatened (I could go on forever), all because I ask people not to leave their trash, get off my property, not to block my driveway, use our hoses, just to name a few of these egregious acts. Back in 2000, I have counted over 250 hikers trespassing through our neighborhood on a daily basis, some days, there can be over 75 in just two hours. Once the BWS provided special duty officers, that number decreased, but not by much. As residents, we take detailed stats of trespassing hikers and just in the year 2018 that number exceeded 5,000. Can you imagine over 5,000 strangers(most disrespectful) roaming through your neighborhood, going through your yard, waking you from your sleep, using your water hose, blocking your driveways, aggressively arguing with you, all to climb a set of rusted stairs that the Friends of Haiku Stairs considers a "historical treasure?" If it's such a precious treasure to be preserved for all the world to experience, then take it off the mountain, put it in a museum for all to cherish for eternity. WE ARE FED UP. Supporters of the stairs claim that hikers will stop trespassing once they have legal access. Really? If they are trespassing now even with hefty fines and police presence, what makes anyone think they will all of a sudden become law abiding citizens and stop trying to hike at all hours of the day? They are like cockroaches, millions of them. We yell, the police show up, they scatter. Again, whether it is at 2am in the morning or 1pm in the afternoon, trespassing hikers are relentless and are doing it constantly. There is no way the City, who can't even maintain their own parks, etc... will be able to effectively manage this beast. The issue here is human nature, not a world class hike. There are too many access points, and why would a hiker pay to hike when they can go for free during the hours the stairs will be closed? If they are selfish enough to still come even during the COVID mandate and put residents in danger by touching our fences, etc...they will continue to trespass no matter what. Hefty fines, security cameras, and police presence do not deter them now, and giving them legal access will only proliferate and exasperate the problem. Neither the City or Friends of Haiku stairs have made any efforts to work with the residents, or presented the public with a solid viable plan. They don't have a plan, and it is not acceptable to figure it out later. To transfer access to them or any other entity intending to leave the stairs where they are, would be completely irresponsible and disrespectful to residents who only want to have a good quality of life. What about the countless rescues that have occurred? Trespassing hikers not only disregard residents, they disregard the safety of our first responders. We witness rescues monthly, and sometimes multiple times in a month. If this hike is made legal, those rescues won't go away, in fact I would argue that they will increase as more hikers will try to access the stairs during hours the stairs are closed. In fact, that's when many of them trespass, 1am, 2am, 3am, 4am in the morning. They also come down in the pitch dark too, 7pm, 8pm, 9pm. More rescues for sure, putting our first responders at risk. Should the BWS transfer access to avoid liability, they will still be liable because hikers will still try to access the stairs on their road. This will not end. We are confident that if any stairs supporter spends just 24 hours in one of our homes, they will instantly be singing another song. It's easy to want to support something that has never damaged your mental well being and quality of life. How about for once, we care about people more than a rusted structure that was never intended to be a recreational hike. Kualoa ranch has expressed an interest in transferring the stairs to their property. This is would be a win win for all. They have the resources, ample parking, breathtaking views, and most importantly the ability to effectively manage this hike. There are only two solutions here, dismantle the stairs permanently, OR give it to Kualoa Ranch. These are the only two solutions that will mitigate this nightmare. Board members, you will be hearing a lot of testimony from those supporting the opening of the stairs. We are outnumbered. I sincerely ask you to stop and imagine how you would feel if you were being violated like this on a daily basis. As residents we are not exaggerating, in fact many of my iterations above are merely snippets of the reality we live in. Please do not transfer the stairs to anyone but Kualoa Ranch, or please please dismantle them. Remember, the issue is not access, it is human nature. Trespassing will never cease unless there is nothing to trespass to. Your liability will not be absolved by simply transferring access, you would be extremely naive to think otherwise. I beg you, look at the evidence, the facts, we have them. Countless pictures, statistics, police reports, videos. Please make your decision based on those facts, and not the self-centered and inconsiderate rhetoric of the Friends of Haiku stairs and their supporters. Thank you for your time.

Aloha! The Haiku Stairs are such a unique part of Oahu's history and it would be sad to see them go. I would love to see the ownership transferred to the City and County of Honolulu and reopen under managed access. This way the stairs could be kept open, but access to it would be under more control and there wouldn't be sneaking around in the neighborhoods.

The Haiku Stairs is a historic landmark of the beautiful island of Oahu. It's removal would mean erasing history and depriving the next generation of a remarkable experience. Perhaps it's preservation will be costly, but if a good profitable plan with strict policies/compliance are put into place, there is no doubt the revenue it generates plus the outpouring support from hikers/tourists will be more than enough to shoulder it's maintenance. I understand this Hike is dangerous. However, when hiking it is clearly stated that no one will come help the hiker should something happen. I've been to Hawaii once in my life, I plan to return soon. Truthfully, I hated Oahu until hiking the stairs. I did it on Father's Day with my dad and a man we had never met before; his name was Andrew. Andrew was hiking for his dad that day who had passed away only 6 months before, Andrews dad's dying wish was to hike the stairs- he never got the chance. These stairs represent so much more than the danger that lies within them. These stairs represent belief, courage, love, friendships, ohana, thousands of countless memories and so much more. Please, do not remove them.

The stairs are not only an incredible part of the history of the island of Oahu, they offer visitors and residents alike a spiritual connection to nature that's hard to find here. So much of the island is crowded by tourists it's nice to be able to escape somewhere there's no shops, over population, and fresh air. Your not fighting to take a breath to enjoy the breath taking views this hike offers. I 100 percent am for keeping the stairs and letting countless generations to continue to enjoy what little natural inhabited life this island has to offer.

I was able to enjoy the complete renovation of the Stairs years ago. Having climbed them in the early 80's when they were in disrepair and somewhat more dangerous it became one of my favorite hikes. The reversal of access and ban on usage came as a great disappointment. I became even more concerned early last year after hiking from the Moanalua valley access and observed large groups of hikers - over 100 on a Sunday morning. The damage to the once pristine environment I had observed years before was completely destroyed due to the large numbers of hikers coming up the opposite ridge to see the Stairs, even though signage indicated it was illegal to continue on them. A managed, limited access on the Stairs themselves should be re-established and the west access closed for re-vegetation. There are many large mature specimens of Ohia and Ohelo either already destroyed or headed in that direction with their root systems completely destroyed by hiker traffic. The Stairs preserve the environment as they are elevated, keeping hikers away from the fragile environment beneath them. If the Board of Water Supply cannot establish access from the Haiku Valley then I would still recommend closure of the Moanalua access for reasons stated above. We cannot afford to let our endemic forests be destroyed by overuse and the internet along with its social media forms has caused a huge influx of interest. Managed access could provide a much needed money source for maintenance and keep the area in a more preserved state. Thank you.

I'm a senior in high school, and due to the COVID-19 epidemic, our senior trip to Hawaii was cancelled. One of the things a group of us have been looking forward to since we were sophomores was climbing the Haiku Stairs and witness the magnificent views throughout...if these stairs are torn down, myself and my classmates will never be able to do this. Please don't tear them down...there's is nothing else quite like them.

I strongly oppose the removal of Ha'ikū Stairs, and encourage you to vote to transfer the Stairs to the City and County of Honolulu and reopen them under managed access. Ha'ikū Stairs is one of the safest ridge trail hikes in Hawai'i. Managed Access can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. Ha'ikū Stairs is an important historic site and must be preserved. Ha'ikū Stairs is a unique, world-class attraction. It would be a tragedy to remove it. Mahalo for your time, Ina Taea

I have never climbed the Haiku Stairs, but I have hiked there from Moanalua valley. The stairs are one of the most beautiful spots in Oahu. I would gladly pay $30-50 for the right to climb the stairs legally. I suspect that many locals and tourists would do the same, especially if there was a little effort at publicizing. Admittedly the stairs probably need some updating in some locations to make it possible to pass in two directions. Money collected might help defray the costs of insurance, rescue, repair, upkeep, and access. There would be some need to provide access to the stairs that does not violate the rights of property owners. On the other hand, this would be a significant attraction for tourists, and would probably generate tourism dollars.

Hi, It would be a shame and a waste to spend a million dollars on the removal of such a great and beautiful trail. Surely the BWS can transfer this to the City, and the City has already expressed they want it. Thousands of hikers access it each year - even illegally, I know. But this only goes to show what a great adventure this provides. Spending the money on managed access is the way to go, not using good money just to toss it in the landfill. Please don't remove this wonderful trail.

These stairs should not be taken down - people still hikes this (despite it being "illegal") because of the beauty nature has to offer!! It has nothing to do with the Board of Water Supply/Harming the environment/whatever you are thinking because it's simply placed there to see the beauty of our home - taking it down would just cause an uprising in our homeland and that is something you guys do not want (especially in Hawaii Nei).

Insert Written Testimony The Haiku Stairs represents one of the most iconic views in the entire island chain. It should be preserved, and if there's worry of its deteriorating state, then why not put forward a fund to preserve them? The money spent to remove them could be money spent to preserve them.

I would like to testify, in the strongest possible terms, against the removal of the Haiku Stairs. These stairs represent a truly unique and historical cultural attraction. The history of the stairs goes back to naval communication needs during WWII - for its history alone, the stairs need to remain. Additionally, the stairs represent a gorgeous, almost divine rise heat hike that is among the safest on Oahu. It would be a cultural tragedy for the stairs to be removed. All possible means, including transferring the stairs to the city of Honolulu, must be taken before we can even consider removing the stairs. Sincerely, Jake Sherman

I've been planning a trip to Oahu for almost 5 years. I said at the beginning of my university career that when I graduated I was going to Oahu as a grad gift. Well that time is coming and we are heading Oahu. Well that was until COVID-19 happened. So we had to postpone. But one of the main reasons I decided on Oahu for my grad trip was to walk the Stairs to Heaven and yell out to the heavens that I did it. Also I'm a nature and portrait photographer by hobby and I've been wanting to shoot some photos there for years now. I have all these plans for my shoots at that location. So long story short is your island runs off tourism and if you rip these stairs out you are gonna lose a major tourist attraction, me being one of them. I have chosen to stand in protest have asked others you believe in this cause to do the same. If these stairs are removed we will never go to Oahu again. I have already spent thousands on this trip and I'm not even there yet and so far 11 of us have made this pact. If those stairs come out that will be a loss of over $100,000 to your economy just from the 11 of us. Wonder how much it will lose when all the other tourist, who come to visit the stairs, to coming to Oahu as well? Don't rip out something so beautiful and take away my dream trip for the last 5 years.

Aloha, I'm testifying against the removal of the Haiku Stairs. As a resident of over 25 years, I've always hoped for the day I could attempt to climb them, but haven't due to the legalities and issues surrounding them. I feel like the Haiku Stairs are a unique landmark that is part of Oahu's history and a potential profit generating tourist attraction if proper care and maintenance is done. I would support moving ownership the of the stairs away from the Board of Water Supply (BWS) and to a more fitting department to manage it as a park with potentially building a proper parking lot to the trail. This would alleviate homeowners concerns and provide a legal and safe way to access the stairs. As for the risks involved with hikers needing rescue, access to the stairway (and potential parking) could be limited by an appointment-based system with possibly enforcement and verification at the access point. This could also generate money for the state. The system could be run like the current campground reservations. Losing the Haiku Stairs would be a great loss to Oahu's culture, tourism and heritage. Make a legal access way and do not remove the stairs. Mahalo, James Duck

Good morning from one Islander to another . :-) I am writing from Prince Edward Island, located on the East Coast of Canada. My family visited your beautiful island in February of 2018 and loved our time there. One regret we did have was not climbing the Haiku Stairs. This is a worldwide attraction based on the numerous entries and references on websites, travel blogs, etc. It would be an absolute shame if it were to be dismantled. I realize that any fix or solution would not be easy but my hope and wish is that you at least make an effort. We're planning another trip to Oahu in the next 12-18 months and it would be amazing if the Haiku Stairs were available to take part in. Thank you for reading. Managed Access can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. 2015 was the year I first saw a picture of the Haikū Stairs. I knew immediately it would be added to my bucket list. In 2017, I travelled to Oahu from Canada for the first time with a field school. We were studying the effects of colonization on indigenous populations on a global scale. During this experience I got to know the meaning of aloha and developed a greater understanding of not only Native Hawaiian's connection to the land but also my own. I returned in 2019 with a friend from my field school to reconnect with the people we met 2 years prior. I also told her hiking the Haikū stairs was something I was determined to do when I was there. On the day of the hike we met up with a group of people from all over the world that we'd never met before. All of us were very different from one another except we all had one thing in common — we wanted to experience the magic on the mountain. As I climbed those stairs, with my lungs burning, wind whipping through my hair, raindrops on my face, I felt alive and I felt powerful. I felt connected to each of those people I was with and I felt connected to the land, to the beauty of Hawaii. That hike inspired me — to do better & to be better for not only myself but for the world. I understand that there are safety concerns in regards to the stairs — but you have to face the facts: people are going to climb this mountain regardless of if the stairs are there or not. There has only been 1 death on the stairs and it was completely unrelated to the safety of the stairs. The back, ironically legal, route has led to many deaths and even more rescue missions. Furthermore, the stairs help prevent erosion of the path/mountain itself. Without the stairs, people will continue climbing this mountain, but it can be projected that there will be an increase in deaths and injuries. Instead of seeing the Haikū Stairs as a health risk and/or a disruption to the community surrounding the base of the stairs, I think it is important to note what the stairs have been for people and will continue to be. Not only do the stairs help bring in revenue for the State of Hawaii, but they also give people so much more. They give people the opportunity to experience the magic of Hawaii, the opportunity to rebirth themselves through the inspiration forced upon them as they take each step & the opportunity to understand Aloha. Please consider alternative options ♥

I oppose the Board of Water Supply removing the Haiku Stairs. We need to preserve our State's and nation's history. How can we justify all the historic bridge evaluations, Archeological Inventory Surveys for transit, the rerouting of the H-3, and so many other efforts to preserve our island history when here is a major historic resource and the BWS would just rip it out of the mountain? The Omega Station and the Haiku Stairs played a vital role in the Pacific Theater and we cannot allow this history to be lost. This is an insult to our country and the soldiers who fought in WWII. Understandably, the BWS does not want to manage the Stairs and feels it is outside their mission. Their response to the issue has been to hire a guard and make climbing the stairs illegal. Has the BWS made a real effort to coordinate with other agencies or NGOs for a transfer of ownership? If liability is the major concern, maybe all hiking trails in Hawaii should be closed. Hikers are rescued from the Pill Boxes, Maunawilli Falls Trail and many other trails while the Haiku Stairs has a great safety record. All options for handling liability from how other State agencies handle these concerns to alternatives that could be used by private tour companies should be evaluated. Hanauma Bay works well – what a success story! A resource maintained and enjoyed by tourists and residents alike. The issues brought up by the neighbors should be considered but there are routes to the Stairs that would alleviate their concerns. Just having loud and influential representation for the community living near the stairs should not be enough to let the NIMBY population override the rest of the potential users of the Stairs. No doubt many in Lanikai would prefer that no one access the recreational opportunities in their neighborhood but that is not consistent with how our society manages its resources. Hawaii's economic engine is tourism. The Stairs could be a huge generator of revenue for the custodian agency if a tourism company was subcontracted to manage tours. The Stairs should not be destroyed because of an agency wants to remove an administrative 'inconvenience'. Once the Stairs are gone, they are gone forever, lost to the all our future generations. Please do not let vocal minorities and an unhappy bureaucracy cause this unique historic resource to be taken from us. Our history must be preserved!

Aloha, I'm writing to oppose the removal of the Haiku Stairs. I support finding a way to open the stairs via managed access, and to do so in a manner which will alleviate neighborhood disturbance, promote safety, and increase both environmental awareness and aloha 'aina. Since it is not with the BWS's mission to do this, I support the transfer of the Stairs to the City or State. The Stairs are entirely unique both on O'ahu and within the State. Not only are they historically significant, the unique construction of the stairs offers the only way for hikers to climb the Kane'ohe cliffs to reach the Ko'olau summit. They span several ecological zones, and provide hikers with a direct experience of indigenous and endemic plants. I strongly feel that both local and state government have a responsibility to foster safe access to trails. Through direct experience, people develop a sense of place, a sense of community, and an understanding of what makes Hawaii so unique and special, including our Hawaiian forests. Please preserve this trail for future generations of kama'aina.

Please work with the City & County and Friends of Haiku Stairs to transfer ownership of the stairs to the City so this valuable recreational structure can be preserved and used for years to come. Consider it an asset for world local hiker and tourist appeal and money making, not a burden to be destroyed. Hawaii must turn its attention to world class tourist attractions that are tightly controlled and still available to Hawaii residents if it is to proceed in future with such a large reliance on the tourist economy. Recent past tourist activities of all types that negatively affect local people must be curtailed and this asset is one way to do that. Thank you for your consideration.

Apologies for submitting a second comment instead of combing it all in one. Having read the other advance testimonies, I completely agree that the impact on the neighborhood is a top concern. That's why managed access is the answer. Before the hike was closed to the public, were trespassing and noise at night problems? Do other hikes in Hawaii have those problems on this scale? The nuisance for the residents comes from the fact that the hike has been closed, so now the only way to do it is to trespass or sneak in. I'm not excusing that behavior, I'm just saying that if there is a legal, open option, those problems should disappear. Make it easier for people to do the right thing than to do the wrong thing. Build a good fence to control access, then charge admittance fees (enough to cover whatever costs are needed) and limit entrance to be manageable. The demand is there—people will pay, and proceeds can be used to give back to locals, instead of being a drag on taxpayer money (which it has been for years as everyone has paid—ineffectually—to close it). With access limited and people paying, they will treat it better. Managed access is the option that addresses the legitimate concerns of the neighborhood while balancing the huge demand for this hike from kama'aina and tourists alike. Let the city handle it.

I strongly oppose removal of the Haiku Stairs. I agree that they should not be a BWS responsibility, but if the city is willing to take them and provide managed access, then it makes perfect sense to transfer them. That way BWS can focus its time and resources on its duties while allowing countless people to experience Hawaii in a unique, spectacular way. I have hiked all over the world, from the Alps to the Himalayas, but hiking the Haiku stairs for sunrise was one of the most remarkable things I have ever been privileged to witness. Generations of my family have hiked it and loved it, and I want my kids to hike it—safely and legally. Managed access by the city is a straightforward answer to address the concerns of BWS and the resident community who (rightly) shouldn't have to deal with the hassle of hikers at all hours. Managed access is the win-win. Tearing out the stairs when so many people love them would be a tragedy. Other people are eager to take care of them. Please, please vote to transfer care to the city and county of Honolulu. Imagine two different scenarios—in one, the stairs are removed. Most people will be disappointed, some will be happy, but everyone will get over it eventually and it will be forgotten. In another, the stairs are transferred to the city and reopened under managed access.

Most people will be happy, some people may be upset, but generations of people will use them, appreciate them, and be grateful for that decision. The opportunity to do good by so many people is incomparable if the stairs are left in. Please vote to transfer the stairs. It just makes sense. Thank you!

I live in the area that would be impacted by the opening of Haiku Stairs (Castle Hills), I don't have an opinion either way, it seems people enjoy the challenging hike, though it needs to be maintained if it remains opened. Even if it is closed, it isn't really going to stop people from hiking it, it would just be more dangerous. In regards to parking for people that want to hike, I don't see how it will significantly impact us that live in the area.

The Haiku Stairs are a worldwide treasure for people to safely enjoy the beautiful views of Hawaii. Instead of shutting them down, the proper thing to do would be to brainstorm options of how to preserve the stairs and have the entrance to the stairs deferred to a different location where the neighbors are not upset. This is achievable. Appease the neighbors and preserve the stairs for locals and tourists alike to safely enjoy.

The Haiku stairs are not only an amazing part of history but they are also a safe way to hike up the amazing mountains on Oahu. I have hiked the legal trail, beginning in Moanalua Valley, as well as the stairs and to think that the state would rather have people hike Moanalua Vally trail is absurd. That trail is breathtaking but also very very dangerous. On the other hand, the Haiku Stairs provide a very safe, easy-to-follow path up to the top. Not to mention the beautiful view of Kaneohe and beyond. I believe that these stairs, if maintained and properly cared for, could not only benefit the people but also the state. By charging a small fee to go up or making people get permits will probably bring in enough money to maintain the stairs and people needed to regulate it. If it wasn't illegal more people would go. I understand that people in the neighborhoods are annoyed by hikers, but by making the stairs legal, hikers wouldn't be trying to hike at wee hours in the morning or crossing property lines. I live in a place that is also a destination, I know the feeling. But the Haiku stairs are an amazing thing that everyone should experience. Everyone who supports the removal should go up those stairs and see the magical views! I think that keeping the Haiku Stairs and transferring them to the State is a win-win because the state can make money but the people can enjoy the history and beauty of the Haiku Stairs. PLEASE keep the stairs!!

Please transfer the Stairs and property to the City and County of Honolulu. Stop wasting time and money with more meetings, more studies or environmental impact statements. The residents of Hawaii want to hike this treasure trail. There are volunteers who are willing to help maintain the stairs. Allowing the city to manage permits, collect a day use fee, and limit the number of hikers is what I would like to see. Create the alternate entrance and trailhead so the nearby residents can get their peace and privacy back.

I lived in Hawaii a couple years ago. Everyone always talked about the magic you see when you get to the top of Stairway to Heaven. I never in a million years thought I could do it because I'm not athletic and I give up easily. I MADE IT TO THE TOP. Unfortunately it was rainy and cloudy and I never got a chance to see the amazing views but I made it to the top. It's a part of that land it's something Hawaii is known for. Please please please don't tear it down. It's the biggest accomplishment I ever did.

I'd love to see the stairs maintained and eventually re-opened for hikers to enjoy. People would gladly pay for permits and entrance if it were made legal to access. I have not ever been to the stairs myself out of respect for the current restrictions, but I wish I could take advantage of the opportunity to exercise and enjoy the view. Charging for entrance could allow the stairs to pay for the maintenance needed.

If you've ever hiked haiku stairs before then you've felt the liveliness of that experience. Hiking stairway to heaven has brought me happiness and joy that is different from any other hike I've done. If you've hiked the stairs then you have come to the understanding that the stairs are safer than the "legal" way to the top. There have been countless times while I've hiked it that people who went the legal way got injured and had to come down the illegal way because it was safer. Why try and take down the safer way up the mountain? People would run into FAR less struggles if you would just make the hike legal. That way hikers wouldn't interrupt neighborhoods. Try and see where the hikers are coming from before you take down something that has brought us pure happiness. DONT TAKE DOWN THE HAIKU STAIRS. This hike has brought me so much life and understanding as weird as it sounds.

We must save stairways for the future generations and are community. There has been a group waiting to help run management of the hike for years now. Im sure it can be safely run by the city of Honolulu and a private partnership. There is no reason for them to be removed. Just transfer the ownership to someone else already there is no reason for the bws to be taring down such an iconic adventure we have here. Unless the people who run btw are jealous they can't do this hike and want to take away the fun from others. Also this is a historic landmark of the windward side and one of the best views of the island you can get wale staying on land.

Aloha, I taught at the University of Hawai'i at Manoa from 1976 to 1979 and have returned to the islands for visits over 20 times in the last 40 years. I have done hikes on most of the islands but have never had the opportunity to climb Ha'ikū Stairs. At 72 years old I would love to climb the Stairs if they are preserved. Many places in different countries are building or opening up opportunities to experience the beauty of nature in new ways with glass bridges/walkways (China, Arizona), Via Ferrete (iron ways) in Italy. Please find ways to open up this historic site in a safe, managed way to be enjoyed by future generations. Jerry Kuyper

Please BWS as a former employee please transfer the responsibility of Ha'ikū Stairs to the city and county of Honolulu. Haiku stairs is one of the safest ridge trail hikes in Hawai'i, by transferring to the city managed access can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. Additionally Ha'ikū Stairs is an important historic site and must be preserved. Ha'ikū Stairs is a unique, world-class attraction. It would be a tragedy to remove it, not to mention the amount of tax-payer money this monumental task will cost. Pervious Mayor Jeremy Harris spent a lot of money fixing the stairs and hoping for it to open to the public, I'm hoping to see this before my lifetime. Thank you!

Please support handing authority of Haiku stairs to the city of Honolulu. The survey has shown this is the best option to allow a dedicated organization to manage the stairs. Friends of Haiku Status has put forth a detailed plan of how to manage the stairs responsibly for everyone concerned. At least give them the chance. These stairs are very important to the community and it would be a travesty to lose them. Mahalo for your consideration.

Greetings, Please do not remove the Haiku Stairs. They are a treasured landmark on Oahu to so many people. The Haiku stairs remain one of the most memorable hikes of my life and I cannot bear the thought of them being removed or that I may never hike them again. I met my husband on Oahu and he took me to the Haiku Stairs and it was there that we fell in love while watching that spectacular sunrise. I know that we are only two people of many who have a profoud attachment to this hike. Thank you for your time and please do not remove this wonderful landmark. Sincerely,
Jessica Crafton

Ha'iku stairs is an incredibly unique, world-class attraction and it would be a tragedy to remove them. Not only would you be removing a historic landmark, you would be depriving future generations, both local and from around the world, from enjoying the experience and education they offer while contributing to the local economy through tourism fees.

The Haiku Stairs is a breath taking experience of which many tourists who visit Oahu would like to be a part of and even check off of their bucket list. Not only are you rewarded with the accomplishment of finishing something physically rewarding, but you also have the honor of witnessing such spectacular views of the island when you make it to the top. To many this is a life changing experience and without a doubt the most memorable when they leave. Please reassess the decision of destroying such a prominent landmark, and instead, consider ways of improving it. Thank you.

These stairs ARE history, are memories-and they are beautiful. They mean something to people all over the world. Please keep the stairs intact! Other options are available. Removing the stairs will be costly-and unnecessary! There are so many better things the state can spend it's money on. To me, the stairs represent joy. Thank you for listening.

I live in Moanalua Valley and encounter irresponsible hikers daily. Often they read about the stairs and want to reach the top via the Moanalua trails and then climb down the stairs. They are unprepared (don't know the actual path) and regularly must be rescued. Please remove the stairs- it is too appealing of an attractive nuisance.

These stairs are a way for people to explore nature with little-no impact on their surroundings. They make the mountains accessible, are a tourist attraction and part of the identity of the area. They must be let be! Now more than ever people need ways to experience nature rather than be cooped up indoors and taking these stairs away is an immoral prevention to this need.

I am an avid hiker who was born and raised in Hawaii and have hiked the Haiku Stairs numerous times over much of my life. As a world traveler, I have also experienced hiking trails around the globe, from easy to challenging with families enjoying the experience together. Our precious "Stairway to Heaven", aka: Haiku Stairs are a true gem and a hikers dream come true. It is truly a world class hiking experience and should absolutely be thought of as such. Haiku Stairs is something that needs to be viewed as a Hawaiian Island treasure, worthy of keeping and even enhancing for both locals and visitors alike. I feel the City of Honolulu or State of Hawaii, Na Ala Hele, could best manage this and even offer permits to select vendors with strict timing schedules to allow for guided (paid for) tours to help pay for the management, while also allowing public access. We have something very special here and I hope that the decision makers (whom may not be hikers) can agree to a solution as stated above or something close. Long live Haiku Stairs.

The Haiku Stairs is a unique historical landmark. The radio station in the valley and the building, antenna points and stairs on the ridgeline were critical to the success of allied forces in the pacific in WWII. Removing them would be removing history. It would be like removing the stairs and bunkers on Diamond Head. Hiking the Stairs is an unforgettable experience and it would be a shame to deny future generations the opportunity to experience it. I doubt there is another hike in the world like the Haiku Stairs. Please don't remove it!

It is understandable that locals near the stairs are frustrated with people trying to access them via their neighborhoods. The truth of the matter is that these frustrations are a direct result of officials trying to stop access altogether to what many believe is the greatest hiking experience to be found in Hawai'i, if not one of the greatest in the world. By managing this asset, and it most certainly is, one no different from any other natural attraction in Hawai'i, local residents will be rid once and for all of trespassers, a historical relic will be preserved and a natural wonder preserved for future generations to enjoy and learn from. What a tragedy it would be for the State to disassemble this invaluable gift from the past.

I am writing in support of keeping the stairs and transferring them to the City. I have been waiting over twenty years to legal climb the steps. Since I moved here 26 years ago I have wanted to climb the Haiku Stairs, but it was shut down and a plan to renovate and reopen was always "just around the corner". I waited patiently. I am now much older, but can still climb. I want to climb the stairs. I want to do it legally. I have watched as the state did a poor job maintaining the stairs and watched as they allowed the illegal climbers to do as they pleased, posting on Instagram and other social media outlets and encouraging more illegal behavior. I have been waiting. And waiting patiently. It would be a travesty of justice if at the end of this long, failed process, the trail gets removed. It would tell the public. "If you want to do something, do it now. Do it illegally. Because in the future, you may not have the chance again." Do the right thing. Give the stairs to an organization that can do its job or at least has the time and interest to do so.

I have hiked the stairs 10 or more times. I am an avid hiker and of all the many hikes I have done, this hike is the most spectacular, especially based on safety and awe inspiring views. The state has invested nearly one million dollars to upgrade the stairs, minimizing the risk even further. Now someone wants to spend about the same amount to take them down? Will someone, State, City And County etc. PLEASE hold on to this precious attraction so that present and future generations might be able to experience this treasure! It has been made obvious by supporters and people willing to hike at night or divert around the established entrance, risking arrest and fines, that there is a high demand for the hike. The worst option, charging a fee to hike the trail, would be favorable to a complete shutdown. Make a mandatory wavier of responsibility to State or City a requirement before one may hike. This asset is much too valuable to the people of Hawaii and visitors alike to take the cowardly way around the issue and tear it down!

The Haiku stairs have so much history for the people of Oahu. From its time with the coast guard omega station, to the building of H3, to the hundreds of thousands of photographs and memories that live with so many people around the world. The stairs and omega station could offer so much to so many more people if they were used in the correct manner to help educate people about the history of the stairs, the Haiku valley and the people who came from there and live there now. Please don't take down the stairs!

The Mayor has made it very clear that he wants the City and County, Parks and Recreation to take over the Stairs and reopen them under managed access. This would absolve BWS of any responsibility. There's at least one very detailed managed access plan that addresses all the concerns that have been raised with NO cost to taxpayers. The board should vote to save Haiku Stairs and transfer to the City and County.

The Ha'ikū Stairs are one of the safest ridge trail hikes in Hawai'i, historically important, and a unique, world-class attraction. It would be a travesty to removed them. Aloha and thanks for hearing my testimony on this important issue! Although I am speaking for myself, my sentiment mirrors that of many of my friends, family, and neighbors here on Oahu. I am in full support of keeping this important space and investing to make it more safe, accessible, and equitable. First, it is clear in the EIS that the conveyance alternative and opening the stairway for managed access would certainly be the best option fiscally. Revenue from visitors would help maintain the stairway structure and preserve the native ecosystems buffering the trail. Furthermore, smart management of the stairway would create new local jobs for tour guides, security, and maintenance workers at a time when we really need to see news of more jobs becoming available in the future. Also importantly, the conveyance alternative solves the concerns of the Haiku valley residents by opening a legal pathway to the stairs and properly managing the trailhead entrance. With legal access, hikers trespassing through residential areas to access the stairway would fortunately be a thing of the past. Stairway repairs and maintenance would improve the safety of the stairway and mitigate potential erosion concerns, something I am sure residents care about as well. I understand their feelings that their opposition are largely based on. That's why this solution is clearly addressing those concerns. I want to express my personal feelings as well here. Just because this beautiful and historical feature happens to be near property that they might own or rent, doesn't lessen the validity of other residents on this island that don't happen to live in such a wealthy neighborhood. Don't let an affluent few, deprive the greater population from experiencing the history and beauty of this local treasure. The haiku valley residents have been playing victim since this debate started and complaining about hikers visiting their neighborhood, taking their precious parking, and causing their dogs to bark. This argument for destroying the stairway is pure NIMBYism. These homeowners believe that their wealth and ability to purchase a single family home in a nice neighborhood entitles them to a private gated community lifestyle; free of outsiders and a constant supply of free parking on the public right-of-way. I have lived most my life here in Makiki where there is always traffic and people walking around outside my home every day, that's life! My neighbors and I hear the sounds of cars, dogs, people, and ambulance sirens all the time. The complaints expressed by the Haiku residents are not unique to Hawaii. It is not fair or equitable for entitled wealthy homeowners to destroy a public asset to protect their parking and exclude others that have every right to enjoy beautiful hikes and nature here. The city should prioritize the provision of public goods over private interest and NIMBYism. This is no different that wealthy people buying up the beautiful lands along the coast and then telling the rest of us that we can't access the ocean or beach, are you kidding me? This is Hawaii, we need to show Aloha and understand how anti-Hawaiian such an attitude really is! Please support saving the stairs, this is not only important to the environment, to the local economy, to culture, but on much deeper philosophical and sociopolitical level in regards to privilege versus equity. Mahalo for hearing our concerns!

The Haiku Stairs have significant historical importance, some of the most spectacular views in the world, and should not be removed. However BWS should not be responsible for the upkeep and liability of the Haiku Stairs. I support a fee based, managed access plan, operated by a private organization or a (different) public entity.

The stairs should be considered a national treasure. They stand as a testimony of mans ability to overcome obstacles without destroying the environment around it. My family and I safely ascended the stairs a few years ago after researching ways of climbing the mountain. It was an amazing experience that should be shared with future generations. My children would not have been capable of safely traveling the "legal" way and never would have learned the history behind the building of the stairs. We cherish this portion of our trip to Hawaii and truly hope to get to return one day to relive the experience. Please save the stairs, please treat them as the treasure they are. Open them and repair and preserve them responsibly!

Thank you for this opportunity to voice support for keeping the Ha'ikū Stairs. Understanding and agreeing with the BWS's position, it seems like the time has arrived to transfer the management of the Haiku Stairs to a non-profit or other group of serious supporters. (The Friends of Ha'ikū Stairs may be the best choice for this work.) Having a process for when people can hike along with parking will stop people from traipsing through neighborhoods at ungodly times of the day and night to access the stairs. Parking options that have been considered include Ha'ikū Road and Kūneki Street. I know of no other place on the planet where you can climb to the top of a volcanic mountain with stainless steel handrails to assist you all the way up! They are a one of a kind, world class historic and cultural asset for our state. Please use your power to preserve the Ha'ikū Stairs for future generations. Mahalo for all you do and stay safe!

The Ha'iku Stairs are an important historical monument in Hawaii, and should be preserved for the future of Hawaii. The educational aspect itself is something that needs to be maintained and taught to all. Hikers who wish to hike the stairs will learn the importance of this monument, why it was installed, and what it accomplished. It can become a revenue source for the city/county as well, by charging those who wish to climb the stairs, though I believe Kama'aina should be able to climb them for free, while tourists should be charged. I believe mostly that the educational benefits are the most important feature, however, as those who fail to study history, are doomed to repeat it. Please, transfer the ownership of the stairs to the City and County, and permit the Stairs to be open to the public. Teach the importance of the Stairs.

The Haiku stairs provide one of the most exhilarating and safest trails on the entire island. Removal would be a desecration to the history and experience of them. Where else can you safely take steps with a hand rail to some of the highest peaks? Imagine allowing a certain amount of people a day to access the stairs legally. Visitors pay a higher fee, residents get local rate. The costs offsets the security and up keep of the stairs. Maybe even having a pick up at a given location, a van takes people to the beginning of them, and will take them back later. A signed waiver would be absolutely necessary relinquishing all liability. Having a controlled access point and the ability to actually climb them will alleviate the residents concerns about noise, litter, trespassing etc. If you can't be the entity that oversees them, please allow the city or a private group to overtake the operations. Removing them is probably the worst thing that can be done. Putting them on another property like kualoa ranch is not a good idea either. Closing other hikes like Mariners ridge for example just infuriates the community of respectful local hikers and we should not have to suffer because the leaders make poor decisions.

The Haiku stairs is a beautiful site. Being built in 1943, this landmark is one of the many stunning sites on the island of Hawaii. Although I have not personally had the opportunity to see the stairway to heaven, it is at the top of my bucket list. I will not be able to see this remarkable structure if it is torn down. The stairs do not cause any harm, yet they do showcase beauty, and tearing down beauty is wrong.

My name is Kalynn Price from San Antonio, Texas and I oppose the removal of the Stairway to Heaven (Haiku Stairs). Climbing those stairs was one of the best and most spiritual things I've ever done in my life. I feel that by removing them will prevent others from experiencing the same feelings I was lucky enough to have as well as deny them of personal transformation goals that climbing the stairs bring. I feel that with proper care and direction the stairs are not a danger to the public and I strongly feel they need to remain intact. Thank you.

Would you like if somebody took away your laptop? TV? Your local park? Your ability to travel? To experience? Your joy? The Haiku Stairs have been a form of entertainment, exercise, joy, love, pure bliss for so many people. An outlet in a cruel world. An opportunity to overcome a challenge and experience that very moment that defined the rest of your life. The moment you connected with yourself so deeply. The moment you realized you can do anything. You can conquer the world. You are strong. You are brave. You are amazing. The moment you look at Hawaii from a view that you never knew was imaginable. You are in awe of the beauty. You are humbled. You see airplanes fly over you, under you and laugh. Of course, anyone could see this view from a plane, a window. And in that moment you are overwhelmed with a feeling so powerful it brings tears to your eyes. You EARNED this view. You stepped out of your comfort zone and accomplished something you never knew was possible. You defined your capability to overcome thoughts of turning back. Thoughts that small minded people encourage... "it's dangerous," "it's hard," "you'll never make it." You realize how safe you were the whole time and feel terribly sorry for the people who decided to listen. Who decided to ignore an opportunity to define the rest of their lives. I will forever look back at the moment I stood at the top of the stairs and pinpoint exactly how my life was changed in the best possible way in that moment. I came down the mountain a different woman. A stronger, more grateful & humble & kinder woman. I shared my experience with everyone I knew and brought joy to so many people. The stairs continue to bring joy to so many people. Please think of a time you achieved something you have been dreaming of since you were a kid. Do you remember that feeling? Don't take that away from so many people from all over the world. Build people up. Support. Think about how crucial struggling with mental health is - the stairs are a cure. In the long run, everyone who has walked down those stairs has impacted this Earth & everyone they come in contact with in a positive way. Please, save the stairs.

I feel that the Haiku Stairs are an important historical site and should be preserved and treasured for the people of Hawaii. The stairs should be turned over to the City & County of Honolulu. The Friends of Haiku Stairs have addressed many of the issues of management of the stairs and can help the C & C with future plans. Please help the future of the Stairs by voting against removal of them.

Hello thank you for excepting this testimony. I believe that the haiku stairs are of great historical value, not only to those who choose to claim them but to all the people of Hawaii, including those honorable people that have served. It is a place of legacy. In all of the years that the stairs have stood, despite a very small amount of damage they have withstood the test of time. Just to think of all of the feet that have already climb those steps since they have been installed, is an incredible thing to think of. They for sure have great historical value. What a shame it would be to take them apart or move them from their current location. For all of the hiking I have done and all of the mountain ridges I have been on in Oahu, I feel that the Haiku stairs are the safest for sure means to get to the top of that mountain. I don't think that people ever consider climbing them or proceed to climb them without looking into the historical value of them and wanting to know the history behind them which means that climbing them also becomes an educational experience. It involves the climber in the history of them as well as the history of our country and the state of Hawaii. So to not look at it as a recreational activity but more for a historic site which would be a tragedy to remove. I ask that you please do not remove them or tear them down but you consider a way that the state of Hawaii could instead benefit from the stairs instead which would make much greater sense. I thank you for this consideration.

Hello, my name is Karly Hendrickson and I am a senior in high school at Fairfield Christian Academy in Lancaster, Ohio. Every year for the past 7 years the seniors go on a missions trip to Kaneohe where they volunteer with Windward Nazarene Church and Academy, and also do volunteer work for the surrounding community. After years of waiting in anticipation for this trip, the Covid-19 pandemic occurred, causing the school board to cancel the trip. This was heart braking to me because while I was eager to volunteer and work, I was also extremely excited to see Hawaii, and all the beauty that comes with it. My top thing that I was most excited for was hiking the Haiku Stairs. Seniors from years past told me how incredible their experience was from climbing the Stairway to Heaven, and I have seen many many pictures and videos, specifically from Mike Karas. When the trip was cancelled, I vowed to myself that some day I would go to Hawaii and do all of the things that I was hoping to do in this trip. I knew that eventually I would make it to the Haiku Stairs and see them in all of their glory. Yesterday my heart was broken yet again when I heard the news that these majestic and historical steps are trying to be torn down. The fact that the amazing experience of hiking these steps and seeing to beautiful landscape of Hawaii could be taken from me makes me so desperately sad. Even though I am not a member of your community, and even though I have never hiked the stairs myself, I would like you to know that the Haiku Steps mean something to me. The Stairway to Heaven represents overcoming hardships. The Stairway to Heaven represents overcoming disappointment after disappointment, and finally achieving your dreams. So I am asking you, begging you, not to take this experience away from me, and countless others. Please do not take away my dream. Thank you

I moved to Oahu in 2016. I was in a really bad place, depressed and so many people suggested that I exercise to help improve my situation. I have always disliked working out in a conventional gym and running but I found a new passion in hiking. Within 6 months, I hiked dozens of trails on the island. The stairs was by far my favorite. It was challenging but I still felt much safer than some of the other steep and narrow ridge trails. The hike was more than exercising, it was a spiritual journey. Once reaching the top, I felt a sort of self awakening. I felt accomplished and proud of myself. I felt a wonderful connection to the island and alas, I felt at home. It was an overwhelming feeling of peace and comfort to look out at the views from the top of "heaven" and know, this is my home. I think so many people should also be allowed to share this experience. Coming out of this tragic pandemic, I also believe having the stairs would help boost the aloha spirit. Thank you for your time and consideration.

The Haiku stairs are history. I do not believe they should be removed. They should be protected like many other important landmarks are. It's a beautiful reminder of what happened on the Aina and I believe there are MANY options to finding a way to maintain the stairs. Allowing a limited amount of people daily would help from the area becoming too overcrowded. Haiku stairs are loved by many locals as well as mainlanders and I really pray the city is able to find a way to solve this solution with tearing them down.

Haiku stairs are on people's bucket lists. (Including mine) I was SO thankful there was a legal way to climb them while I was stationed in Hawaii, glad to check it off. It was my most FAVORITE hike of all time. The views are unbelievable, the journey was amazing && I believe people travel to Oahu just to be able to climb the stairs. Instead of taking them down.. put a price on it and fix them up. That climb could make SO much money

I understand your concern and I am aware of some of the people out there who will always seek litigation, yet there are so many more you understand the danger in any hiking expedition and would really, sincerely ask you not to pull down the stairs. Yes annoying residences is not ok, yes trespass is not ok - there is a legal way to get to the stairs and it should remain an option for those of us who want to experience this special place. Please keep them there - put up necessary signs to warn people to cover your own liabilities but please please keep the stairs! My son and I will be travelling to Hawaii again in December next year just to climb these. Please don't take a soon to be 12 year old boys dream of walking those stairs.

There are a lot of dangerous things to do in Hawaii, including hiking the Haiku Stairs. Removing the stairs is not going to make Hawaii any more "safe". I have NEVER hiked them, nor do I plan to, BUT I know many, many, many people that have and the JOY it brought them was obvious! Being in such a breathtaking (heavenly) place, inspires people! It connects them with the aina and rejuvenates the spirit... Leading to potentially more conservationist for our precious island! Instead of spending money to tear it down, take that SAME $ and put it towards maintenance of the stairs. Yes, it might not restore them to "new" but improvements will help. Don't open the stairs to the public, let people to continue to "find a way"... I remember as a kid they even sold T shirts at the bottom of the hike & let kids go up!!? (I was a chicken even back then but I always wanted one of those Tshirts!) These stairs are an engineering feat and a super cool destination for extreme hikers! Let them have their fun- maybe put an online Liability release on the website to have even illegal hikers sign, including a $25 "fine" to help build a fund for more repairs!?! I know people would be willing to pay if they knew it meant keeping the stairs and keeping them maintained! Stairway to Heaven is a LANDMARK in Kaneohe! Please don't take it from us!

The Haiku Stairs or the "Stairway to Heaven" is a known wonder of the islands of Hawaii. Taking these stairs down would be a shame on par of taking down the Seattle Space Needle or San Francisco's Golden Gate bridge, except the stairs are more than that. For some, they are a cherished memory of times hiking with loved ones who are now long gone. For some, they are a chance and reason to get out and exercise. For some, they are the reason they travel to Hawaii. The famous Stairway to Heaven.

I have dreamed of exploring the Haiku Stairs, a precious part of Hawaii, and I know I won't be able to go anytime since my husband is stationed in Okinawa. It's just heartbreaking to know that there's a chance I will never be able to see the beauty of it all with my own eyes and this is something I have always wanted.

people will still hike the mountain and there will be more issues and even deaths if they are removed. the stairs are safe, probably the safest hike in Ohau, they are sturdy and you have railings on both sides to hold on!!! not to mention they prevent erosion, we planned a whole trip around hiking the stairs and since then have been back many times to hike more, and everyone we talk to wants to hike the stairs but haven't because they don't want to get caught, not because they are worried about safety! keeping them up and opening them to the public could be another reason for the state to make money on tourists so use them to your advantage! if you are against them staying up then you haven't gone on them, give it a go! you will see how beautiful and amazing it is on top!

I strongly oppose removal of Haiku Stairs. Removal of the stairs would be a waste of and poor stewardship of tax dollars. I support transferring the parcel to the city and implementing one of the options for access to the stairs that avoids a nuisance to adjacent neighborhoods. I am in favor of preserving this beautiful, world class, challenging but very safe hike.

The removal of the Haiku Stairs should be opposed. Not only do people drive the H3 while visiting Oahu to see the stairs, their beauty and presence has been a staple on Oahu for years. Many people wish being able to see the stairs and tearing them down would deprive them of that.

I love diamond head park hike! I love that it is a well maintained path an the tourists who are out of sharpe can enjoy it as well!!! I have always thought that the stairs could be the same! Create a small parking lot with security guard! Repair the stairs up to set point an charge $10 $5 for parking an $5 to hike! It's a win win for locals and tourists! So many tourists ask us hotel workers how to get there an can they do the hike! I hate telling them No and I worry about them going out there anyways an getting hurt!!! Please fix and charge a entrance fee like diamond head!!! Mahalos!!!!

I strongly oppose the removal of the Haiku Stairs. The Haiku Stairs (and the Omega Station) have become a part of Oahu's heritage and character. Not only does the structure serve as a living testament to a communication and engineering marvel but also as a unique, Hawaiian destination drawing tourists and locals alike. I understand that the BWS does not want to invest the resources for the stairs maintenance, (it has nothing to do with water) however the option of transferring its guardianship to the City and County of Honolulu is an ideal one. It can be managed just like the Na Ala Hele trails and become a legal and adventurous way to enjoy Hawaii's splendor. Whenever I am travelling around the Island and I am able to get a view of Pu'u Keahi a Kahoe, my eyes instinctively focus on the silhouette of the station and its satellite perched on top. It saddens me think that one day that familiar friend may no longer be there. So please vote to transfer the historic and much beloved Haiku Stairs to the City an County of Honolulu. Mahalo nui loa.

Aloha. I would like to make a testimony for the haiku stairs. I've followed these stairs since I was a child, and visited the state of HI multiple times from Alaska. When we decided to move to Oahu a couple years ago, we were eager to do the stairs. But we didnt, because they're illegal. Instead, we enjoyed them from our car on our drive to the East side. I've done over 75+ hikes on this island. Cleaning up each hike I go on with trash bags, picking up trash, TP, shoes, cigarette butts. I have respect for this state and the for the land. As do many others. I think the only thing that truly bothers me about the stairs is the neighborhood people have to go through. It bothers the locals and this is their home. They deserve to live in peace without disturbances from hikers/tourists. Now I know that the base of the haiku stairs is down a restricted road that only BWS can use. If you opened this hike, you could create a small parking area for hikers to park at, with the money you saved from repairing, not tearing...This would allows you to limit the amount of people hiking the stairs daily, and you'd have a license plate number if anything was to happen. You'd have happy locals, happy hikers, and y'all would be happier because you'd have all the info you'd need. Hawaii strives off of tourism. If you google "hiking Oahu" the stairs are the first thing to pop up. For many reasons! The name, the view, the history, the challenge. People come from all over this world to hike the stairs, people would rather pay $1000 dollars than NOT hike the stairs, people would pay money to climb the stairs....so why don't you come up with a plan to help Hawaii strive more.....make you some extra money....and have the security of knowing who's hiking the stairs. You could fix the stairs, which is cheaper than tearing them down...and use the saved money to create a tall fence or a barrier around the water tower at the top to protect the water It's truly a win:win situation. Create a permit for people to purchase to climb the stairs. The permit should include exact date of hiking, # of companions, a phone #, full names. I believe this would help you guys monitor who is going up, so if there is an issue, you're able to track sown the person/persons who created an issue. I think the saddest thing about y'all wanting to tear down the stairs is the history to be lost with it. I'm from a small town in Alaska, and Alaskans never rid of our history, regardless of the issues it may cause. They simply find a way to make it work for our people, our state, and themselves. Because the land is ours too, and we should be educated in the things that happen. I'm sure you guys have had this idea emailed to you 10000 times, but with all seriousness, I hope you understand how important the stairs are to Hawaii in many ways. From the history of the navy building them, to the amount of tourism it attracts to this island to help it thrive. We've seen through this pandemic that without tourism, Hawaii definitely struggles. Please consider all the above statements. This could be an amazing thing for Hawaii if you'd allow it to be. I hope that one day I will be able to hike the stairs legally, and safely, without breaking the law. Thanks for reading. Stay safe and healthy during this time.

I respectfully request and support the Board of Water Supply (BWS) to remove the Haiku Stairs in Kaneohe, HI. I am Ken Rose, formerly living at 46-490 Kuneki St, Kaneohe, HI from Feb 2011 to Jun 2017. I currently live in Helena, Montana. Not a day goes by since returning to the mainland to take care of parents that I miss my Hawaiian Ohana, the weather, and the beautiful culture of the Hawaiian People. I do not miss however, constant early morning noise, trespassers climbing over my fence, or trespassers verbally assaulting my neighbors. The BWS removing Haiku Stairs will grant my former neighborhood something priceless: peace! I am forever thankful to BWS undertaking the Environmental Impact Study (EIS) and funding off-duty Honolulu Police Officers (HPD) to patrol the Haiku Village. The EIS rightly stated the scope of the problem. HPD officers have turned back and/or cited literally 1000s of trespassing hikers. This has improved the overall situation in the valley, but not resolved the trespassing and harassment by trespasser toward community members. Similarly, the managed access option will only serve to improve, but not resolve the trespassing situation. The current generation of trespassing hikers has shown their adept use of social media to find ways around HPD patrols, share information on which community members' property is easiest to cross, or trails to navigate around current Haiku Stairs guard outposts. A casual review of 'Yelp' or 'All Trails' demonstrates this point. It begs against reason this generation of trespassing hikers will 'follow the rules' of managed access when there is always a 'free' way to climb 'the Stairs'. BWS removing the Haiku Stairs will gain the Haiku Valley community a measure of 'peace' they have not seen in decades. The 'Stairs' removal will negate the trespassing hiker draw to this community. No more verbal harassment, no more slamming car doors, no more flashlights in our window, no more trespassers calling to their friends, 'this way' as they climb another neighbor's fence. Just peace, the peace enjoyed by many communities on Oahu that do not have trespassing hikers. I wish to humbly thank the BWS board and its employees for receiving my testimony. The board leadership has always been a friend to the Haiku Village community and exhibited great compassion as we struggled against trespassing hikers. I wish to ask the BWS continue its exemplar stewardship of precious resources and remove Haiku Stairs. Mahalo Nui Loa - Ken Rose

The Haiku Stairs are a piece of history. It would be an irreversible shame to remove such a thing. There must be a way we can deal with them while keeping the community both safe and happy. Some sort of limited reservation system, perhaps—a way to log visitors while also allowing people to enjoy the stairs, the view, and nature. In all honesty, the hike through the back is likely more hazardous than the stairs.

Hello, my name is Kevin Vasconcellos. I'm 3rd generation born in Hawaii, and grew up in Kailua, Oahu (born in the 70s). The Stairway To Heaven trail was always a part of my life and I know it is a special place for other locals. Non resident visitors that have gotten to do the hike during their vacation to Oahu always tell me it was one of their favorite parts of their trip. To remove the trail would be destroying a part of Hawaiian history and a valuable educational resource. I recommend opening it with managed access for education and recreational opportunities for the future generation growing up and visiting the island.

I was born in Oahu. Lived in Oearl City until my parents moved us to Louisiana in 1977. It wasn't until just recently that I even knew about Haiku Stairs. It is at the top of my "bucket list". From everything I've read, people who have ascended to the top of Ko'olau mountain range, speak to the majestic and overwhelming feeling of freedom and accomplishment. People come to Hawai'i from all over the world specifically to make this climb. Please don't take it away from us who have yet to experience it's magic. Mahalo

For a long time it's been a dream of mine to climb up the Haiku Stairs. I wish you could renovate the stairs instead of removing it. Or just allow people to climb by signing necessary documents that state the person climbing is responsible for his or her actions and doesn't blame state or anyone else in case of death. Kind of like it is on mount Everest. Really hope you could figure something out to keep Haiku Stairs. It could become a major tourist attraction. And I bet that after corona crisis it would be only beneficial to Hawaii to attract more tourist-money income. Thank you!

Ha'ikū Stairs is one of the safest ridge trail hikes in Hawai'i. Managed Access can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. Ha'ikū Stairs is an important historic site and must be preserved. Ha'ikū Stairs is a unique, world-class attraction. It would be a tragedy to remove it.

Climbing the stairs, meeting wonderful people along the way, enjoying one-of-a-kind views and living this experience was the best single thing I did last year and one of the best in my entire life. Removing the stairs will stop other people from experiencing it, which would be very unfair. Save the Haiku!

Please consider not removing these stairs. The historic education of them and what they bring to Oahu is something that can be of economic and traveler growth and interest. I would like to request that BWS transfer ownership and operations of the Haiku Stairs to the city and county for managed access. I feel the stairs are an important, historical site and should be preserved for education with managed access. As an avid hiker on this island the stairs are actually an incredibly safe ridge hike, more people are hurt, or need rescue from far more dangerous ridge hikes, having safe access to the stairs would prevent many injuries and rescues on these other trails.

The Haiku Stairs hold significant value both historically and personally to me. I had the honor to live on the beautiful island I still consider home until 2017, and will one day return. As someone for the utmost respect for the aina, I believe the stairs should be opened back to the public once repaired and safe to do so. The stairs represent something Oahu, and the Ko'olau mountains have that the rest of the world doesn't. It is unique and a work of art in many ways, and would be a true tragedy to tear these stairs down. Please consider keeping and repairing these stairs. There are other options for liability such as signing a waiver, limiting the daily hikers, and even charging if need be to help pay the costs for repairs.

Stairway to heaven is a trail that is known worldwide and will draw people from all over to come and hike. It would be horrible to tear down such a well known feature of the island instead of make an effort to form a solution that allows everyone to hike them legally. People would pay for such an opportunity.

The Haiku Stairs is a bucket list item for hiking in Hawaiian Islands and in particular on Oahu. The hiking and outdoor community will take a hard hit if you were to eliminate the stairs from being accessible or removed. It is a milestone accomplishment for many people, both local and visiting. The emotional and mental health value of such outdoor spaces/challenges cannot be measured as to the impact it can have on groups of people. I personally have not taken the opportunity as of yet to check this item off my list but I took solitude in knowing that the challenge and accomplishment is still there for me later on. The beauty of the hike and the vistas you have along the way only add to the allure of the stairs. I would ask that in this day and age as our society and development continues to encroach on the wild spaces in nature that we reconsider taking away anything with intrinsic nature values. We don't get back the space later on when we realize we made a mistake. I know the stairs are a point of contention with some folks and some neighborhoods...but, surely we can all work together to find a conclusion that best fits the ideals and needs of the greater. Thanks you for the consideration.

The Haiku stairs is one of the most, if not the most, beautiful and cherished hikes that Oahu has to offer. Please reconsider tearing down such a landmark of a hike. It is called "stairway to heaven" for a reason. These stairs offer us a view from heaven. A sight like no other. There is nothing that compares.

I think Haiku stairs offers such a great view of the island. It does need some upkeeping but as long as people take care of it and are responsible, I don't see the reason why we should tear it down. I love Hawaii and the view from Haiku stairs that it offers is unlike any other. I personally have not hiked the stairs, but I'm happy for the people who have.

To whom it may concern, My name is Lance Rehkopf and I lived on Oahu for 5 years and I plan on going back there. The haiku stairs might be old and worn down but there is no other view like that on the island, it would very unfortunate of the stairs were taken down and people couldn't have experience anymore.

I'm writing in support of transferring BWS responsibility for the Ha'ikū Stairs to the City and County of Honolulu, Department of Parks and Recreation. Removing the stairs would mean a great loss for future generations, they're an important historic site and should be preserved. Reopened under managed access the stairs would be a world-class, safe, educational recreational experience. I urge you to transfer responsibility for the stairs rather than dismantling them. Aloha, Larry Aloha, My testimony today is in opposition of the removal of Haiku Stairs. I understand in the past there have been cases of stranded hikers or missing person(s) etc. But what the State refuses to understand is that it is also a place for us to meet with our ancestors, to practice our oli's our chants and mele. It is also a place where the few scarce ohi'alehua grow. The amazing hike not only offers amazing and astounding views but it also reminds us of the beauty the Windward side of O'ahu has to offer. My recommendation is INSTEAD of tearing down the stairs, have every person sign a liability waiver. Excluding all liability for the Board of Water supply not only satisfies the legality of things but also puts it at ease. Also, charge each person who would like to hike the stairs a one time fee of $20-$50 to hike the stairs. This will go to the upkeep and maintenance of the stairs.

Ha'ikū Stairs is one of the safest ridge trail hikes in Hawai'i. Managed Access can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. Ha'ikū Stairs is an important historic site and must be preserved. Ha'ikū Stairs is a unique, world-class attraction. It would be a tragedy to remove it.

The Haiku stairs hike is such a beautiful hike and offers breath taking views of almost all of the windward side of the island. The hike actually has one of the safest safety records of all hikes in Hawaii and statistically is much safer than going to the beaches. It would be a shame to remove this hike and the opportunities for the Ohana of Hawaii and the future.

Aloha, I am writing to express my support for managed use of The Haiku stairs. I could go on and list the many reasons to open and maintain the stairs. However, I feel, as only a tourist, the local community's voice matters most here. I only hope that an alternative solution can be agreed upon. If given a chance, and with appropriate resources, managed use could solve most, if not all, problems the locals and adventure tourists currently face with regards to the stairs. This hike is a dream... a natural treasure of Oahu. I've read a number of the submitted testimonies, including many well- thought-out alternative and quite feasible solutions. Please highly consider this option to manage the use of the Haiku Stairs. Thank you, Liberty

The Haiku Stairs are a beautifully unique and historic site. I've never hiked the stairs as I respect the land and rights of the residents who live near the trail, but I have a dream of someday legally hiking the stairs. If managed properly the stairs could be a source of revenue and not a constant source of danger (those who access it illegally) and anger/frustration to the residents. Please keep the stairs so future generations can experience them in years to come.

It needs to be legal with limited use so it can be properly maintained and safe for those who can hike it. Mahalo for your consideration. I hope to be able to hike the stairs someday.

The Haiku Stairs should not be removed. They not only hold historical value, but serve as a memorial to those who bravely ascended them with a tragic outcome. May they always be remembered along with the history and culture the stairs represent. Removing the stairs would be a travesty to all of Hawaii, a monument lost that is as precious as the history of the palace.

Haiku stairs allows access to a breath taking sight that has no equal in the world. The historical significance it represents should not be overlooked. Not to mention the recreational and educational values it would provide the residents of Hawaii and the future generations. People around the world have expressed admiration for this site. So it would seem wasteful and actually burdensome to remove Haiku Stairs, when it can be carefully managed by the city so that residents and tourists can appreciate this beautiful landmark. Thanks for your consideration!

The Haiku Stairs are a beautiful and historical landmark of Oahu. If restored, the stairs could truly pay for themselves. The stairs attract thousands of people every year, and that's right now while hiking them is illegal! Imagine how much money could be made if they were restored and fees were charged for hikers. The fees could go toward proper management and guards, and these could enforce strict rules and limitations. Only a certain number of hiking permits could be issued a day, and hikers could be given a time restriction. Any parking issues in the neighborhood could result in tickets/fines and towing at the owner's expense. If a rescue needs to be made, the individual could be held financially responsible. If all of this is clearly communicated/advertised, I believe hikers will still choose to pay for the permit and will hike at their own risk. The stairs are an iconic hike, known to many around the world, and it seems like a shame to remove them without first trying to make something work!

The cost of removing the stairs is prohibitive. That money can be put to better use. And the stairs are a legend to climbing to heaven in Hawaii. Keep the legacy. People can sign waivers before they enter. That is what ski resorts do... you completely waive all liability. Hawaii can do that too...

Please do not remove the Haiku Stairs. On my one visit to Hawaii, this was the highlight. It is a tremendous way to experience the glorious nature on Oahu. Everyone I saw on the stairs was being safe, just enjoying the view and the hike. Few words were said, but we all silently acknowledged how amazing the stairs are. People must be free to experience all the beautiful island of Oahu has to offer, and removing these stairs would injure future generations by taking away the opportunity to experience them. I am not saying you must spend money to restore or secure them, but simply do not take away this amazing, hidden landmark. Or else this will turn into another casualty of the bureaucracy.

Although I was not able to personally climb the stairs, the thought of not ever having that opportunity is heartbreaking. The stairs have been a symbol of strength and resilience for many people who have lived and visited the island. Taking down the stairs would mean destroying a piece of history, erasing it from the map and diminishing that inner light that so many people have when they vow to do the 2.5 mile loop. The stairs should not be removed, this should not even be an option on the table. They should be cared for by the people who love the island, and want to preserve the rich history that Hawaii holds.

I am in support of removing the stairs. We are tired of the trash that is left behind by the illegal hikers and having our fence broken by hikers climbing our fence to either get to the stairs or leave. We had to put down one of our dogs because he was getting too aggressive due to all the hikers trespassing all hours of the morning and night. We shouldn't have to always have our lives disrupted by trespassers. We shouldn't have to live like this. The only solution we see is removing the stairs. Our neighborhoods deserve to be at peace and free of trespassers.

Even though the stairs are no longer assessable it makes for an amazing history lesson. Also every time I come home I enjoy looking up the side of the mountain from the H to see them. Hello, Please consider saving the haiku stairs if not to preserve its historical importance then to keep this local treasure accessible and safe. I say safe because you'll not stop it's use by removing a section you'll just make it not safe. People will still go. The trail was hiked before the stairs were repaired, via ladders and sketchy ropes, and even if removed it will STILL continue to be hike! It will just be much much less safe. The most dangerous thing about them right now is that people need to hike it in the middle of the night to avoid the security guard. Many are even willing to pay the fine if caught just to have the experience! The guard "solution" has only caused a huge disturbance for the local neighborhood. Having lived my entire life here I understand that the increase in visitors to our cherished local treasured spots can seem ridiculous and overwhelming. As well as a free-for-all of disrespectful behavior. However, we cannot just ban every single hike or scenic location on the island one by one because people occasionally do stupid things and get hurt, stranded, or act like jerks to the residents in the vicinity. This is why I think but the ONLY way to resolve this issue from a legal and community standpoint is through controlled access. Look at what other states have done to better manage and maintain popular natural wonders and how successful it had been! To include our own state parks. Admission/ permits will cover maintenance, staffing, and liability. If run by the state or a contracted operator, who carries the liability, the number visitors can be controlled, access times can be controlled (no middle of the night climbing), when people ascend and descend can be controlled to eliminate dangerous passing on a narrow trail , they can be shuttled in to alleviate parking & noise to the local residence (to include restroom facility use before reaching the trail head, and even possibly be guided to make sure everyone behaves/ doesn't end up in the school or someone's yard / gets a history and geological lesson. Instead of ruining this treasure and STILL having all the problems that everyone is upset about right now we can do so much better! We can turn this into a profitable venture for Hawaii and alleviate community and liability concerns. Please consider the big long term picture in your determination on what to do going forward. Mahalo nui loa for taking the time to read this a concerned windward resident, Malia Leinau Myers ~Malia Leinau Myers

The Ha'ikū Stairs has been a place of transformative power for decades - changing countless lives since it was built. The mountain peak they climb, Pu'ukeahiakahoe, has a magical effect on souls - and is exactly the influence we need in civilization during this critical point in earth's history! For the State of Hawaii, managed access can be a revenue generator, rather than a liability. Removing or relocating the stairs creates more exposure for the State. If the stairs are moved or destroyed, people will still climb Pu'ukeahiakahoe via a hazardous route (Moanalua Valley Trail). There have been countless rescues of inexperienced hikers on Moanalua Valley Trail and the surrounding ridges of the KST. To illustrate, I once got a call that two hikers were lost trying to get to the stairs via the legal way. 6 hours later (at 2am) I found them huddled where they stopped while descending the nearly sheer faces of the cliffs overlooking Kaneohe, quite literally steps from falling to their death. They were hiking the legal way. So many stories that began with people hoping to reach the amazing views of Kaneohe legally, have paradoxically ended miserably, expensively, even tragically. The most recent death on the legal way was a young local boy from Big Island. There has been only one death on the Ha'ikū Stairs since it was built in 1942. That was a heart attack in 2006 - a McDonald's issue. The phenomenal engineering and impressive track record makes the Ha ik Stairs the safest ridge hike in Hawaii. The stairs also eliminate erosion caused by thousands of footsteps. Moanalua Valley Trail is alarmingly eroded, whereas Ha'ikū Stairs shows zero erosion. The steel steps take all the abuse and leave the mountain intact and preserved. With managed access, the neighborhood nuisance can be easily eliminated as outlined extensively in Friends of Ha'ikū Stairs proposals. It has been called the Eiffel Tower of Hawaii, and I've known of people visiting Hawaii for just 48 hours - only to climb the stairs. This staircase is of utmost importance to Hawaii's international allure and local economy. There is so much heart in the walls of that building up there. So many tears have been shed on that mountain. So many stories of a day on Pu'ukeahiakahoe that forever changed the way people see their life. The staircase is not only historic and a national treasure, it is a spiritual treasure beyond words. I urge anyone considering destruction of the Ha'ikū Stairs to first survey them, and linger at the top. Bring food and something warm. Don't let me change your mind. The mountain does that easily.

Hiking the stairway is a one of a kind experience. I have never been on any other hike which provides such expansive views and beautiful flora and fauna, combined with the opportunity to watch the sun rise from above the clouds. It's spiritual and should be experienced by everyone. Please keep the stairs active and charge for access. I would definitely pay to use them. Thank you!

When I think of the haiku stairs I think back to my childhood when I first saw the "stairway to heaven". I dreamed about hiking it one day. Now I live here on Oahu and I truly believe it's a part of Hawaii. I love looking at the stairs when driving down the highway. Taking down the stairs is a disturbance of Oahu's history. I find Oahu's hikes to be the some of the most extraordinary hikes in the world and think the stairs should be shared with generations to come.

My husband and I hiked the Moanalua Trail a couple years ago to the transmitter site. The views from the top were amazing! The transmitter site, and the stairs, are a unique part of Oahu's history. They deserve to be preserved and enjoyed. I can fully appreciate the concerns of the people who live in the subdivision near the bottom of the stairs and am sure that I wouldn't want to be bothered by hikers, at all hours of the day and night. That is why it is so important to find a way to open the stairs legally, while preserving the privacy of the people who live nearby. The Friends of the Haiku Stairs, and others, have offered to help maintain the stairs and have offered solutions for safe access. With so many groups wanting to help, there's no reason why the stairs can't be a safe place to hike and enjoy the beauty of Oahu. The Haiku Stairs are in one of the most beautiful areas of Oahu. It would be a shame not to preserve them, so others can enjoy the area.

To: Board of Water Supply board members From: Mark Lindsay I am strongly opposed to removing the Haiku Stairs. They are a beautiful asset to the state of Hawaii. A transfer of ownership of the relevant properties to another entity that would carefully and responsibly manage the access, should be easily done, and would make everyone happy. The Friends of Haiku Stairs, and others in these comments, have proposed several excellent and perfectly feasible scenarios to preserve and maintain the Stairs for everyone to enjoy. These scenarios have been on the table for years; I don't know why one of them has not already been accomplished years ago. It would be incredibly wasteful and irresponsible to just destroy for no good reason the outstanding Stairs, put in place at great cost. It is terrifically frustrating to contemplate that people are even thinking of doing so. Please keep the Stairs and open it up to the public!

The Haiku Stairs, or Stairway to Heaven, is a magnificent hike. The experience I had climbing it was one of the most profound experiences I've ever had. To see the beauty of Hawaii from up above and know that you have accomplished something difficult by arriving at the top helped me believe more in my ability to do hard things and be strong. I felt both literally and figuratively on top of the world, like I could do and be anything. It was inspiring. Please, do not remove the stairs. Allow people to continue having wonderful experiences and growing as individuals. Also, people will get there if they want to, even if it means going by way of Moanalua Valley; and from experiencing both paths up the mountain, I can tell you, the stairway is a much, much safer way up. If you take them out, you won't stop people from attempting the journey; you will only put their lives at greater risk when they do so. Please keep the stairs. Hiking them is a very impactful experience and will literally save lives.

Exploring the mountains is an important way for natives, locals and visitors to learn about, love and respect the Aina. We shouldn't let the actions of few who have disrespected the Haiku community ruin this amazing piece of Oahu for the world. If there was better controlled parking and access this would not inconvenient residents. The resources needed to remove the stairs would be a waste of time and money, not to mention would leave the mountain scared. Let the youth connect with the earth. There is so little left to keep them from drugs and alcohol. Let's make Haiku stairs a positive outlet for them and the surrounding community.

This is an amazing hike with great historical value. I don't see the reason to remove the stairs other than a petty response to opposition. The stairs make this hike significantly safer than other legal ridge hikes in the area over wet ground. With proper maintenance this could significantly reduce the risk in getting a view this nice. The biggest risks are created by the hike being illegal.

Managed Access can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. Ha'ikū Stairs is an important historic site and must be preserved. Ha'ikū Stairs is a unique, world-class attraction. It would be a tragedy to remove it. Having the Haiku Stairs has been to others and myself a place of accomplishment, fulfillment, peace, conquering, or strength factor to many. Overall it's a place of beauty and history. It has options to bring funds into our state, to improve our land that we live on and a chance for history to expose itself where more people may respect our lands.

First off thank you for allowing the public to submit input on this topic. I have had the opportunity to live on Oahu off and on the past 15 years. Haiku stairs and the land they sit on should be considered one of the wonders of the world. I have had the opportunity to see the stairs after hiking up through moanalua valley. Simply breathtaking when you get to the top. I have dreamed of climbing the stairs but didn't because it was illegal to go do and people trespass on people's property to access the stairs. I respect that. However, if access to the stairs was moved to public property and the public were to submit an application, waiver and fee to climb the stairs it could be a win win for all of us. The proceeds could help to fund trail maintenance. Volunteers could also take part in maintenance. I know that there is much more that goes into this project but please consider many of us love the haiku stairs and want them to stay. Thank you for your consideration.

Haiku stairs is both monumental in it's history and it's beauty. The board of water supply could easily make this hike public by making individuals pay for a pass like the ne'pali coastline and sign a waiver for obvious dangers. The money generated could then be used to preserve it instead of tearing it down. I personally have never hiked it, I've always wanted to but I am aware of it's dangers, that does not stop me from showing all my family and friends who visit the stairs from H3 telling history, or sharing photos on social media of those brave enough to do it. I understand the communities surrounding it upset over parking however, this hike is one of the staples of the island of Oahu, just as famous and noteworthy as winter surf on North Shore. I have been a resident of Oahu for 5 years and I do not support it's removal now, or ever.

I'm against removing the stairs, for one because they are a historical landmark that isn't being recognized as such. On top of there historical value, they are a big draw to those who enjoy such intense hikes. They can be made safe, and the money amounts being said to tear them down are insane when that same money could be used to fix them up and make them safe for hikers. You could then charge a per hike fee and make enough money to maintain the stairs and also fund any personal needed to help facilitate the hiking process. Such as safe to monitor the gate letting only the limited number of people use it per day. Staff to set up and maintain a website for reservations to hike it. Not everything old should be torn down simply because it's old, you have the ability to fix this situation for the hikers and for the residents who live near it. Limiting the amount of hikers and what time the hike can be legally done will fix the issue of residents having people climbing through their yards at all times of the day and night.

I oppose the removal of the Haiku Stairs because of the history behind the stairs and we should be doing everything we can to save it for future generations not removing history. People would pay to hike the stairs and the repairs and upkeep. Have off site parking and bus people in so the neighborhood would get relief from the hikers. At a time when people feel there is not a lot of control in the world, this is something that be controlled and saved for future generations. Let people learn a small bit of history about Hawaii and don't take the stairs away.

I'm writing in support of transferring ownership/management of the Haiku Stairs to Honolulu City & County DPR. Hiking the stairs in the past (in a safe and respectful manner) was one of the most memorable experiences of my life, and definitely the highlight of our trips to Hawaii. The more strict enforcement of closure of the stairs in recent years was a major factor in why we chose other vacation destinations instead of Hawaii more recently, as I couldn't face the idea of going back to Oahu but not hiking the stairs again. It felt that addicting. It's draw is a combination of the exhilarating climb, incomparable views, and historical significance. It would be a downright shame to lose this irreplaceable historically significant experience. If the stairs were open for hiking under a managed access plan, Oahu would be back on the top of our vacation list for sure. Additionally, the EIS concluded that managed access was the best and least expensive plan going forward, which seems like a win-win. My family and I urge you to transfer the stairs to Honolulu DPR and keep them open for future generations. Thank you sincerely for your time and consideration.

I support the BOW's decision to remove the Haiku Stairs for the following reasons: 1)The Stairs attracts trespassers into our neighborhood and onto our property at all hours of the day and especially in the early morning hours. Hikers especially want to be at the top of the Stairs by sunrise which necessitates starting very early in the morning. We have been awoken at 2 am by groups traipsing through our back yard looking for a way up to the Stairs. Even if a concessionaire was hired to run the operation, hikers will still circumvent their 5 am start time to get an early start in order to see the sunrise at the top. 2) Climbing the Stairs is a risky undertaking and the Fire, Police and Emergency personnel will continue to be tasked to provide rescue services which burdens our already stretched tax payer supported public service providers. The public at large should not have to continue to foot the bill for hikers who get lost, hurt or worse. 3) The BOW should be able to decide the fate of the Stairs in keeping with their own mission statement. The BOW wants the Stairs removed but up to now they have had to spend hundreds of thousand dollars annually for security guard and special duty officers to monitor the access points diverting much needed funds away from their primary mission. 4) Conveying the Stairs to a concessionaire to operate will not solve the problems (i.e. trespassers will still disrupt homeowner's quiet enjoyment of their property) and it will exacerbate the problem of limited parking and roadway access to the Stairs. 5) The original purpose of the Stairs (to access communications equipment during WWII) is no longer relevant. To allow the Stairs to remain as a tourist attraction to the detriment of the tax paying homeowners in the surrounding neighborhood and all the citizens of our fair State who support the public services via tax dollars is a travesty. The Stairs as an attraction should not be allowed to remain in a residential community. I support the BOW decision to remove the Stairs permanently.

Haiku stairs are a source of inspiration, motivation and accomplishment (for those lucky enough to have been up them). People come from all over the world for a chance to climb the stairway to heaven, Hawaii depends on tourism dollars. The view from the top is unparalleled in beauty and awe. Yes, there are other trails that get you up to that elevation but the vantage point from that specific spot is the best. As a big island boy, it's my dream to get up there someday. I started hiking just so when that comes I'll be ready. Please don't remove them.

The Haiku Stairs must stay! The “Stairway to Heaven” is an iconic part of Oahu’s character. They add to the beauty and mystique of the island. It would be massively expensive to remove these, why spend money to take a way something that SO MANY people around the world enjoy? I understand the stigma that they are “dangerous”, but so are vending machines (kill 2.18 people per year), skydiving (over a dozen deaths per year), and cheeseburgers (unhealthy diet leads to countless health complications and death). If people choose to knowingly take a risk, let them. PLEASE consider saving this internationally acclaimed wonder!

Please do not waste taxpayer money on removal of these stairs! State revenue has been seriously impacted due to COVID. Give it back to the people of Hawaii for their enjoyment. Where else in the world can you experience something like this and be able to take in the true beauty of Hawaii and also get a good workout? Not many places. Let the City turn it into a destination for both locals and tourists. Please, charge a fee for entrance. The City needs the money!

I feel that transferring stewardship of the stairs to the City or another organization would be the best route. Board of water supply should not have to be responsible for the stairs since it's not part of their mission. The stairs fit better in Parks and recreation with management done by a third party. That way, there are less expenses from the state or city and more options for locals and visitors to enjoy the island. I oppose the removal of the stairs. That would be more expense and loss of an iconic and historic location. The state already has enough debt, especially with the massive amount to tax money lost from the business shutdown for the corona virus. The State and city should not have to bear the risk or expense. Let a local business take over management of the stairs, they can take the risk and revenue and the state benefits from the extra tax money. It's a win win win. Less risk for the state. Less expenses. More money. I think that's the way to go.

The Haiku Stairs are an incredible feat of human engineering and determination. They are rich in history, a reminder of Hawai'i's importance during WWII. I imagine tracing the path people took over 75 years ago to support something much bigger than themselves. They are also a popular tourist attraction, and for good reason. From the top of Pu'u Keahiakahoe, there may arguably be no greater view. The Haiku Stairs should be cherished, relished, and given greater respect. The marvel, the history, and the attraction should be used in the state's citizens favor. It needs an owner who will maintain it and make it economically feasible to maintain, which can be done. It needs a local entity to alleviate the neighborhoods rightful concerns, which can be done. And it needs local citizens who will support the care and enforcement of these things. Lo and behold, there are already solutions and people to meet all of these challenges. We can create jobs, lower the burden on the neighborhood, and maintain the historic stairs for generations to come. Do the right thing and save the stairs! Don't spend millions of dollars to remove something when there are already positive solutions in place to benefit the community and it's people.

I strongly oppose the removal of Haiku Stairs. Managed Access can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. Ha'ikū Stairs is an important historic site and must be preserved. It would be a tragedy to remove it and would be a waste of time and money. Resources could be better spent on other issues, like removing the Red Hill tanks that threaten our water supply.

I have visited the beautiful state of Hawaii, but I haven't yet climbed the Haiku Stairs. As an amateur military historian and as a hiker the stairs are of great interest to me. The historical significance of the stairs as they relate to World War Two is beyond question. It is my heartfelt belief that a compromise can be found that will satisfy all parties and preserve an important part of Hawaii's proud history.

It's part of history; it should be maintained and a workable solution made for access and parking to preserve local areas and minimize impact to the locals and environment. I've ascended its as well as the koko tramway; and in my opinion the tramway is much sketchier. If you're worried about liability, have a permit system where people must sign a waiver and pay $5 for parking. If you want vertical sections to be safer; use a similar system to the half dome or via Ferattas in Europe. In faith you will do the right thing

I write this letter in strong opposition of removing the Haiku stairs. When I moved to Oahu in 2008 for school, One of the first enchanting experiences I had was to hike the Haiku stairs. I remember it vividly, the top was shrouded in clouds, and the sunrise on the way up was like nothing else. It was the only time I dared climb the stairs in the almost 10 years I was blessed to live on Oahu. Removal of this hidden gem would be a loss for all the people on the island who crave a challenge, beauty, and adventure. Not only should that Oahu treasure be saved, it should be sold to persons who want the responsibility for maintaining it and making it legally open to the public. You could follow the lead of Muir Woods in California, where you limit the number of people through a ticketing system maybe also a safety waiver online, all others get turned away at the gate. Charge nominal fee to pay for a guard and maintenance. It wouldnt be that hard to make it legal, safe and avoid overuse.

Insert Written Testimony

I strongly oppose the removal of Haiku Stairs. BWS should instead look into contracting a third party to manage the stairs or proceed with transferring the stairs to the City. Moving forward to dismantle and remove the Stairs would be tragic and extremely shortsighted as there are other interested parties who are willing to take over the management of the stairs and can relieve BWS from their perceived burden.

The Haiku stairs are recognizable around the world. People that come to visit Oahu always talk about wanting to hike the "Stairway to Heaven". Out of respect for the law I have never hiked the Haiku Stairs, but I wish to do so in the future. Why not make it legal and safe? Why not monetize it?

Removing the stairs would be removing a piece of history! People should know about the stairs and should be allowed to climb them. As part of a significant piece of history these stairs hold, it should be like any other artifact that you would put in a museum so that all generations to come can participate in the hike up the stairs.

Haiku Stairs are historically significant and as such should be preserved and maintained. If properly managed and maintained for safety and security, the Stairs can continue to provide educational and recreational pleasures for this generation and those to come. A tourism plus. The hike is awesome. The views are breathtaking!! The Stairs should be celebrated - not eradicated!

I just wanted to write in that I believe the stairs are a integral part of the Oahu hiking and outdoor culture, and the removal of them would be a removal of a historical part of Hawaii. I've hiked the stairs many times and fully believe that the stairs could be safely managed to allow others to enjoy them in the future.

Insert Written Testimony

I oppose removing the Haiku stairs but believe there needs to be limited access. Here would be my ideas. 1. I do not believe Koolau Ranch or water board should control stairs, I feel they should fall under parks and recreation, the historical society or some non-profit organization that understands their importance and history. The stairs are a huge part of our history. I understand they cause issues and trouble for neighborhoods and residents but so do some beaches (turtle beach in Haleiwa for example) and other landmarks (tantalus drive) but we do not get rid of them or just because some people do not like. 2. You should be required to obtain a permit (charge a fee) and sign a waiver limiting liability. Residents could get yearly permit for multiple visits and onetime permits could be offered to tourists - fees costs would be more for one time and tourists than residents. Pictures of all permit holders would be taken. Tour groups should not be allowed to purchase mass permits and only so many permits should be offered each year. Permits should not be able to be resold, hence picture on permit. 3. Anyone caught without permit on them should go to jail and have a huge fine ($5000). 4. Certain restrictions and requirements need to be included in waiver, like amount of water to take, no trash disposal on stairs, clothing, etc. 5. Cameras need to be placed along stairs to catch violators and permit rule breakers. 6. Stairs should have some type of park entrance for parking and at least some parking area. I understand that there will always be violators but I honestly feel most people would not. Sometimes if you remove the rules and make it legal, rule breakers lose the thrill of breaking law and then everyone can enjoy. Plus it is a huge historical part of this island and honestly one of the most beautiful wonders of the world, why would we ever want to destroy something like that in a world where there is already too much ugliness. Please do not destroy but protect, preserve, and control.

Seeing the Haiku Stairs has long been a bucket list of mine. I am starting grad school this fall and this trip was going to be my celebration trip for getting accepted. Why the Haiku stairs? Because to me they represent a journey and a reminder that sometimes the easiest way up isn't the most fulfilling. I wanted to hike the legal side of the mountain and make it to the top to look out over the Haiku stairs, a part of Hawaii's history and beauty for so long. A reminder to myself that taking the hard way makes it so much more satisfying knowing I worked for it and in the end the view is still just as beautiful. Due to Covid-19 I was not able to take my trip and will be devastated if these beautiful stairs that have touched so many lives will be ripped out of the ground where they are so deeply rooted with many travelers dreams. I hope that you consider the deeper meaning of what the stairs represent to so many and preserve the beauty of them. With all due respect, Natalie Kocikowski

Hawaii has been my number one trip destination ever since I was a little girl. To explore the different islands, hike up volcanos, walk beside lava, and surf in the ocean. I have heard so many stories about these beautiful Haiku stairs. How the challenge of walking all the way to the top is absolutely worth the reward. The peace and satisfaction that you gain when you are at the top is an experience like no other. Please, do not take this experience away from me as I do plan hiking up these stairs in the near future.

The Ha'ikū Stairs hold a very special place in my heart. They are the reason I have fallen in love with Hawai'i, and I have planned trips to Oahu with them as the primary item on my itinerary. They are safest way to scale the mountain, as the back way is often assailed with high winds without any railings to hold onto. They provide an experience that no trail in the world has been able to give me. As long as the stairs are there, I will keep returning to Oahu as often as I can. I can't imagine the island without a hike that is so magical, spiritually rejuvenating, and just all around perfect. It is my favorite hike in the entire world, and the experiences and sentiments I have attached to it out some of my most treasured. It is for these reasons that I oppose their removal and support them being opened to the public so others can share the love for them that I and thousands of others do.

The Haiku Stairs (Stairway to Heaven) has been a staple and historical part of Oahu since they were constructed. It is not coincidence they were nicknamed the Stairway to Heaven- the views at the top of Pu'eahiakahoe have changed countless people's lives. Due to it's majestic nature and healing powers, people will continue to hike the trail- illegally or not. If the state of Hawaii were to renovate and regulate access to the steel staircase, they would be able to generate substantial revenue i.e. waivers could be signed and implementing a cost to hike could be set. This would significantly lessen the liability and chances of people who will hike the dangerous Moanalua Valley Trail, responsible for countless casualties and injuries. The last recorded death on the Haiku Stairs was in 1942- which confirms the legitimacy of the stability and safety of the steel staircase. In terms of preservation of the land, the steel steps prevent erosion from thousands of steps. This historical landmark has so much potential with managed access to lessen the nuisance on the locals. I've personally heard countless stories of how the hike up the Stairway to Heaven has changed their life and completed something off of their bucket list. That's the beauty of Hawaii, the beauty of the land has healing powers that cannot be found anywhere else. I along with many others would love the opportunity to complete the hike in my lifetime and experience the life changing effects. Please reconsider removing the steel steps and consider renovating if need be. This is a historical landmark that should be preserved and embraced, experienced by many. By simply giving up and removing the steps will increase the amount of hikers to choose to do so illegally, by many means necessary. This can be prevented and there are ways to do so by benefiting the beautiful land of Hawaii and it's people.

The Haiku Stairs are an important part of the Hawaiian history and the stairs should never be removed. They should be maintained and offered to those who wish to take on the challenge to climb them. If the ownership of the Haiku Stairs can be transferred to the Friends of Haiku, let's say in association with Parks & Recreation, on Oahu, responsibility & safety could be responsibly controlled through fees and patrols, by these groups. I would pay $50 - $100 to attempt the Haiku Stairs. The money I am willing to pay would include a membership in the Association to preserve the Stairs. Maintenance would be easy because those supporters of Stairs, living on Oahu or travelling to Oahu, would be willing to work on the Stairs repairs and garbage collection. Especially if a reduced rate could be offered on those days. I believe none supporters of the Stairs are making a huge mistake and trying to remove history. That's like trying to remove the Pyramids in Giza or the White House in Washington.

The haiku stairs are not only an essential part of Hawaii's history, but also that of the United States. We should preserve history and educate future generations on the significance the Haiku Stairs have played in keeping America safe and free. The Haiku stairs are a marvel of Oahu, millions of people are familiar with the iconic stairs all over the globe. The stairs have drawn these people to the beautiful island of Oahu bringing with them millions of dollars that have benefited the economy and the islands people. I personally have visited Oahu 3 times in the last 5 years on a mission to experience these stairs. Along the way I have met many amazing people from all reaches of the earth that I still call friends to this day. The stairs are more than just stairs. They are a symbol of strength, compassion, and perseverance.

I came to Hawaii as a tourist just so that I could use the haiku stairs. I ended up staying for weeks and learning so much more about the island and left feeling closer with nature and myself spiritually. The stairs were safe, beautiful, and it was probably the best hike I've done in my life. Since going I've had countless people ask me about them and have unfortunately had to inform them that they were closed. By closing the stairs, you are missing out on tourism opportunities, depriving people of a similar life changing experience to mine, and encouraging them to do other ridge hikes which are more dangerous and lead to erosion.

Thank you Board of Water Supply for hearing the public's opinion on the matter of future of the Haiku Stairs. There is truly nothing else in the world like it. Even if there were such a set of stairs, they are not on our Ko'olau mountains. The Haiku Stairs make ascending the Ko'olau mountains possible and safe, for many who otherwise could never physically do so. It is my wish that the city implements a plan to keep the neighborhood safe and undisturbed. And that one day the residents of Haiku will be happy the stairs were saved, seeing how it can be a life-changing experience for those who climb them. Mahalo and Aloha

The haiku stairs is a testament to reflecting the beauty and innovation of Hawaii. The haiku stairs represents the beauty of what it means to explore the island of Oahu and what it means to be Hawaiian. The ascent up the stairs allows the Traveller to experience the Majesty of the mountain path. I found a sense of self as the ascent enveloped my being. I don't approve the issue of possibly destroying a symbol of hawaii and one of the greatest experiences to have on the island

The Stairway to Heaven has been a monument to this community for decades. I first started trans versing the stairway over 30 years ago when the Coast Guard was regulating it's use. The process was simple. We checked in signed a waiver and proceeded at our own risk. I never heard of any serious accidents nor was the Coast Guard ever sued during that period or any other agency hence to my knowledge. It serves no purpose to dismantle or restrict the use of this historic scenic site. The access road where the Omega station resided and access the stairs provides ample parking and would eliminate the local communities objection to the parking issue as was the case in the past. Fees for admission or permits could offset costs just as in the case of Hanauma Bay. The views from the top are breathtaking without comparison. To destroy this monument would be a travesty. Please save this local treasure.

This year I was supposed to be going to Hawaii as my senior trip/ missions trip before corona accorded . Past seniors when they have cake back that's all they talked about was walking the stairways to heaven. I wasn't quite sure what that was so I did some research and was amazed by all the stories and beauty. I would love to still visit one day and climb it. Why take away something that shows the beauty behind Hawaii along with Gods beautiful creation. Thank you for taking time to read what I had to say :)

I OPPOSE the removal of the Haiku Stairs. Not only is it a historical landmark, the staircase is a bucket-list hike that attracts many people to the Island, which thrives off of tourism. I instead recommend producing parking fees/permits which will hold hikers reliable, limit amount of hikers, and protect local property while creating money for repairs on the staircase and the state itself.

There is no feeling like the incredible rush of thrill excitement and pure bliss that one feels when they reach the summit of the haiku stairs. To me it has been a life changing experience, I will never forget my time spent on this hike. With its breathtaking views alone that have attracted people from around the world to spend 24-48 hours in Hawaii, solely so that they could have the chance to experience the beauty of watching the sunrise or sunset over the island of Oahu. Though people believe that the stairs are dangerous, there has never been a death or injury while climbing these stairs, it is actually known to be one of the safer hikes on the island and without these stairs travelers, hikers and locals will still be drawn to reach the summit, but without the stairs they will travel the back route which can be deadly and has been known to cause injuries, so for the sake of the safety and history, please keep the stairs as they mean so much to people all around the world and do not cause any issues by remaining in tact. Thank you!

I have been hearing about the Haiku Stairs ever since I moved to Oahu. I heard about the incredible views during the climb and the majestic view from the top. I also heard about how it transformed people. How it inspired their soul. I had to climb them. Then I heard that hiking the stairs was illegal. I decided then to hike the 'back way'. As I hiked the Moanalua Valley Trail although I enjoyed the views along the way and the immense beauty of O'ahu at the top, the hike itself was the most dangerous one I have ever done in my life. I feared for my life on certain occasions. Along the way I also saw the terrible erosion resulting from numerous hikers on the trail. I heard the hike up the stairs prevented erosion of the mountain as the stairs took the brunt of the force from hikers climbing up. I also heard it was safer! I eventually hiked the stairs. It was beautiful. It was difficult. It was breathtaking. It was absolutely inspiring. It forced me to work through my fears and my limitations. It made me focus on what was near and dear to me. It reminded me that I was alive. The mountain tests you to see if you can push through so many different challenges. To overcome your fears and to move forward from the limits you put upon yourself. The immense beauty of this majestic island at the top had a magical effect on my soul. It put into perspective my place in the universe and reminded me that nature is much bigger than me. That there is greater energy and life around me and that we should acknowledge it and take good care of it. I want others to experience what I was fortunate to experience. It really did change my life and in a time of such uncertainty, humans need influence of this greatness in their lives. It is a spiritual treasure that should be shared with everyone. We need to save the Haiku Stairs. The Haiku Stairs is definitely one of the safest ridge trail hikes in Hawaii. It's an important historic site and it must be preserved. Managed access could open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. Haiku Stairs is a unique, world-class attraction. It would be a huge tragedy to destroy it. "I urge anyone considering the destruction of the Haiku Stairs to first survey them, and linger at the top. Bring food and something warm. Don't let me change your mind. The mountain does that easily."

Good morning, last January, I was a visitor of Oahu from Belgium (in Europe), and one of my main motivation to come to your Islands was the Haiku stairs. Of course, I visited them with respect and took the Moanalua valley trail to reach them. As those stairs are known worldwide in the hiking community, it would be a big mistake to remove them. Indeed, they attract a lot of tourists from all over the world.

The Haiku stairs is a historic piece of history. Preserving it and opening it to the public when it is safe to do so is not only the right thing to do but would be a benefit to the community. The surrounding community needs a solution as the current predicament of being closed but not removed attracts the wrong type of people. Lastly properly managed and maintained it could be positive economically for those involved.

The Haiku stairs are absolutely iconic. Hiking the stairs is something that people come from all over the world to do. Removing the stairs would not only rob the citizens of Hawaii of a unique and amazing landmark, but it would deprive travelers of the opportunity to see the island of Oahu in an amazing fashion that really allows you to fully understand and appreciate the beauty of Hawaii. Future generations are relying on us to pass down these iconic landmarks so that they too can experience the beauty of the islands as we have.

Breathtaking view, vivid memory and a powerful experience. YES, I ran UP & ran DOWN with a group of athletic Friends and respectfully slowed our pace to pass by occasional other people along the trek. In these days of eco tourism The Haiku Stairs should be restored with funds generated through fundraising and then maintained and sustained by fee based entry permit for access.

If work was put into to maintain a now landmark piece of land rather than tearing it down it wouldn't be dangerous because it wouldn't be neglected. Many people love the haiku stair monument and it is legendary world wide as one of the most breath taking views available. Why would you take that away from yourself and the world? People dont climb Mount Everest without knowing its tragic history, and were not gonna just blow that up. Do the world a favor and dont make the mistake of removing the stairs to heaven.

I am an avid hiker and have a collegiate background in cultural studies. I had a hiking column with Hawaii.com and a feature story about hiking safety in Midweek newspaper. Haiku Stairs are a unique world wonder and an invaluable historic feature. To not have it would leave a gaping emptiness as there's such a rich wondrous beauty to this man-made structure accentuated by some of the most beautiful mountains in the world. To not have it would be to deprive people of experiencing something unique to the world that only these stairs in these mountains in this particular part of Hawaii has to offer. I press upon you to observe the incredible merit of this historical and cultural landmark and to do everything possible to preserve them for the sake of the people of Hawaii and other global citizens who can appreciate the unique cultural gift that we have.

I am Kama'aina for over 50 years and have seen many changes regarding the Haiku Stairs, some good and some not but these are my observations and why I oppose the removal of the Stairs: Ha'ikū Stairs is one of the safest ridge trail hikes in Hawai'i. It is singularly unique! Managed Access (managed in a sustainable way for nearby residents and the community-this IS possible!) can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. Ha'ikū Stairs is unique and offers so much to those who enjoy our aina and want to see it in a safe way. Maintenance can be afforded if we all work together to make it happen but please don't waste all the monies spent on having the stairway repaired years ago only to tear it apart and remove it. They can be repaired again and maintained in the right hands and under great management. Please continue the discussion and vote to oppose the removal. Mahalo!

These stairs have so much history within them. Tearing them down would be a HUGE mistake. They are an Oahu staple! You can see a picture of these stairs anywhere and just know that they are placed on the beautiful island of Oahu. Sure, people shouldn't be on them or trespassing private property, but if they were to be renovated and fixed for safety, that would help everyone out! Also if they were fixed up and approved for public use then you could possibly charge people for entrance and that would bring in a ton of revenue considering how many tourist this island gets!

Removal of the Haiku Stairs would be tragic and symbolizes everything that is wrong with our state government. First, they are and should be considered a national treasure for the history and the sheer beauty and wonder they inspire, not something to be destroyed but something that should be restored and treasured. There is nothing like it anywhere in the world. This is what Hawaii is all about, not shopping malls in Waikiki. Our tourism should be eco/sports based (similar to New Zealand). There is more than enough interest that people would pay to use them thus paying for any upkeep or expenses. Secondly, it's a complete waste of money as the stairs were recently refurbished for a cost of over 1 million and would probably end up costing as much to remove if the government is involved. Third, they are not dangerous (when in proper repair) at all compared to half the hiking trails in Hawaii. I've seen young kids doing them. The main issue is access at the bottom which is easy to figure out as there is a abandoned road underneath H3 which could be taken to Windward Community College or beyond. A simple and effective way to control access. There are other ways and opportunities to have this managed and operated in a controlled and safe method to allow residents and visitors alike to enjoy one of Oahu's greatest treasures. We can figure this out!

To whom it may concern at BWS, Can you please reconsider any and all actions to disassemble this historic landmark. As too many historical landmarks have been removed from our great nation already can we please find a way to preserve this site. The state can certainly benefit from this site by allowing a non profit organization to maintain and run this as a tourist attraction. Well regulated, maintained and use of guide services, coupled with historical facts would be a world class site to behold! Heck we already know how much of a draw the state and these stairs already have. Why on earth would you ever consider doing away with this? Please consider this letter when the final decisions are being made. Respectfully, Ray Meyer

Aloha, This is my written testimony to ask the board of water supply to please save the Haiku stairs or turn over management to the Friends of Haiku Stairs or some other entity that will keep the stairs intact and open for hiking. As a resident I would very much like to have access to this trail. I've never considered it to be dangerous. I do suggest perhaps a permitting process with a small local fee an larger out state fee to limit daily traffic on the trail. Please don't dismantle this special place. I believe Haiku stairs is one of the most beautiful hikes on Oahu, so many people are interested in this hike and it is always a popular interest among residents and visitors. I have friends that have recently tried to reach the stairs from the Moanalua Valley Trail this is very long and dangerous hike. One reason that people oppose the stairs is the misconception on how dangerous they are and that it has resulted in multiple deaths. This is untrue. The Ha'ikū Stairs represent one of the safest hiking trails in Hawaii. There having been no documented serious injuries or deaths resulting from accidents on the Stairs. Another reason people oppose the stairs, is that the people in the Kāne'ohe neighborhood of the trailhead have complained in the past about the foot traffic through their yards. But, the Kāne'ohe Neighborhood Board resolved in May 17, 2017 to support reopening the stairs under a controlled and managed access plan that respects the privacy rights of residents of the Ha'ikū Village neighborhood. The Friends of Haiku Stairs (FHS) organization has a managed access plan in place that is in alignment with the recommended Po'okela Street access route and can be adjusted to meet all the listed concerns. FHS has years of experience leading people on legal maintenance climbs on the stairs, carrying out repairs to individual modules, controlling invasive species, and mitigating run-off concerns. Reopening the Stairs under managed access would provide unique, internationally recognized, educational, cultural, and recreational opportunities and save one of the world's top 10 best hikes on the National Geographic Endangered Trails list.

Reasons for KEEPING the majestic Haiku Stairs OPEN have been already stated w/ passionate desperation, so I'm not going to add to those. Simply, I'm just going to say, that proper management & volunteers to keep it maintained should suffice, like Hanauma Bay & Diamond Head have been the past 10yrs plus. The arguments of Haiku Stairs being dangerous is ridiculous, there hasn't been loads of deaths per month since '1987.' There's been more fatalities at Hanauma Bay from drowning & heart attacks, & that's a controlled environment w/ lifeguards, janitors & fees. Frankly, there's not a lot of ppl who want to climb the 3,922 steps, b/c ppl in Hawaii aren't that fit or even care to exercise 3x's wk. Diamond Head is what 95% of ppl can handle, when it comes to fitness. It's easy, even kids can handle it. If the state is thinking of charging a fee, okay, but it should be w/in reason $2-5, by adding a separate parking just for the Haiku Stairs. Then make ppl walk to stairs or offer a shuttle bus. By doing this- 1. You can regulate to some degree who's entering. 2. Residence around Haiku will reduce the complaining. 3. State can make extra $$, legislation will need as much as they can get w/ the ongoing Covid crisis. Our tourism industry won't be at FULL capacity til' vaccine arrives. Unemployment & homeless will increase b/c hotel, restaurant, novelty gift stores, boat & scuba dive, etc-etc. Anything related to flying will be completely reduced for businesses. WE WILL LOSE LOADS OF $$ PER MONTH & STATE WILL INCREASE TAXES & FEES to compensate the loss over time. I'd rather keep the Haiku Stairs, then continue w/ the $11 billion Rail project, that sucker will bankrupt us if our legislation continue to try to fund that thing during the Covid crisis. Should of done that when Fasi recommended 50yrs ago, it was cheaper back then & we weren't at pointless wars w/ the Middle East, which have hogged up US resources exponentially over the years. In any case, thankyou for allowing pros & cons to speak about the future of Haiku Stairs. - Rewa

I think it would a waste of tax payers money to remove the stairs to satisfy a few home owners grievances and lack of leadership in establishing a safe way to hike the stairs. They are of historic value to the state and represent our history and destroying them destroys that legacy for future generations. It can be used by the state as a way to increase revenue, especially in these hard times with so much unemployment.

That we even have proposed the possibility of removing the (refurbished) Haiku Stairs is amazing to me. This is a world-class attraction and it would be possible to charge tourists more than enough to cover the costs of maintenance and liability insurance. I believe the Friends have submitted plans which should serve as a basis to run the Stairs. As I live and hike in Moanalua Valley, I would further suggest that a great deal of erosion, not to mention rescues, would also be avoided if determined hikers had an easier access than the current 6-8 hour round trip. I appreciate that local residents do not like hikers near or crossing their properties in the middle of the night, but most have done so since the Stairs have been officially closed. Furthermore, there is enough Coastguard property there for a Hanauma-Bay type visitor center, with video on safety and required environmental protection. The hikers I meet who are heading to the Stairs would welcome that solution. Please don't deny local hikers and others from around the world the chance to see the wonders of Windward Oahu in a much safer way than the closure has achieved or any future dismantling will. The views from the top are on websites everywhere. People will come and hike to see it. Let's be sensible and make it legal, safe, and income-generating- maybe using some of the money to convert some of the Coastguard land into an additional community park for the Haiku area residents.

I believe it should be allowed to stay open for future generations to use and enjoy. One of the safest and most beautiful hikes I have ever done. The views from start to finish are second to none. Would be great to have an access point to allow for easier access and not disturb the residents. Also as a historic site it would be a shame to see it go. Thanks for allowing us input.

I strongly oppose removal of the Haiku Stairs. I strongly support BWS transferring the Haiku Stairs to the City and County of Honolulu, and for them to be reopened via a managed access plan. I have lived in Hawaii for over 30 years, and have been patiently waiting for a chance to climb the stairs legally. I have no wish to try to climb the stairs in the middle of the night illegally. Accessing the top from Moanalua Valley is a difficult all-day hike. The Haiku Stairs are a world-class recreational and education experience that can be experienced by future generations. I hope that any managed access plan prioritizes access by Hawaii residents. The Friends of Haiku Stairs has provided a Managed Use Concept Plan that is well-developed and sound. In addition, transferring the stairs to the City will save BWS the cost of removing the stairs. So this is a win-win action.

I'm asking that the board transfer the stairs to the City & County for preservation and management. Ha'ikū Stairs is a unique, world-class attraction. It would be a tragedy to remove it. Access concerns have been addressed with a viable mitigation plan. Do not destroy such a unique site that brings so many people joy over the complaints of a relative few. Thank you.

Seeing this view from other peoples pictures has always been one of my dreams. It's been on my bucket list from the first time I saw it. Obviously haven't been able to check that off the list because of obvious reasons. I would gladly donate to the stairs being reconstructed or whatever needs to be done to make them safe and available to the public. Please don't destroy this beautiful place so nobody can see it and enjoy it for the future. Thank you.

Board of Water Supply: I'm writing to express strong support to keep the Ha'ikū Stairs. We have a once in a lifetime chance to maintain one of the most unique hiking trails in the world. One that leaves people telling friends what a unique experience they had, one that cannot be duplicated elsewhere. The Ha'ikū Stairs provide a far safer alternative to the Moanalua Middle Ridge Trail, even though they both end up more or less at the same destination. There have been issues with the Ha'ikū Stairs, but they are only because the hike has been declared illegal, and the BWS does not want it as part of their core business. By transferring ownership to the City and County of Honolulu, the Ha'ikū Stairs may be operated on a managed access basis where safety, history, and ecology are stressed. (I know the Friends of the Ha'ikū Stairs have submitted a detailed plan, so I won't repeat it). The Ha'ikū Stairs have an important history, and one we should be willing to share with future generations. But we can only do that if they still exist!!! To summarize, we only get one chance to get this right. Removing the stairs will permanently remove a very historic hike from the public. Now is the time to move forward and work with the city and the Friends of Ha'ikū Stairs to allow them to work on the staffing, maintenance and guidance they have already documented. Plus, it avoids spending money to remove one of the most unique hikes anywhere. Sincerely,
Robert Bachman

These stairs allow for people to experience the surreal and literally touch the heavens. Shuttering them, let alone permanently removing them, would be a miss placed action. Any hazards this hike poses is a responsibility and accepted risk of the hiker. While liability is an issue, it is no reason to permanently remove the stairs. Close them and let a solution present itself. Do not destroy a potential majestic resources.

As a young teen I always looked to the sky - planes were all around growing up in in my hometown. And I wanted to be up there, but upon flying commercial I discovered my fear of heights. As Enlisted Marine stationed on Oahu I hiked these stairs - this hike provided more refuge and solace than any other thing to that date - it provided me with the memory that I had overcome my fear of heights - and with that I could overcome anything. To which I did - I received my private pilot's license at HNL (1st solo Ford Island) - that lead to finishing college then to becoming a Marine Aviator. Denying access to the Haiku Stairs, fining "trespassers" and all has not kept them from being used, but it is the easy way out. Removing the stairs - yes probably a 1K times has been heard; will not stop hikers and make it more dangerous. True when governments entities, quasi or otherwise, are involved is it so hard to come up with a business plan, scheme or whatever to fix the stairs, charge a fee and have more control? Seems as though others have done so - scuba diving is just has dangerous, more so is skydiving and even zip lining has its hazards - they seems to flourish in Hawaii - why because these entities choose not the easy path. I'm just thankful that the governing body back then when I climbed them felt the same - an knew to whom the land belonged. If you believe in something my grandfather always said put your money where you mouth is - well - if the stairs are kept I pledge $1000 to their restoration and am sure that another 1999 individuals would do the same, totaling 2M dollars that should take care of the 2016 estimate 1.2M and interest for the passing four years.

Even as someone who doesn't have any real interest in hiking Haiku Stairs, I think it would be a tragedy to remove them. Those stairs have a significance to many in Hawaii and it is an important historic site. I understand the difficulty it imposes on the board of water supply and the community around it but dismantling the stairs is not the right solution. I urge you to consider other options because this sort of action can't be undone and Hawaii will lose something forever.

Aloha, my name is Ryan, and I reside on the island of O'ahu. Thank you for your time and for hearing out the vast community worldwide on the comment for Ha'ikū Stairs. I just wish to comment on the subject of Ha'ikū Stairs. I have been hiking all around the islands and across the United States in many different areas. In my professional career, I survey for invasive plants and hike in many different areas in the Ko'olau mountain range. In this line of work I've gotten to see some of the most pristine native forest, O'ahu has to offer with many plants that are irreplaceable! Over the past decade, I've also had the pleasure of hiking near the stairs, in Moanalua Valley, Hālawā Valley, and many of the ridgelines surrounding these stairs. I've observed many critically endangered plants in the surrounding areas that people use to access alternative ways to get to the top of the stairs. More specifically, what people call Moanalua Middle Trail or Tripler Ridge Trail. They then traverse across the Ko'olau Summit trail to get to the top of the Ha'ikū Stairs. I've also observed over the years these ridgelines with these plants degrade to muddy trenches with sides of the ridge eroding away and the invasion of invasive species. With the Ha'ikū Stairs now, there is a stepped-up police presence and enforcement at all hours of the day deterring people from trespassing the private property surrounding the stairs. In turn, there has been an uptick in more people accessing the stairs via the Moanalua Middle Trail or Tripler Ridge Trail. There also has been an increase in illegal tours happening on these trails promoting a way to access the stairs legally. I am in complete opposition of these activities happening. If there are illegal tours happening to access the stairs, why not open the stairs and have management plans to have paid legal access to use the stairs? People from all over the world are coming to see these views and are paying for tours to access this asset! There are a lot of opportunities here to teach people from all over the world the significance of this place so they may have a deeper connection with it than just a picture of them on the stairs. There are already proposed ways of this management plan through the organization "Friends of Ha'ikū Stairs". If an organization can find a way manage and provide legal access to the stairs, then I am opposing the removal of the stairs, but if we cannot find a way to legally access it and implement a management plan, then I am in support of the removal of the stairs because of reasons stated. Thank you again for your time in hearing the community and I hope we can come to a decision on the Ha'ikū Stairs.

Haiku Stairs is one of Oahu's true gems and is a major tourism draw (regardless of whether the visitor actually intends to hike it or not). For a potential visitor, Haiku Stairs represents much of what they seek in coming to Hawaii: unparalleled beauty that is still safe and accessible to the moderately fit and adventure-inclined. It's a travesty that the policing of Haiku Stairs has inevitably led to visitors sneaking in at hours that even the most tolerant Haiku resident would be annoyed by. The state should recognize the business opportunity that Haiku Stairs represents by doing what has been done at countless other sites in the state: regulate volume and commodify it. Permits should be available in the manner that they are available for sunrise at Haleakala. The vast majority of tourists would likely choose the legal route. Please don't spend more money to remove something that could potentially benefit our economy in a quantifiable way. Count me in for a permit or two every year.

I don't really consider myself an outdoors guy, however, I do enjoy the occasional hike. I have climbed Koko Head many times so I see the attraction of Haiku Stairs and the quest to complete the climb. However, I do not support trespassing and endangering your own life if it means putting other people at an inconvenience if you need rescue. There are many other hikes one can go on if one wishes to push themselves or get amazing views. However, this hike is not one of them. I have many friends who live in the area of this hike and they complain to me all the time that they hear helicopters above because someone got lost on the hike or fell and hurt themselves and need rescue. It is an inconvenience to everyone around and this hike needs to be taken down so the residences and the taxpayers can rest easy. If people want to endanger their lives, they can go somewhere else to get that "thrill."

I oppose the removal of the Haiku Stairs because it is a beautiful, historical landmark for the state of Hawaii. The stairs not only attracts residents but tourists all over the world because of its location and uniqueness. If the stairs are removed and placed on Kualoa Ranch, then they will not hold the same meaning or special value as it does now and has for many years. I believe there are ways to have the stairs remain and yet better the safety of people. Since there is a state trail on the other side of the mountain leading up to the stairs, I think the state should own them so BWS is no longer liable. The stairs could be repaired so that it ensures better safety along with a liability waiver or permit needed for the hike, so in return it becomes the individual's responsibility. No matter what you do in life it comes with some risk, and the location of the stairs is not going to change that. With that being said, I believe the Haiku Stairs should remain so it can carry on it's majestic monument for many more years to come. Thank you for your time and consideration.

I have long dreamed of hiking these stairs, all the way from Sydney Australia, they are what calls me to Hawaii. What convinces me to spend my hard earned money on. Flights, hotels, restaurants, Ubers, shopping, all money that could be going back into the hands of local Hawaiians and the Hawaiian economy. If you take these stairs way, not only have you crushed mine, but possibly thousands of others, dream of experiencing the picturesque Hawaii from one of the most breath taking vantage points mother nature has provided, you are taking away a piece of Hawaii that means so much to so many people in so many different ways.

I have never visited the Haiku Stairs but I wish to one day, and it makes me so sad to think they could be removed. I visited the island of Maui last year with my family as a last family vacation before I got married a few months later. I fell in love with the lifestyle and beauty that Hawaii has to offer and plan to visit the other islands someday. My husband and I want to visit Oahu mainly to see the Haiku Stairs and it breaks my heart to think that that may not be a possibility. They have an amazing history and are such an amazing attraction. I know they are closed to the public, but it would be amazing if they could be preserved and open again one day. They offer amazing views of the island and are truly one of a kind. Please do not remove this amazing piece of history and of Hawaii.

The haiku stairs are one of the most incredible and breathtaking hikes on the entire island. I strongly oppose the removal of the stairs and suggest that instead they either limit the amount of people who can do it or enlist volunteers to help with minor repairs. Due to the amount of people passionate about the stairs there would be no shortage of people to volunteer.

Hello, I grew up in Aiea, Hawaii and only left to join the Air Force in 2004. I have to believe the stairs are not only safe to the public but also help keep the mountain's natural state in tact and free from erosion. If you were to take the stairs down, people will just hike to the top via the Moanaloa Valley Trail. Why is that bad? There have been more rescues that way than just using the stairs to get to the top of the mountain. If local residents don't want people to park there, perhaps there are ways to set up parking somewhere else to keep residents happy. Even if people had to be charged $1-50 to hike the stairs, they would do it because the view is out of this world. I have done it a few times since I was young and have pictures I still have framed in my house from it. There are ways to keep the stairs, make revenue, and keep everyone safe and the residents happy.

It has been my dream to one day hike this beautiful stairway, to experience what so many have had the opportunity to do. Each step on these stairs is a step through history, a time machine to the past. In this time of seat belts and safety measures, let those who are willing to take the risk, climb to the heavens at their own risk. I hope one day to be able to stand at the top and witness history. Thank you for taking the time to read this and may you make the best decision in your power.

The Haiku Stairs/Stairway to Heaven is one of the most beautiful spots to view the natural wonder of Oahu. While I haven't hiked the stairs myself because it is illegal, I have always dreamed of it and wondered at the photos of others. The BWS should embrace this wonder and invest in the safety of the stairs, not tear them down and wreck the history and the beauty they represent.

Haiku Stairs? Have I ever done it? no. Have I dreamed of doing it? YES! Haiku stairs represents a stunning world-class attraction It is unequalled in the world! Certainly in Hawaii. Koo'lau ridge hikes are dangerous & almost completely unmonitored. Oahu & Hawaii are tourist driven states. The stairs represent such an AMAZING opportunity to become an unprecedented natural (healthy, outdoors) wonder and could become a safe self-sustaining attraction. I implore the BWS to allow the C&C to take over the Stairs and work with Friends of Haiku Stairs & other private volunteer organizations to make TREMENDOUS GOOD can come out of an admittedly current problem situation. Comprehensive Plans & Studies have been put forth, 100's (maybe thousands) of volunteers & tens of thousands of hours, can be & WILL BE harnessed by turning the stairs over to the C&C who can work alongside volunteer organizations, like FoHS, botany & environmentally-oriented clubs to "Save AND Maintain the stairs with just a modest amount of governmental support and oversight. I beg of the BWS Board to do the right thing, for the People of Haiku Valley, for the residents of Hawaii. Limited access. reservations & permitted/ticketd access, safer maintained stairs will only escalate Oahu's & Hawaii's natural assets and set the stage for unprecedented public/private cooperation and be a shining/model example of conscious collaboration, kokua & Malama Aina. PLEASE, PLEASE, PLEASE do NOT REMOVE The Stairs and squander this magnificent asset & this truly, once-in-a-lifetime Opportunity!!!

The Ha'iku Stairs are a historic and iconic site in Hawaii. Despite common opinion, no deaths are attributed to the stairs, unlike many other hikes that are currently easily accessible. A lot of money has already been invested into repairs, and removal would cost significantly more than additional repairs. Rather than tearing down an irreplaceable historic site, it should be left intact. A permitting system could be established to ensure a controlled amount of traffic, and to raise funds for the maintenance of the stairs. A designated/controlled point of entry could be established to ensure that local residents are not bothered by any foot traffic on their properties. Obviously there is more to the situation than what is outlined above, but details can be hashed out as needed with help from the community and any leaders involved in the project.

I have lived in Kailua my entire life and I strongly support the Board of Water Supply transferring the Haiku Stairs to the City & County's Department of Parks and Recreation for the eventual preservation and operation of the stairs. The rationale for the C&C of Honolulu spending significant money for restoring those stairs 20 years ago was logical. Having hiked this trail many times before it was permanently closed, I feel that the solid steps and handrails provide the safest access for many people to enjoy spectacular views up on the ridge. It has been frustrating for many of us that a spectacular hike has been unopened because of the failure of government agencies to workout a plan. The fate of the stairs has languished over the years not unlike that of the natatorium that was left to disrepair and Community angst. In summary, I strongly support of the Board of Water Supply transferring the Haiku Stairs to the City & County's Department of Parks and Recreation, leading to a final resolution of this long-standing problem.

As an avid hiker and one who holds great respect and appreciation for all the wonderous natural beauty Oahu has to offer, I feel to go to the expense just to take down the stairs would be a travesty, denying access to one of the most beautiful mountain ranges and views on Oahu. Why not rather transfer the responsibility to Parks n Recreation, upgrade, and somehow make accessible to public without the current fines imposed. If it is just torn down, I feel it would be quite a loss and just seems like the easy way out, not necessarily the best way or best thing to do for all the islands benefit.

Haiku stairs isn't just about its history which is so important but it's also about being able to view Oahu's beauty during an incredible hike and helps to get people active and off their electronics! People come all over the world go witness this beauty and it's one of the main reasons I fell in love with hawaii.

The Haiku stairs remaining in place remains to be the safer option for hiking in this area. It is far more dangerous to hike Middle Ridge, which is severely eroded, or worse yet, an unmarked path where hikers are likely to get lost or hurt. Hikers being lost or injured require an extra burden on Hawaii state resources for rescues. Keeping the stairs in place and legalizing it encourages safer hiking and helps to celebrate the truly unique nature of hiking on Oahu. The stairs have become a hiking icon known across the world. Removing it would be a disservice to not only Oahu, but to the global hiking community. If Oahu is concerned about the liability, the Haiku stairs could become a permitted activity like many popular hikes across the world. This would bring in revenue for the state and allow the state to track hikers in this area with signed waivers acknowledging risk. Removing the stairs and any sort of regulation only increases risk for hikers who will hike regardless and place the negative consequences on the state. I implore the Board to consider other options or sale to another entity.

As a resident of the neighborhood I support the removal of Haiku stairs. The Haiku neighborhood suffered for too many years abuse from inconsiderate hikers, national and international, increased air traffic due to social media and from indecision mainly resulting from complex landownership dynamics. As stated in the very thorough BWS and Group70 study and after reviewing all possible actions we came to the conclusion that in order to keep Kaneohe, including this particular neighborhood, a place for local families to thrive and not to become another mega tourist attraction it would be a mistake to restore and commercialize damaged metal stairs (the original were wooden) of only minor historical interest. Even if access is 'managed' it would only add to the spread of over tourism, similar to Hanauma Bay or Diamond Head. In this Covid environment we presently live in we understand that sole reliance on tourism is outdated and dangerous to the very heart of our communities.

I climbed the stairs almost 3 years ago while on vacation in beautiful Oahu. That was one of the most amazing experience in my life! One of the most beautiful, craziest thing I have ever done! It is there already, why destroy them? It is such a powerful hike! Ask for an admission fee would be a good option and could benefit everyone.

I strongly believe that the Ha'ikū Stairs should be preserved. The Ha'ikū Stairs are not just another tourist attraction, they are an important Historical site. How can a case be made to dismantle them and make this incredible location inaccessible? There are plenty of people and organizations willing to pitch in and help. I believe that with a little effort, teamwork and oversight the Ha'ikū Stairs can continue to create some indelible memories for generations of residents and visitors to come.

The stairs are an historical landmark. A lot of money has been invested to make them safe to climb. I understand liability fears, but hikers are also responsible for themselves. I have been to Half Dome in Yosemite twice which is one of the riskiest hikes for injuries. Having a permit system can limit the number of people who can be on the stairs and would also lessen the number of people who really are not in shape to conquer such a feat. Don't take this historical landmark away from Oahu and the hikers. Find a way for it to work for everyone.

I wish to preserve the Stairs. perhaps under a public/private partnership, perhaps. Charge a significant admission fee with a modest kama'aina discount, work out the issues of parking and neighborhood intrusion (shuttle pre-paid reserved hikers in from Windward Mall on trolleys, whatever). None of the issues is insurmountable, from liability to maintenance. IF there is a will to surmount them. It is a treasure. And forget ADA compliance on this one (somehow get it waived). I have two replaced hips--I'll never go. But others will, and they should. Thank you.

Please, please, please - let's not take down such a wonderful existing stairway and accompanying vista. The only issue, which has been well-addressed, is finding a way to responsibly maintain and manage access to this one-of-a-kind historic stairway. There's a reason it is also called Stairway to Heaven. I've lived here since 2013, and have not been able to hike these stairs. I soooo look forward to the day when I will be able to get my blood pumping, inspired by wonderous views and just feel the awe of this ridge. I believe safety issues have been addressed, and it is my understanding that the Ha'ikū Stairs is one of the safest ridge trail hikes in Hawai'i. Without a doubt managed access can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. Please do not vote to remove these stairs from your citizens today and in the future.. We strive throughout the Islands to preserve historic sites whenever possible, and the Ha'ikū Stairs is an important historic site and certainly can be and should be preserved. Thank you for considering this input, and making sure we do not destroy such a unique, world-class attraction. It would simply be a tragedy to remove it. Steven Crisp

I do not support the removal of Haiku Stairs. The vast majority of testimony to remove the stairs is focused on the current, unacceptable situation of the stairs being an un-managed and illegal attraction to many. That viewpoint lacks the vision for what this world-class hiking experience could represent for our state. A more positive vision is one in which the stairs' true value is embraced. Turn the management over to an entity other than BWS, and properly plan access, safety, and a fee structure that could alleviate many of the current complaints. The world-wide appeal of the stairs, and more importantly the window they grant to Hawaii's natural splendor, is apparent. Let's use this unique asset to provide wonderful health, cultural and economic benefits to our community.

To be read in a gentle voice and with aloha - Although I have only once hiked the Haiku Stairs, many years ago and when I was in my late 40s, it has left a lasting impression on my very soul. I may never again go to those heights, but because I did it I know what I'm capable of and have carried that confidence with me through the years. The Stairway to Heaven is a unique treasure of the people of Hawaii to be shared with the world and should be preserved for generations to come. I use my voice to ask the BWS to transfer authority of the stairs to the City & County of Honolulu. Mahalo for your time, Suzan Danforth

Dear Members of the Board of Water Supply, Please keep the Haiku Stairs. I love hiking it and this is something unique to Hawaii. Tour guides are charging visitors and locals hundreds of dollars to show people the legal way to access these stairs from hiking in from Pearl City. I think we can charge locals and tourists to upkeep this landmark and keep them from entering private property if we create a legal passageway in Kailua too. I would be willing to pay top dollar if there was a legal passageway from Kailua. Hiking in from the leeward side is really long and more dangerous due to it not being a well maintained trail. I believe "stairway to heaven" should be repaired and shared with the world. If they were accessible and charged admission it would minimize accidents and people trying to sneak up at odd hours before the sun comes up. People are still going to hike up just the dangerous back way along the ridge if the stairs are gone.

If there is a way that keeping the stairs can benefit the community (ie permit or crowdsource funding to pay for maintenance/operations) while allowing visitors to enjoy this special place then I am in favor of keeping the stairs. Visitors who enter could be registered/granted times to minimize overcrowding and also made to watch a safety/respect video and agree not to violate terms with penalty steep fine if they do.

Ha'ikū Stairs is one of the safest ridge trail hikes in Hawai'i. Managed Access can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations. To the Board of Water Supply, Thank you for allowing the public to voice our views. I'm sure the issue with the Haiku Stairs has been a bother to your organization for years and I can understand the desire for its removal. However, I strongly believe that preserving the Stairs and passing management to the City and County under the managed access plan is in the best interests of Hawaii. The historical importance of the stairs is too great for it to be permanently lost to future generations. There is no other structure in the world like it. If removed, it will never be built again and the world would have lost something truly unique. By preserving the Stairs, we respect the work of the servicemen who took on the monumental engineering challenge of building it so many years ago. It is also of great value both recreationally and educationally. The experience that the hike provides cannot be matched by any other. Not only is the view one of its kind, but so is the natural environment one is immersed in along the way. I am confident that it can be managed properly by the City and County. Placement of a proper, legal point of access will stop the current problems with trespassers. The plan by the FHS is sound and represents the public's interest in opening up the Stairs for access. Thank you for your time.

For years this has been a dream to hike. We honor the law by not hiking. Now we have teenage sons that also want to hike, and learn of the Hawaiian history of the stairs. Although this hike is strenuous, having the stairway repaired & opened, would help ensure safety & bring education to the community and visitors, while providing revenue. I believe it would be a dis-service to Hawaii to remove it. Please allow the community to repair and open. Thank you.

My husband and I had the pleasure (understated) of doing a legal hike to the stairs last year with a local guide. We would love to do it again and for others to be able to enjoy it. Not everyone wants to disrupt neighborhoods or disturb local families. We met our guide with a small group and hiked the 9 hour trail and will remember the positive experience and breathtaking views for the rest of our lives. It would be sad to deny others the same experience. I fully support local guides as they know the area and don't hesitate to cancel hikes under poor weather conditions. They know the trails and we never felt at risk. Our guide is a lover of Hawaii and sharing her beauty in this positive way. My hope is that future generations will be able to see the spectacular views of Hawaii from the pentacle of Haiku Stairs and the fantastic trail that leads to her through the valley. If the board has not done so, I would ask that they take a guided hike to the stairs before making their decision. A terrific and positive experience. (My husband and I are were 57 and 59 years young at the time). Mahalo!

Mount Huashan, a 2 hour flight and half-a-day bus ride from Beijing, is a world-renowned hike where you can see gorgeous natural scenery and experience steepness and grandness of the hike and its surroundings. Mt Huashan is one of the best hiking places in China, and its pure majesty wins itself tides of praises. Hikers and tourists love to visit this mountain, and are proud of having a climbing in here. After all the costs of getting to Mount Huashan, the hike costs over $50 to experience. Hundreds make the hike a day. Haiku Stairs is a comparable site in world reputation and attraction, and closing the Stairs permanently would be to Hawaii's shame. The Board of Water Supply has a trust for Hawaii in preserving the Stairs and transitioning it to a suitable entity to preserve it and make it available to the world responsibly. That the BWS is considering destroying such a treasure is beyond understanding. Transition the Stairs and the accountability for it to an agency or non-profit that is suitable for it - please.

The Haiku Stairs are a piece of military history that have endured through the generations. The sense of history as your climbing them is something that takes you back to that time, something that should never be forgotten. I could never recommend removal of these stairs, or any of the pillboxes and bunkers that dot this and many Pacific Islands. Yes, people hike them to challenge themselves. Yes, people hike them for the absolutely amazing views. And yes, there is risk involved in hiking them. There's risk in every hike. But I would argue there is less risk on these stairs than on a lot of other trails in sanctioned parks. Personal responsibility is what needs to be stressed. Be prepared for your hike, and if assistance/rescue is required, be prepared to pay that price. Thank you for your time.

I am opposing the removal of Haiku Stairs. This is a truly iconic landmark, and it's shame on the government to even think of removing it. The stairs are safer than many trails on the island. Additionally, it prevents erosion. Fix the stairs and charge people a fee to go up there. This would be a smart way to go. Removing them completely is just absolutely dumb idea.

The Haiku Stairs are a great asset to Oahu and should not be removed when there are clear alternatives that could preserve them without impacting the BWS mission. It seems obvious that the best solution is transferring them to another entity to manage access. Please don't make a short-sighted decision by removing the stairs.

Having visited Hawaii and having immediate family members on the islands, I believe it to be true that it is one of the most unique natural sanctuaries in the country. That being said, these stairs give access to specific experiences that we otherwise may not get the chance to have. The stairs are a very unique part of Windward Oahu and could be used as a source of revenue. They should remain open and be managed better. A limited number of permits could be issued and sold (per day or per week). This would provide income to offset the cost of maintaining the stairs and other associated costs. It would also decrease or eliminate people illegally hiking because they have a legal alternative.

Dear Ernie Lau WH6GAJ, It has been a dream of mine and many others in the Amateur radio community across the United States to hike up these stairs, "Stairway to Heaven" to operator Ham radio at this world famous location but we will not do it illegally. With that said, I support the transfer to the City and County of Honolulu in order to preserve this historic landmark dating back to before WWII and the bombing of Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941. It should be in the interest of every American to preserve Hai'ku Stairs or better known as the "Stairway to Heaven". In the 21st Century, it's easier to destroy history than to make history but here is a golden opportunity for both, the Board of Water Supply and the City of Honolulu to make history by saving this historic landmark forever. Once a historic site is destroyed, no one can bring it back nor regain it's historic value ever again. It is my sincere hope that my words have value as my words and actions as a US Marine has honor. Please do not destroy what little history that the State of Hawaii has left due to progress and modernization. Please don't put a dollar value on something so priceless as it truly is one of the last historic sites on Oahu. This historic landmark should be open to all future generation's to see and enjoy. With honor and guidance from above, Todd

The Ha'iku stairs represent so much to so many people across the world. Tearing these down will remove something special that so many people share across the world. It will literally, remove a piece of something from someone everywhere. It's not something you can put in words or even begin to explain, it's a very unique feeling, being up on those stairs and standing at the top. These stairs are another monument that is something special to Hawai'i. I believe that Hawai'i is a place of magic and these stairs solidify those feelings. The atmosphere up there, above the clouds, overlooking the beautiful island, staring into the endless sea, is a place of something you have never experienced or seen before. I've talked to many people that say those stairs are the highlight of their trip and will go back just to be up there. I love the islands of Hawai'i, I love the culture, I love the people, and I love everything that Hawai'i stands for. This is not the Hawai'i I know and love. This is not something that I believe the people of Hawai'i are capable of. I don't want to believe that your beautiful islands and the loving culture born there is capable of this. There are options to keep these stairs. Please, invest in strength and energy towards those options rather than the removal of these stairs. Please. Thank You.

Removal of the Haiku Stairs would be an irresponsible use of tax-payer dollars. I understand that the Board of Water Supply does not wish to manage the controlled access and maintenance of the staircase, but that does not mean removal is necessary. As echoed by Mayor Caldwell, the City or other non-profit organization could take over the stairs. Since the City spent nearly $1,000,000 updating the staircase it would be illogical and irresponsible to spend more money to remove them. The issue is not the staircase, it is managing access and safety. Since BWS and the City have mismanaged access since renovating, this has led to issues with nearby property owners and many citations. This is a failure of our local political leaders and a lack of logic on behalf of the Board of Water Supply. This is a historical and world-class feature which would be shameful to remove. There are ample opportunities to have this managed and operated in a controlled and safe method to allow residents and visitors alike to enjoy the historical and environmental aspects of this destination. I strongly oppose the removal of the Haiku Stairs.

I have seen gorgeous imagery and heard amazing stories about these stairs, and have wanted to hike them for years. After my trip to Hawaii last year was cancelled, I would hate to miss out after saving and waiting so long! My humble opinion is, "If you have to ask, then don't take them down." The fact that these stairs have been of such "interest," indicates to me quite obviously that they should be preserved.

The stairs are a part of Hawaii history and should be kept and restored. If there is worry about risks have a waiver to sign giving up liability and charge a resident all year pass or a day pass for tourists/visitors. People will continue to do this hike no matter what. Why not make it safe and responsible for all parties involved. The money that comes from the visitors could be used to mark a different entryway that doesn't go through the neighborhood.

There are many places in the world to visit and hike at your own risk. Out of all the places I've lived, Oahu has the most closed land either because of liability or old systems in place. I'm fairly certain that if there was a permit system in place and a small fee there would be no issue with maintaining the stairs and making the public happy. Have a liability waiver so the hiker is at fault for possible injuries. The Grand Canyon is way more dangerous and you don't see hikers getting harassed for wanting to enjoy the scenery. My suggestion would be to use this as an opportunity to make the land a space where people can be active and not criminalized for wanting to enjoy nature.

It would be very sad to see these stairs removed. For one the cost of removal is totally unnecessary. But the stairs to heaven is an icon to the island of Ohau. So many people come as their dreams are to climb this beautiful mountain and enjoy the wonderful view. It would be a shame for them to be gone. People will still climb. But the stairs provide even more safety. For the sake of tourism and the state of Hawaii I'd strongly keep these. People come from all around the world to get that insta pic. To be a part of something truly special. Putting money into your pockets and not taking out money of your pockets as if you were to remove them. I say keep them!

Aloha, Please accept this message as my testimony and know I am grateful for your time and consideration. I know of the stairs, and have seen photos, along with a section as I drive by on my way to town. I've always wanted to hike, but with it being closed, I haven't had the opportunity. This I do know in talking to many . . . First, if the stairs are removed, many will continue to try and hike the ridge, making it extremely dangerous, which I see as a huge liability. I live by Crouching Lion and can attest to the number of people who have been rescued during the 3 years of living here; Secondly, the Stairs are a very important part of history, and should be preserved by the State and shared as a very unique educational experience to all who live in the Islands, and those who visit. Again, Mahalo for your time and consideration. Please keep the Stairs!

Insert Written Testimony

This is a stairway to history, to commemorate the soldiers that arrived to keep navy ships safe. The stairs are part of the earth now, to remove it would destroy ecosystems, a gofundme can be opened to help raise money from all over the world for the funds that are needed to make it more stable and add security railings. The unfortunate many that have died were adventure seekers that died doing what they loved which is seeking the adrenaline rush. Many go up there knowing the risks and if this stairway isn't illegal then maybe it wouldn't be as desired by risk takers and cause so many deaths if it was safer. A more stable and protective stairway can increase tourism and bring jobs to people living on the island if a shack is built at the entrance and tourists are charged let's say $10 and get a specialty stamp on their passport for having accomplished this feat. Locations like this embrace nature and allow us to treasure our ancestors, the people that risked their lives to build this and the many that died seeking their worldly adventure. I have not had the pleasure of visiting the stairway to heaven but I would love to climb to heaven and still be able to come home to my family.

Insert Written Testimony I oppose the removal of the Haiku Stairs. The Haiku Stairs have a rich, historical background to the island of Oahu and Hawaii. It would be a huge disadvantage to the Hawaiian tourism industry if it were removed. With the necessary resources, the stairs could be restored to its original condition or improved upon and serve as an additional tourist attraction (similar to Diamond Head).

I believe the removal of the Haiku Stairs would be terrible. I visited Oahu and wanted to go up the legal way. But an investigation of the route brought me to the realization that it was too dangerous for me to attempt. If the Haiku Stairs were managed and legalized, I would gladly return and pay to climb them. Destroying them would be permanent. With the city willing to take over the stairs and manage them responsibly, it makes no sense not to let them do so. If people continue to trespass and destroy private property, the stairs could be removed then. Although the stairs are currently a nuisance to the local residents, they are an iconic landmark known all over the world. Tourism will unquestionably be affected by their removal. There are many thousands of people like me who would gladly pay for a safe and legal climb up the Haiku Stairs.

Insert Written Testimony The natural beauty of Hawaii is outstanding, to remove this would be shameful. It should be upgraded to allow for people's passage up the mountain. Maybe it could be a pay to access park, which could generate income for the island.

Don't remove the stairs. Talk about a huge waste of taxpayer money. People will still access the trail even if the stairs are removed. It seems that most of the complaints and support for removal come from residents in the nearby neighborhood. While their complaints are valid, from reading many of these complaints it is also apparent that the local residents don't have an issue with the stairs themselves, they have an issue with how people are accessing it. Create a small parking lot with legal access that's not intruding on peoples residences and keep this historic site alive for future generations to enjoy. Imagine if halfway through the pyramids being built, the Egyptians decided you know what, there's too many people here lets just take the whole thing down. A society grows great when old men plant trees whose shade they know they shall never sit in - Greek proverb

I would like to submit testimony to the Board of Water Supply Board of Directors regarding Haiku Stairs.

My testimony is below

Ha'ikū Stairs is one of the safest ridge trail hikes in Hawai'i. It can and should be safely enjoyed by residents and visitors with proper trail management.

I also agree with the following points:

- Managed Access can open up a world-class, safe, educational and recreational experience to be enjoyed by current and future generations.
- Ha'ikū Stairs is an important historic site and must be preserved.
- Ha'ikū Stairs is a unique, world-class attraction. It would be a tragedy to remove it.
- Please accept my testimony as a 30 year Hawai'i resident

Please ave the stairs! As my friends and I have discussed if there was a fee for entrance to the stairs you could easily pay for the maintenance by permit on the stairs. As it is so popular you could charge likely between. 25 to 100 dollars. Just please offer a kamaina discount!

I would like to submit testimony to the Board of Water Supply Board of Directors regarding Haiku Stairs.

My testimony is below or attached.

Picture an architectural and engineering wonder unmatched in all the world, with fabulous views, that doubles as a hike through the clouds in a Hawaii rainforest. Would your first inclination be to ... tear it down?

The EIS evaluated the ability of four alternatives to achieve the water board's objectives, such as eliminating liability risk, supporting the core BWS mission and protecting natural resources. It determined that "managed access" — reopening the stairs to the public under controlled management and supervision, funded by the operator from hiking fees, not BWS water ratepayers — is the alternative that best meets BWS's objectives. It's even better than tearing them out, the EIS says.

If that's the case, why is BWS proposing to do just that? The water board acknowledges that the stairs are a fabulous resource, but they don't want the responsibility of managing them as a public attraction, and the city will not commit to taking over in a property transfer.

The city's reluctance stems in large part from the 30-plus years of myths, misconceptions and misinformation about the stairs, popularized in the media and elsewhere. They've created perceptions about the stairs at odds with reality – the main ones being about liability, safety, and financial viability.

And so we are on the verge of making a decision that will lead to the regret.

Liability. Far and away, the biggest fallacy about the stairs is that they are a lawsuit waiting to happen. Reopen the stairs, and hikers will be lining up around the island to sue every government entity in sight. And in fact, BWS states in its EIS that liability is the main reason for tearing them out.

However, when the Friends of Ha'ikū Stairs asked what expenditures the city and water board had made over the past 20 years for insurance, court costs, legal settlements, etc., BWS acknowledged there had been none. (EIS, volume 5, p. 534). That we as a city are on the verge of making a decision of this magnitude, based on a total lack of transparency — if not outright misrepresentation — should trouble all of us.

Safety. The other main misconception is the related issue of safety, and the need for rescues. Almost every media story about the stairs includes the word “dangerous.” It’s common knowledge, right? Of course they’re dangerous – anyone who sees a photo of them can tell that!

Except, of the approximately one million people who have climbed the stairs (yes, many of them illegally) since the Coast Guard opened them to the public in the early 1980s, no one has ever been seriously hurt. Indeed, their handrails and metal treads make them much safer than Hawaii’s notoriously slick and muddy clay trails. Good signage posted on proper climbing techniques (e.g., “Don’t do stupid stuff”) would provide an additional measure of safety.

And you don’t have to be an Olympic athlete to do it. People of all ages have done it. You can go at your own pace, and there are five platforms along the way to rest.

As for the rescues involved, they invariably involve people getting lost (many in the dark) trying to find the stairs from the Moanalua side. Reopen the stairs, allow hikers to climb the proper way and this problem ends.

Financial viability. The common assumption about reopening the stairs is that their operation and maintenance would be cost-prohibitive. On the contrary, a limited-access, fee-based operation run by a private entity, with different rates for out-of-state and kamaaina hikers, is a very feasible business model, and should cost the taxpayer nothing.

The Friends of Ha’ikū Stairs has modeled nine different combinations of rate structures and resident/visitor mixes, and are confident that many of these are economically viable. They would also provide jobs and internships for local students and workers, and channel profits back into the community.

Contrast this with the $986,000 taxpayer cost to destroy the stairs. In truth, the details and viability of a managed access plan have been known for many years. The only thing missing has been the political will and leadership at the city, state and water board to get it done.

If in fact the stairs can be made safe and self-supporting, who should take them over, and how should they be operated in the public interest? A managed access plan should include provisions for parking, comfort facilities, environmental mitigation, cultural education, liability insurance, maintenance, security features (gates, fencing, etc.) and after-hours security detail to prevent trespassing.

There is nothing wrong with climbing the Stairs just for the views. But a properly run operation can and should provide much more.

Climbing Haiku Stairs should be a cultural and educational experience and not just a recreational experience. Hawaiian cultural values should be incorporated at every level. Education on the history of native Hawaiians in Haiku Valley should be an important part of the program.

So should education on native plant restoration and preservation. There is no other site on the islands where so much natural history and ecology are packed into such a short distance: geology, erosion, interaction of topography and climate, botany, ethnobotany, entomology, ornithology, to name a few.

It might help the city to make a decision if they understood what caused 20,000 people a year to hike the stairs starting in the 1980s, when it was legal to do so – even before the lure of 24/7 social media. What do these people see that the city and water board do not? Why do people who normally take an elevator to avoid a flight of steps skip sleep and risk fines and arrest to climb 3,922 steps in an ascent that consumes more than 1,000 calories?

Governments normally would dedicate the $1 million cost of the stairs' demolition to fight society's ills, such as drugs, crime, obesity. So why spend money to get rid of something to counteract all those ills, providing awe, tranquility, beauty, natural highs and thigh-burning exercise.

Destroy a resource that has brought joy and wonder to nearly a million people? After spending $1 million less than 20 years ago to repair them for recreational users, how does this make any sense? Imagine lifting heaven and earth to prevent people from exercising, and you begin to see how truly insane this is.

Destroying the stairs would be an incalculable loss of an irreplaceable recreational, educational, historic and cultural resource. We should not discard our heritage or dismiss its value, as if it means nothing to us, as if it is just another disposable piece of trash.

There is a real demand from the public that can't be met any other way. The stairs are irreplaceable, and future generations should get to see why. Find a way to make it work.

Hello there my name is michael I'm from Ireland and I visited your wonderful island last year and hiked the haiku stairs. It was the best experience I have had in my life. As we climbed to the top the sun broke through the clouds which felt like we were literally in heaven it was a truly life changing event. The stairs are steep but are still pretty safe and I wouldn't be very athletic. Please reconsider tearing down the stairs. Maybe hike them yourself and it will change your opinions I guarantee that.

When weighing the odds the amount of money and man hours to remove the stairs is way more substantial than repairs and giving a right to such a treasure. The state could make profit if repairs were done and small fee to climb to the top of such a majestic place. There are funds already being spent for security that is up nonprofit to the state also what would be done with the stairs all of the metal where would it go and how long would it take for nature to repair where the stairs have been again spending an insignificant amount of money to repair the stairs and a charge would be so much more profitable to the state and to the grand tour of such a national place.

Please do not take down the stairs. It is a beautiful piece of history that should be allowed to stay for future generations. Many historic structures have been taken down in the past hundred years only to have future generations wish they had a chance to see them.

I hope we can come to a compromise that will allow the stairs to remain while maiming public safety and financial concerns. For example charging a fee for a permit and a liability waver. Thank you for your consideration.

My testimony is below or

I support tearing down Haiku Stairs. It's intrusive on the houses. My friend has had her dog poisoned, a chinese diplomat crawling over her fence, tourists who want to take pictures of hiking while in aloha shirts, and then getting busted by my friend while they climb over her fence. She's had to get in her car to chase those who have tried to get away in their cars, only for her to get a ticket for erratic driving and having to go to court and either pay the fine of do community service. And she's a full time Elementary teacher who drives from Kane'ohe to Hau'ula every day to serve her haumana.

It's totally disrespectful to our local owners where that is their only house. Heck this is not a beach strip in waikiki. These are places of refuge where locals come back home to after a hard days work eeking out a lliving in "paradise." They pretty have to work to pay their mortgage. pls,pls. no more. stop the consumerism of conquering our island, our peaks, our beaches, our trails- only for the sake of visual bragging rights, on social media or checking it off their bucket list.,only to go on to Crouching Lion hike and perhaps tax our first responders with a call for rescue. It's time to focus on families, not fun and adventure.

What are our values? I hope it's with the people and not the adrenaline junkies. Would you buy a house where tourists can access your fence to get "out" to the sidewalk, and will stop at nothing to do so, even if it means poisoning your pooch.

What's next? crashing family gatherings, drinking from your hose, checking out what's in your outdoor fridge. Time to focus on family.

Mahalo for reaching out to the public my dear board.

With all my heart and sincerity.

I SUPPORT THE REMOVAL OF HAIKU STAIRS.

My name is Dr. Lilinoe Darlene Yong, the resident with the Pu'oni St. Board of Water Supply Road and GATE ENTRANCE behind my house 40 feet away from my master bedroom, and the EMPTY LOT adjacent to my home on the mountainside. I share a fence with both the Board of Water Supply and the State of Hawaii HFDC so my house is located at the MOST TRESPASSED ROUTE to HAIKU Stairs. HIKERS DO NOT RESPECT THE LAW WHEN THE HAIKU STAIRS IS CLOSED. THEY WILL DISREGARD FRIENDS OF HAIKU STAIRS IF IT IS OPENED. I have seen a member (of Friends of Haiku Stairs) who testified at the Neighborhood Board sneak other hikers to the Haiku Stairs by my house when it is closed. I have been physically struck by illegal trespassing hikers. I would like a police officer posted at the Puoni Street Board of Water Supply gate 24 hours a day until the Haiku Stairs is REMOVED. I have seen and recorded numerous rescues. First responders risk their lives on rainy, windy, stormy days to rescue hikers many who are not even dressed to weather the elements. I have asked hikers repeatedly to refrain from going up to the stairs because it is illegal and they are disturbing the neighborhood. Yet they sneak around at odd hours from 12am-6am trying to avoid police officers who are guarding illegal trespassing from occurring. It is on social media how to sneak around to avoid police officers when it is CLOSED. If it is OPENED in Kaneohe it will be of GREAT DISSERVICE TO THE KANEOHE COMMUNITY because we will have no discourse for hikers who want to go 24 hours a day through our neighborhoods. They will not stay on course. Send the Haiku Stairs to Kualoa Ranch where John Morgan and his STAFF can provide the SECURITY, SAFETY, and RESCUE FEES to hikers. Kualoa Ranch is a RECREATIONAL SITE. KEEP THE NEIGHBORHOODS SAFE AND PRIVATE FOR RESIDENCES. KEEP RECREATION IN RECREATIONAL AREAS. STOP USING OUR TAXES TO RESCUE ILLEGAL TRESPASSING HIKERS. Let John Morgan and his staff make sure that they don't sneak around in the neighborhoods for illegal trespassing.

Respectfully submitted,
Dr. Lilinoe Darlene Yong

I would like to show my support to save the Haiku Stairs. What a waste it would be to spend millions of our dollars to take down this amazing and historical structure. Yes, you don't want to take ownership. The City is willing and also I understand at least one group willing to take control of the Stairs. What a money maker it would be to charge hikers to hike up there. Diamond Head with its low fee I understand makes pretty good revenue from hikers. The Save Haiku group has suggested limiting hikers so as not to disturb people living there. Maybe even finding another entrance away from houses too. Reasonable suggestions to make saving the Stairs work. Please save the Haiku Stairs and not waste our money tearing such an amazing historical structure down!

Turning it over to the private entities that will care for this important access makes sense both for the residents in the area and the rest of the community. I have dreamed of climbing them for many years and fear that mindless expediency will deny that opportunity to me and countless other residents and visitors. It would be a travesty to dismantle that marvelous wonder, when it has been constructed already and gives access to such a unique and breathtaking natural beauty. Treasures like that are rare and disappearing and it is the duty of the caretakers of our islands to protect and preserve access to such natural beauty. One has only to look at the popularity of the Koko head stairs and the Pillbox in Lanikai. As population grows, access to breathtaking hikes and panoramic views becomes more essential. I would like to submit testimony to the Board of Water Supply Board of Directors regarding Haiku Stairs.

My testimony is below or attached.

These stairs should be a state treasure and preserved, similar to maintaining the cables on Half Dome in Yosemite National park. I've never seen anything else like them and it would be a shame to lose such an extraordinary landmark and piece of history.

Aloha Board Members:

I worked as an Environmental Protection Specialist for the U.S. Coast Guard for 36 years, 30 of which were in Hawaii. My educational background includes a BA in Political Science and an MS in Environmental Health Science. I served as the Coast Guard project manager for the Ha'ikū Stairs prior to the Omega Station closure, and prepared the environmental assessment (EA) for the closure of the Omega Station in 1997. I respectfully ask that you consider the following comments:

1. Liability. Let's get right to the heart of the matter, and the reason for this whole exercise: liability and potential lawsuits. BWS states quite prominently in the main volume of the EIS that liability is the main reason for tearing the Stairs out. So it would be good if BWS admitted publicly what they told Friends of Ha'ikū Stairs in private [attached]: when the Friends asked what expenditures the City/BWS has made over the past 20 years to pay for insurance, court costs, legal settlements, etc, BWS acknowledged "There have been no claims or settlements regarding Ha'ikū Stairs."

Note that this admission was buried in volume 5 of the EIS, and is mentioned nowhere else – not in the EIS, in any BWS press releases or other public statements. Why is that? And why therefore is BWS proposing to spend $1M in taxpayer funds to remove them? Your own EIS evaluated the ability of four alternatives to achieve BWS's eight objectives for the Stairs (eliminate liability risk, support core BWS mission, protect natural resources, etc), and determined that managed access [re-opening the Stairs to the public under controlled management and supervision] is the alternative that best meets BWS's objectives – even better than tearing them out. So why are you doing this?

That you as BWS board members are on the verge of making a decision of this magnitude, based on a total lack of transparency - if not outright misrepresentation – should trouble all of us.

2. Trespassing. One of the main arguments made for tearing the Stairs out is that the atrocious trespassing on neighbors' property and lives would end. We all can and should sympathize with what they have endured since the City's aborted re-opening in 2002. I should add though that, while the Coast Guard had them open in the 1980s, there was no trespassing, even with 20,000 people per year hiking the Stairs. Why? Because there was no reason for it. Anyone who wanted to hike them could just go up there and do it. Forgive me for stating the obvious, but trespassing only occurs when there is no legal access. Restore the access, make sure that security is tight surrounding the Stairs, end the problem.

3. Destruction of historic/environmental resources. By now there should be no need to repeat what is already well documented, but since is part of the official record, I will do so below:

a. Historic . Five structures within the former Omega Station, including the Ha'ikū Stairs, are eligible for the National Register of Historic Places. The station as a whole is also eligible as a historic district (a complex of interrelated units and structures), based on Register Criterion A, historical association with World War II and radio technology, and Criterion C, distinctive architecture and engineering of a Naval Radio Station unique to the Cold War period. If the Stairs were demolished or allowed to disintegrate into an unrecognizable/irreparable form, this would result in a significant adverse effect on the historic integrity of the overall site.

Your own EIS determined that the Stairs meet the criteria for listing in the Hawai'i Register of Historic Places, due to: [1] its extraordinary construction and engineering nature; and [2] its educational and recreational value contribute significantly to the understanding and enjoyment of the history and culture of Hawaii, the Pacific area, and the nation. And your own historic resources consultant concluded in Appendix D that "The preservation of the stairway would significantly contribute to the enjoyment and understanding of the history and culture of Hawaii during World War II, and the tremendous effort exerted to construct the stairs and radio station."

b. Biologic/natural history/educational. Your EIS assesses the physical impacts of Stairs removal, but it does not address the incalculable loss of this recreational, educational, and cultural resource.

The Haiku Stairs brings summit experiences within the reach of a broad segment of the population safely, and with interpretive educational opportunities in cultural and natural history. Education watershed management and in where our water comes from (which are, parenthetically, core BWS missions) are just one of the potential elements of an interpretive program dramatically demonstrated from Haiku Stairs.

Experts in botany and natural history have described the Stairs as unique in the Hawai'ian Islands for several reasons. Their most outstanding feature is the steep ascent, more than 2,000 feet from the valley floor to the Ko'olau summit zone. As a result, the hiker passes through several different climate and vegetation zones. Although some trails exist on Oahu that pass through several different climate and vegetation zones, none do so in such a sudden and dramatic manner, in ways that sharply illustrate the interaction of topography, botany and climate; and none do so on the Windward Pali, a zone that is unique in itself. These other trails, many noted as dangerous, also require a day-long commitment to see features easily reached by the Stairs. It would take at least six times as much trail to reach the summit without the Stairs.

Hikers were not the only ones enthralled with the Stairs. Educators made them a living classroom. The windward cliffs [designated a National Natural Landmark in 1972 because of their unique geological and biological features], being steep, treacherous places, support only those organisms that can survive extreme environmental conditions - and the Ha'ikū Stairs are the only way (short of mountain climbing) to study them. The climb up the stairs leads through a number of micro-environments and native plant communities. This broad range of environments provides the opportunity to observe a variety of native plants, and how these plant communities adapt to the changing demands of geology and climate.

3. Conclusion. If in fact Mayor Caldwell, as per his testimony

(<https://www.boardofwatersupply.com/bws/media/files/haiku-stairs-testimony-5ct-2020-04-14.pdf>), has repeatedly requested that BWS transfer the Stairs to the City and County of Honolulu, why are you still considering tearing them down? What objections raised in your EIS have not been satisfied?

The Stairs have meant a lot to people over the past 75 years, and still do. Almost one million people have climbed the Stairs since they were opened in the 1980s. We should not just discard our heritage (and spend an additional $1M to do so), or dismiss its value, as if it means nothing to us, as if it is just another disposable piece of trash. It would be an incalculable loss of an incomparable recreational, educational, historic and cultural resource. The Stairs are irreplaceable, and future generations should get to see why.

I hope you learn to recognize and acknowledge the incredible resource you own; and that this awareness will outweigh your unwanted responsibilities for them. I understand you want to give these responsibilities to someone else, but if another entity fails to accept them, it does not justify your destruction of the Stairs. There is a real demand from the public that can't be met any other way. Find a way to make it work.

Sincerely,

Jay Silberman

My testimony is below or attached.

I first saw the Haiku stairs online and flew to Oahu just to climb. We hiked the “legal” way and I got to experience the unforgettable view from the top. I can’t think of Oahu without thinking of the stairs and I look back on that experience with great pride.

I would gladly pay an admission fee or donate to be able to keep the stairs.

All the best,

As a resident of Castle Hills, I am opposed to the Haiku Stairs trailhead to start in or near the Castle Hills neighborhood because:

1. Traffic volume is very heavy on any given day and Kea'ahala Road is the only road for the following 10 entities:
 1. Kaneohe District Park
 2. Windward Comprehensive Health Center
 3. Windward Community College
 4. Hawaii State Hospital
 5. Kane'ohe District Court
 6. State Department of Transportation Windward Baseyard
 7. Hina Mauka Addiction Treatment Center
 8. Anchor Church
 9. Castle Hills subdivision
 10. Congregation of the Sacred Hearts

2. Po'okela Street connects to Kea'ahala Road and is the only entry and exit for the residents of the 125 homes in the Castle Hills subdivision.

3. Po'okela Street is used for the overflow parking for users of:

District Park - for swimming competitions, football, and soccer games

District Court - police, attorneys, and the public park on both sides of Po'okela Street.

Windward Base Yard - does testing and issues commercial driver's licenses so there are flatbed trucks, semi-trailer trucks, dump trucks, tour buses, trolleys, and other commercial vehicles which use both sides of Po'okela Street to park while awaiting testing on these vehicles.

Hina Mauka - staff and attendees use both sides of Po'okela Street to park official service vehicles and privately owned vehicles.

I have personally witnessed over 75 vehicles parked on any given day.

Anchor Church members also park on Po'okela Street for special services or events when church parking fills up; church personnel have to direct traffic because of the volume of vehicles exiting onto Po'okela Street to coordinate the flow of traffic.

Residents and guests of Castle Hills will be adversely impacted by increased volume of parking issues; congestion; trash and noise in the early morning hours; trespassing.

Please consider if you were a homeowner in Castle Hills - would you want to face these issues that would adversely impact your neighborhood?

I support relocating the Haiku Stairs to Kualoa Ranch property.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Anzai

Hello! My name is Hannah Hampton, and I would like to ask that you preserve and keep the Haiku Stairs. They have so much history and hold a special place in many people's hearts. The Stairway to Heaven is special to me personally because my senior class and I were supposed to visit this area of Hawaii and it has been my dream to climb those stairs ever since I was little. However, this opportunity has been taken away from me due to COVID-19, and this dream cannot yet become a reality. I would love to still see these stairs in the future as it is still a huge goal of mine, however, I cannot do so if they are taken away, so I would again ask that you keep them so that many other people, me included, can enjoy their beauty for years to come.

I was diagnosed with Cervical Cancer and within that peroid fell under life threatening difficulties which post poned any trips I had planed including visiting the beautiful Haiku Stairs. I had made a promise to someone I lost a couple years ago that hiking the stair way would make me feel a little bit closer to him in heaven. So please do not tear them down . I understand the dangers of the stair way but i am sure we all would love to participate in any way possible to preserve them and make the hike safer.

To Whom It May Concern:

The Haiku Stairs is not just a place for people to hike and see beautiful views. Its not just a place to get exercise. While it is these things, its also a part of Hawaii's history. The bunker on top being used during the war with stories of soldier having to go to the top. Please consider finding a way to keep the stairs as an historical trail where the history can be taught and everyone can imagine what it would have been like to climb during those times while enjoying amazing views from the top. Consider charging fees (reduced for residents) to help pay for maintaining the structure. Close it on days that weather is bad but allowing it open on days its safe to use.

Thank you for considering these options.

I would like to submit testimony to the Board of Water Supply Board of Directors regarding Haiku Stairs. My testimony is below or attached.

The Haiku stairs represent a place where lives are changed through a challenge that is rewarded with a somewhat spiritual journey and ultimately the accomplishment of reaching the top.

It is rare that a hike could have this kind of effect. The feeling is hard to explain unless you've made the ascension and felt the chills, the fatigue and the fear. Not the fear of danger but the fear of not knowing if you have what it takes to get there.

Would i consider the stairs dangerous? To an extent yes as there are several damaged areas and the role the weather can play.

However this could all be handled with some oversight and training before people make the hike. Preparing hikers with knowledge and physical training would help tremendously. Controlling the number of people per day. Making qualifications for the hike are some ideas.

In closing, i would like to ask the powers that be to consider keeping the Haiku stairs in tact. Even if that means overseeing and operating them as a business or non-profit organization. There are solutions that could use the stairs as an opportunity to help Hawaii instead of as a detriment to society. It is truly a wonderful place that Hawaii should promote and share.

Thank you for your consideration,

Sincerely,

Matthew Good

Dear Board of Water Supply,

I have been a resident of Kailua for five years, and have been visiting Hawaii over the past 50 years. I write to urge you to restore the Haiku Stairs in order to allow safe access for locals and visitors over the coming years. When managed in a manner that does not negatively impact neighborhoods that have dealt with parking issues and trespass for years, it will afford access and accrue revenue that should allow for full cost of maintenance and management over the coming years. This extraordinary walk/climb would be a draw for tourists, resulting in revenue to the state not only for this, but for housing and food and local transport, all of which would support the local economy.

This opportunity, for the State and local economy, and visitors and locals alike, should not be lost. This is an opportunity for a win-win.

In 2017 we visited Oahu and my youngest boys aged 17 and 19 fulfilled the dream of a lifetime by going to the stairs. They went without our permission at 2:00 am. They made it to the first pad and returned by 7:00 am in time to go to Pearl Harbor. It changed them. The point is they had a crush on the stairs and only read about them online. After seeing them and hiking them they fell in love with them with their goal to one day return and complete the journey. I am a business man, a dreamer, and an adventurer. This seems like a no brainer. It can work. Financially it can work. But most importantly there are few adventures that have the allure and mystique of the stairway. I strongly support the continued use of the stairs in a legal and supervised way as a non profit organization...

There is no other experience quite like this in the world. Additionally I have taken mainland visitors and other guests up the stairs as well. No one was ever injured and all were as smitten by the experience as I have been. This is a tremendous state resource and with proper management should add to the list of singular experiences we Hawaiians get to enjoy. It's one of the most beautiful places on the island & it's not fair to take that away from us. Please charge people & take their information to allow them up there. Let's find a new place that people can park so it doesn't disturb a neighborhood. There are so many options. Make people sign a waiver that they will pay if they have to be rescued. Why is it that those that follow rules end up losing out because of those that can't follow the rules? It's just not right!

I Rae Shinsato vote for the stairs to be opened! Maybe with stipulations! Make people sign a waiver, limit only so many people a day! while charging a cost for them to go up!! thank you for listening to my testimony!

as a long time resident, I totally understand all aspects of the haiku stairs....
unsafe, cost taxpayers to have security not great for local residents that live in the area as many are very disrespectful in cutting through their properties etc. However, the stairs are incredible and offer a visual vantage point that is rare and extraordinary.
Perhaps there is a way to charge a small fee - have the stairs pay for itself and revenue generated. If it was legal, less impact on neighborhood homes, and then avoid the huge cost to take them down.
I truly hope a great solution for all can occur
mahalo for allowing the public to voice their views

Subject: Managed use of Haiku Stairs is the pono way to resolve this issue
Date: Sunday, April 26, 2020 2:12:51 PM

BWS is correct in not wanting this responsibility any longer. Their focus is in providing water to Oahu's residents, and should not dilute their resources in this way.

The residents in that area are also correct in not wanting hordes of hikers in their neighborhood.

We oppose the removal of Haiku Stairs, because turning it over to a third-party managed use group will allow the Stairs to continue to be a wonderful asset of Hawaii not only for its residents but also to visitors for generations to come. There is no place like it anywhere else in Hawaii, or the world.

I am in my 60's, and last hiked it in I believe 1987, when it was shut down due to construction on the H-3 Haiku portal tunnels and freeway. Before that happened, we accessed it, often weekly or monthly, through the then U.S. Coast Guard base access road with the Coast Guard base's permission, and there were zero issues from the military, fire rescue, and nearby residents. It was a win-win for all parties.

I would go up there tomorrow if it were newly opened to the public. Friends of Haiku Stairs is one group that has exciting and feasible guidelines for taking care of the Stairs and the land underneath it, as well as providing quiet, managed access.

Don't make a rash decision that will benefit only some; make a far-reaching decision that will bring everyone together, whether they choose to hike the Stairs or not.

I have been a resident of Kaneohe for 30 years, and have been visiting Hawaii over the past 40 years. I write to urge you to restore the Haiku Stairs in order to allow safe access for locals and visitors over the coming years. When managed in a manner that does not negatively impact neighborhoods that have dealt with parking issues and trespass for years, it will afford access and accrue revenue that should allow for full cost of maintenance and management over the coming years. This extraordinary walk/climb would be a draw for tourists, resulting in revenue to the state not only for this, but for housing and food and local transport, all of which would support the local economy.

This opportunity, for the State and local economy, and visitors and locals alike, should not be lost. This is an opportunity for a win-win.

Thank you for your consideration.

The Haiku stairs are a one-of-a-kind, historically significant and spectacular achievement. Removing the stairs would be akin to removing some of other historical landmarks related to the WWII era, and would be an absolute tragedy.

If managed by the proper authority, the stairs would be guaranteed to be a highlight attraction of the island and even increase BWS business without any liability. As an Oahu resident, this is an easy vote.

PLEASE VOTE NO TO THE REMOVAL OF THE STAIRS!!

The Haiku Stairs are a little bit of magic existing on the beautiful Island of Oahu. I would be absolutely devastated if these stairs were to be removed and I know many others who would be extremely sad to see them go. They are the Stairway to Heaven and one of the most thrill seeking adventures I have been on to date. It is a staple adventure of the Island. To all those listening:

I am writing to request the Haiku Stairs be preserved. They are a treasure and unique feature to the State of Hawaii and Oahu in particular. While I have not yet attempted to reach the stairs, it is definitely something on my bucket list before we move back to the mainland sometime in the coming year. I would very much be in favor of mandatory permits with different price points for residents and tourists. During these trying times with the Covid-19 pandemic, we, the residents of Oahu, need something uplifting, a promise of hope, a ray of sunshine. Please don't take this away. We've had so much taken from us lately. Please don't! Save the stairs. Repair, don't despair. Preserve and reserve for all.

Thank you for taking the time to read and really hear my comments and thoughts.

Please preserve Haiku Stairs. They are a historic landmark as important to Oahu as Diamond Head and Pearl Harbor.

Please turn them over to one of the several organizations that have promised to maintain and preserve the stairs.

Please do not allow our litigious society and annoyed neighbors to rob us of this important piece of history.

Permits can be given out and fees collected to gain money and to manage the number of people who climb the stairs each day.

Aloha Ka kou. My name is Bill Cooper and I am a life long citizen of Hawaii. I am also a lifelong hiker of Hawaii's trails, and student of Hawaii's history.

From when I was in high school in the early seventies I have hiked the stairs many times.

The stairs are a relatively easy hike because, you are just walking up stairs. They are very safe. But that is not to say that if a person has an underlying medical condition, like heart disease, etc, that they may not cause an issue, but that is the same risk for any other trail, or beach, or park in Hawaii.

The stairs offer a magnificent and unparalleled experience where one gets to be up close to Pali and Koolau Mountains, breathing fresh air and enjoying world class views. They are known internationally as one of the premier hikes in Hawaii.

The stairs themselves are of significant historical importance highlighting the incredible construction undertaken as a result of World War II.

At this time there is no need to pay millions of dollars to destroy them. The city has expressed an interest in preserving them and there is a plan in place whereby private enterprises can operate and regulate their usage so that the community at the trailhead are no longer impacted.

Why not let this option develop. There is no need to rush into destroying the stairs right away. If the City's plans don't work out, then the option of paying millions to destroy the stairs can be considered at that time.

Please protect the Stairs.

Thank you for allowing me to testify.

Bill Cooper

P.S. One last thought...have you thought about doing a crowdfunding campaign for the stairs' refurbishment? I bet you could find people VERY willing to contribute...especially if you offered say, $20 passes to go on the stairs if the goal is met. I'd probably chip in $1,000 myself just to see them preserved...

Hi there, I learned recently this is where to send feedback on my thoughts about the Haiku stairs. Please find attached and read my letter from 2017. I feel just as strongly now as I did then.

If the stairs are destroyed, it will mean taking something amazing from us - taking some of the best views from the community and the world.

If you ask yourselves why people continue to risk arrest, injury, and even death to catch glimpses from these stairs, the answer is clear: they have some of the best views on all of Oahu, Hawaii, the US, and perhaps even the world.

I understand the complexity of trying to get these stairs to an entity who can manage them and give them the attention they deserve. But, please, do not let red tape and organizational charter take precedence over natural beauty and the interest of the islands.

The Haiku stairs could and should be a "must do" on Oahu, one that rightfully focuses on the natural beauty instead of fancy hotels and boutique shopping. Please let this piece of our legacy continue.

Hi there -

I'm sure I'm but one of the many many comments I'm sure you'll receive on this issue, and I'm not usually much of activist, but I really wanted to be sure to try and have my voice heard on this particular issue.

This looks to be one of the prettiest hikes in all of Hawaii, and you know that's saying something. I can't say for sure because unlike so many people, I decided to respect the law and not attempt the climb in the hopes it would one day reopen. But though I am sure the countless pictures and stories online don't do it justice, even those are breathtaking. This has been at the top of my list even when I first dreamed of travelling to Hawaii, and it would mean the world to me to be able to do it one day.

You can tell how amazing this treasure is by just how many people are willing to brave fines to try and experience it. Almost everyone I know who lives on the island has either attempted to climb it or has several friends who have.

Another reason to preserve what we have is that projects of the scale of constructing the steps are extremely hard. They came about under the military, who had high budgets, extensive land rights, and little need for approvals. Now that they're here, we have the results of a momentous endeavor. But can you imagine trying to secure the land rights, money, environmental and cultural approvals, etc. to do anything like this today?

If you tear them down, once they're gone, there is no going back. The amount of effort, money, and oversight it would take to ever reconstruct these or do any sort of similar-scale project is likely beyond any hope of becoming reality. You'll be removing them from us forever.

There's sort of a poetic element to its history, too. How often does military infrastructure yield such a stunning natural experience?

Please don't destroy such a landmark. Whether it stays under your management, a private company, or another governmental organization, please do what it takes to do the right thing and retain public access to this beautiful, wonderful experience.

I for one would gladly pay an admission fee, as would my family. Even if it were $15, $20, even more, I know we would. That's $100+ a year just from us, and I'm sure the visitors each year would number in the thousands. Let's say you got even 1% of the 5 million visitors to Oahu each year. That's 50,000 people. Set the fee at $15, and that's $750,000 earned in a single year...which should cover maintenance, staffing, and upkeep of the stairs. (Honestly, that is a VERY conservative estimate, too, considering the Polynesian cultural center draws nearly a million visitors a year, and even Matsumoto's over 300,000) Someone should be able to make that break even, or more likely, very profitable.

Put another way, $750k is almost as much as it cost to refurbish them in 2003-2005, earned every single year. It's clearly better than the $170k liability BWS has now. If you made it profitable, you could even consider putting the money back into the system and reducing water costs for all of us. It would be great to use your assets as a way to bring costs down for consumers and businesses, even though running the stairs is not your core business.

I do not know why city council did not approve the transfer to DPR in 2005. Without knowing that information, it would be difficult to say what the best solution is, but reopening the stairs via DPR seems from the outside like the ideal outcome. Reopening the stairs via a private entity or another community organization would also be a happy outcome.

Whatever works, my biggest goal is that they be preserved. That seems like the result that is in the best interest of everyone, and makes use of a wonderful experience instead of destroying it.

One example of a different but related situation I remember from my time in San Francisco was Camp Mather, which used to be owned by San Francisco's water department and used for workers. When it was no longer necessary, rather than divesting itself of this valuable asset, they turned it into an asset for the community via their own DPR. I'm not sure if that's useful in your case, but it certainly made me proud of my community at the time.

One only needs to Google image search "Haiku stairs" to realize how much of a mistake removing this landmark would be.

You have an opportunity to reopen one of the landmarks of the island and make a prime experience for both locals and visitors. It demonstrates the natural beauty of our island in a phenomenal way. Please, do whatever it takes to keep this around.

-Chris

Re-open Haiku Stair. For decades the question whether to open or demolish Haiku Stairs has been in residents minds, particularly hikers, but also locals and visitors who want to see the magnificent views overlooking Windward's coastline and valleys. Besides its international notoriety, Haiku Stairs should be preserved because of its historic value. Built in 1942 it played a pivotal role in World War II as a U.S. Navy radio facility. Moreover, getting rid of the stairs won't stop people from accessing it from other points, creating a worse liability for the city. Government officials know this.

For years residents have come up with various plans to make the hike legal and safe while addressing concerns of the nearby subdivision. The Kāneʻohe Neighborhood Board resolved in May 17, 2017 to support reopening the stairs under a controlled and managed access plan that respects the privacy rights of residents of the Ha'ikū Village neighborhood. With some creativity it could also be a source of income for the city.

Let's move forward with proposed plans to re-open Haiku Stairs and save one of the world's top 10 best hikes on the National Geographic Endangered Trails List.

Dear Hawaii Board of Water Supply,

SAVE THE STAIRS!!

I understand the stairway has long outlived it's original purpose to access the radar array, but it has become an iconic once-in-a-lifetime hike for so many people. Yes, there are risks on the hike - but there are risks on any hike or even stepping off the curb. I admit that I personally have made the hike and it was absolutely a personal triumph in my book. It is one heck of an adventure that you do need to be prepared for. And yes, often people who are not prepared attempt and fail. Those who require a rescue from the mountainside should by all means be severely fined and pay for the rescue service without question. That would seriously curtail the number of un-prepared hikers if they are aware of not only the physical risk, but also the financial.

I am aware of a handful of different hiking clubs or social groups that have made attempts to "manage" the stairs in the past, and many still would be willing to do so. I am also aware that the residents of the neighborhood at the bottom of the stairs have expressed anger at the commotion in their quiet pocket. There would have to be some careful considerations and perhaps special easements created for legitimate and safe access. But those options deserve honest consideration with the various clubs that want to take that responsibility.

SAVE THE STAIRS and accept bids / offers / plans for either partnering with one or a few of those clubs to manage them. Hopefully a partnership with private industry or private groups could lead to a betterment of the the hike.

I know this issue has come up before, but I honestly am not aware of the BWS actually opening a RFP and going through the process to find a workable solution.

SAVE THE STAIRS and let the process work.

Aloha.

I would like to make a testimony for the haiku stairs. I've followed these stairs since I was a child, and visited the state of HI multiple times from Alaska. When we decided to move to Oahu a couple years ago, we were eager to do the stairs. But we didn't, because they're illegal. Instead, we enjoyed them from our car on our drive to the East side. I've done over 75+ hikes on this island. Cleaning up each hike I go on with trash bags, picking up trash, TP, shoes, cigarette butts. I have respect for this state and the for the land. As do many others. I think the only thing that truly bothers me about the stairs is the neighborhood people have to go through. It bothers the locals and this is their home. They deserve to live in peace without disturbances from hikers/tourists. Now I know that the base of the haiku stairs is down a restricted road that only BWS can use. If you opened this hike, you could create a small parking area for hikers to park at, with the money you saved from repairing, not tearing...This would allow you to limit the amount of people hiking the stairs daily, and you'd have a license plate number if anything was to happen. You'd have happy locals, happy hikers, and y'all would be happier because you'd have all the info you'd need. Hawaii strives off of tourism. If you google "hiking Oahu" the stairs are the first thing to pop up. For many reasons! The name, the view, the history, the challenge. People come from all over this world to hike the stairs, people would rather pay $1000 dollars than NOT hike the stairs, people would pay money to climb the stairs....so why don't you come up with a plan to help Hawaii thrive more.....make you some extra money....and have the security of knowing who's hiking the stairs. You could fix the stairs, which is cheaper than tearing them down...and use the saved money to create a tall fence or a barrier around the water tower at the top to protect the water. It's truly a win:win situation. Create a permit for people to purchase to climb the stairs. The permit should include exact date of hiking, # of companions, a phone #, full names. I believe this would help you guys monitor who is going up, so if there is an issue, you're able to track down the person/persons who created an issue. I think the saddest thing about y'all wanting to tear down the stairs is the history to be lost with it. I'm from a small town in Alaska, and Alaskans never rid of our history, regardless of the issues it may cause. They simply find a way to make it work for our people, our state, and themselves. Because the land is ours too, and we should be educated in the things that happen. I'm sure you guys have had this idea emailed to you 10000 times, but with all seriousness, I hope you understand how important the stairs are to Hawaii in many ways. From the history of the navy building them, to the amount of tourism it attracts to this island to help it thrive. We've seen through this pandemic that without tourism, Hawaii definitely struggles. Please consider all the above statements. This could be an amazing thing for Hawaii if you'd allow it to be. I hope that one day I will be able to hike the stairs legally, and safely, without breaking the law. Mahalo for reading.

Stay safe and healthy during this crazy time.

People around the world can live "tour" it virtually, accompanied by a narrative history by local talent, for those not lucky enough to visit Oahu.

The Haiku Stairs have long been a destination for healthy outdoors people.
